The Evening Chit-Chat

By MURDOCK

"Yes I got him to take it down. He made quite a fuss about it, but he did it finally. You can just better believe that I'm not going to have any other woman's picture in my husband's room."

The speaker, who is a pretty newly wed, preened herself triumphantly.

She had had her way. She was happy.

I wonder how long she will be happy. I wonder how long it will be before the tendency she showed in that little incident will bring thunder clouds scudding into the cloudless sky of her bridal existence.

The picture she "got him to take down" was a little photograph of a boyhood sweetheart. Six years before he even met the woman who is now his wife, that sweetheart was married. But, in memory of his happy childhood, he has always kept that little picture of his first love. It surely means no more—if as much—to him as the "D" he won at college and still wears so proudly on his sweater, or the baseball bat which he still cherishes because it was with it that he helped to win that great game of sixteen years ago.

Poor, foolish, little Mrs. Newlywed.

She is one of those unfortunate women—unfortunate both for themselves and their husbands—whose ideal of marriage is that a wife should be not only the most beloved being on earth to her husband but the only person whom he cares anything about.

She is jealous of his dog, his mother, his men friends, his club, his business, his golf, his childhood, and even of his possible widowhood.

She is above all, most unwilling that he should ever admire any quality, no matter how fine, in any other woman than herself.

Poor, short-sighted creature not to realize that narrowed interests make narrow men and that while she is trying to make what she considers an ideal husband, she is also trying to spoil a worthwhile man.

She may find unhappiness in failure.

She is just as apt to find it in success.

I know a woman whose husband is a great enthusiast on lawn tennis. One of his wife's friends is also very fond of that sport. When she comes to the house, or whenever they meet her elsewhere, the husband immediately devotes himself to her and talks of tennis. Sometimes he takes her to tournaments, and often they spend whole afternoons playing.

His wife is not strong enough to play tennis and is not really interested in the game, although, for her husband's sake, she has learned to talk intelligently about it. People sometimes wonder if she is not jealous of the woman who can meet him on this ground. Once, someone was foolish enough to carry this suspicion to her.

She just laughed.

"My husband and I," she said, "have a hundred interests in common—our babies, our books, our music, our home, and so on. Am I to be afraid to let him share just one interest with another woman? I know my husband loves me and admires me more than any other woman on earth. Am I to be jealous because he enjoys and admires another woman's tennis playing? I think that would be simply childish."

If there were more women with this attitude toward married life, I feel sure there would be that many more happy marriages to confute the cynic.

Don't you?

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examination and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar afflictions incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 31 cent stamps to cover cost of mailing copy or, in cloth binding for 50 cents. Fads and Fashions.

Small white felt hats in "boyish" styles, worn without any trimming, will take the place of the knitted caps of a year ago.

Quantities of tulle or maline are employed as a millinery trimming—pleatings of tulle in pure white on black velvet hats.

Hand-tucked tulle blouses are worn with silk suits. They are made quite simple, trimmed only with tulle or net jabots or pelisses.

Little scarfs of taffeta are edged with short silk fringe and are worn with dark or white and black striped afternoon gowns.

So fashionable is lace that it is almost the exception to find a really elegant toilette without some lace, many of them being entirely of lace.

All hairdressings are low and flat. Absolutely no pompadours or elevations of any kind are worn. The hair is dressed to make the head appear small.

Some new effects are being shown in marabout feathers, notably in delicate combinations of black and white and pale with a shadow of black.

Almost without exception, the embroideries are in open English patterns, like the Madeira work. There is a perfect craze for this kind of embroidery.

Sleeves of kimono type, with lower part set on. This is either simple or in drapery form. Simple waists and afternoon dresses often have long sleeves.

Attractive felt hats in supple form are shown to wear with white serge suits. These are trimmed with a narrow ribbon bow or a rosette of the floating draperies.

The new "tam" crowns may be square, perfectly round or full and irregular in shape. A handsome imported model had a full "tam" crown of chamois attached to a brim of seal-brown velvet.

The full explanation of the continuance of the narrow skirt is that, with the continuation of the Oriental idea, and the development of designs taken from the dress of the Moslem countries it must remain.

Some extremely attractive suits of white serge and serge de soie are being shown. The double skirt, opened at the side, is exploited in the majority of cases. White silk fringe is taking the place of silk braid.

Sometimes there seems to be an effort to increase the size of the waist by belting the figure just at the Makes Hair Grow.

McMurdo & Co. have an invigorator that will grow hair or money back.

The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember, it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

SALVIA is sold by McMurdo & Co. under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" (Latin for sage) is on every bottle.

thickest point, and, even then, belting it loosely. There are no more tight waistbands in the fashionable world.

Neckwear is prominently favoring Cluny. Round collars and small sailor collars of real Cluny are in demand for wear in the new one-piece dresses of satin, serge, etc., that close down the front, and fichus and large collars are lavishly trimmed with this lace.

Entire foundation robes of white lace are veiled with dark-coloured chiffons and marquisettes, notably navy blue and black. Again, a handsome costume of white lace will be seen with a scarf drapery of colored chiffon. The colors most noted in such combinations are royal purple, king's blue, chartrouse yellow and emerald green.

Ornamental bands embroidered in colored wools are used on smart hats. Pompons of wool or feathers are also seen. A new cabochon which suggests a large and rather elongated sunflower is made entirely of white wool and makes an attractive trimming to be placed at the side of the crown or to hold a turned-back brim in place.

GLEVER SCHEME OF SMUGGLING DISCOVERED.

Man and Woman Arrested at New York and Gems Valued at $50,000 Seized.

New York, Sept. 25.—A rubber stocking and a petticoat with twenty-five pockets in it are the means by which Rudolph Newman, a Chicago jeweler, and his wife are alleged to have tried to smuggle diamonds and other precious stones and jewellery into this country to-day. The couple arrived on the steamer New Amsterdam of the Holland-American Line accompanied by two small children. Newman when arraigned furnished $2,000 bail, while Mrs. Newman was paroled on her own recognizance on account of her two children, who needed her care.

There has not been such a flagrant case of alleged smuggling reported at the Custom House in months past, in fact, since the rigid system adopted by Collector Loeb went into effect.

In the rubber stocking which Newman wore tied about the lower portion of his body, the customs officials found a quantity of uncut diamonds valued at $1,500, while the pockets of his wife's petticoat contained numerous packages of small jewellery, including a number of garnets and other stones said to be worth about $50,000.

All the jewels were seized. Had it not been for the fact that Newman was under suspicion because of his frequent trips to Europe, the jewels would have probably remained undetected, the officials said, so artfully were they concealed.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms Can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion, I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at
