The question of the reliability of George Seward's 100 yards in 91 sec. is again being discussed. The local celebrity flew off, but before he had gone 60 yards. With just as much reason it might be as used in the time to come that Hanlan's 19 04 for three miles at Point of Pines should be accepted as a record because he beat all his opponents with ridiculous ease and occasionally indulged in monkey tricks.

France Trembling.

From the Pail Mall Gazette. An Englishman who recently returned from Paris, where he met several of the leaders of French social democrats, said that he found very general, among the working classes especially, a vague feeling that France was within a short distance of a revolution. The united efforts of the Bonapartists, monarchists and anarchists, it was believed, would result before long in a general upset. As for the workingmen a general upset. As for the workingmen themselves, there was a singular indifference to the form of government. Another wide spread feeling among the Parisian wide spread feeling away with Germany was ouvriers was that a war with Germany was imminent; they did not exactly know how, but they believed that France would attack imminent; they did not exactly know how, but they believed that France would attack her former conqueror and be soundly beaten.
