WHERE ANARCHISTS FLY FOR REFUGE

[From The World's Outlook, in Wives and Daughters for April.] I From The World's Cutlook, in Wives and Daughters for April.]

The air of spring seems to have stirred the Anarchists of Paris, Madrid and othes European cities into fiendish activity. A few days ago bombs were laid at several residences of public men in Paris, as well as at a number of public buildings, and the gay capital was in a state of intense excitement. Happily, the excitement was much greater than the real damage. Owing to the vigilance of the authorities, the danger was reduced to a minimum, though the duty of protecting life and property is supremely difficult when the assailant is an Amerchist and the weapon dynamite. The leader of the party was arrested and many of his followers hunted out of the city. In Madrid a similar attempt was made, though on a smaller scale, and there is not much doubt that the Anarchists of other cities intended to act in concert with those in the French and Spanish capitals. It is known that a general atampede of the fraternity has been made for London, and that the authorities there are on the look-out for the knights of the bomb. These desperadees try to deter and then
