Want 'Fair Wage' Clause In Building Contracts of New University

THAT the construction of the new Western University building directly north of the city limits, should be governed by the "fair wage" clause is the contenion of the trades unions, whose proached the university's authorities with respect to the same.

The latter have communicated with Ottawa, asking for definite information as to the so-called "fair wage" clause. When the subject was first broached the pinion was also expressed that this question was purely a mat-ter for the contractors to decide. It was reasoned that they alone should have the say as to whom they shall employ and under what terms.

The labor men contend, however, pointing out that all that will be necessary is for the university officials to make sure that the "fair wage" clause is included in the specifications, and the contractors would, therefore, be ompelled to act accordingly.

"That at an early date, preferably
Sunday the 8th of January, the situation be presented in the churches as fully as possible, requesting the people generally to assist the city in its under-taking to provide employment by proceeding at once to such building and improvement operations as they themselves have under contemplation. And believing that to a large extent the present distress is not so much due to financial stringency as to moral causes, such as, want of confidence on the part of the purchasing public, and, lack of public-spirited enterprise, we would therefore urge the people generally to assist the government in its program of stimulating business through a buy-ing and selling campaign.

"We urge that such presentation be followed up in all the churches:
