HAY WAS WET AND SALES SLOW

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Friday, March 27. There were 20 loads of hay offered at the market today, and as they were in a wet condition, sales were very slow. Had the weather been fine there would have been a slow sale, as there have been a large number of loads offered this week. It is said that the packers are only paying $11 per ton for hay in the barns, which is considerably lower than was paid last fall, when $15 per ton was the to $5 40; winter wheat patents, $3 45. ruling price. The prices paid for hay today ranged from $11 to $15 50 per ton.

Straw was dull, at $7 per ton. Oats sold at $1.56 per cwt; they were purchased by the dealers; private parties offered $1 58 per cwt, but could not secure any of the loads, the holders preferring to take the lower price rather than deliver any distance from the mar
