The Street Arab's Trust.

The following pathetic story was told by John B. Gough: "A story is told of a street boy in London who had had both legs broken by a dray passing over them."

"Bobby, did you never hear about Jesus?"

"No; I never heard of him."

"Bobby, I went to a mission school once, and they told us that Jesus would take you to heaven when you died, and you'd never hunger any more, and no more pain, if you axed him."

"I couldn't ask such a great big gentleman as he to do any thing for me. He wouldn't stop to speak to a boy like me."

"But he'll do all that if you asked him."

"How can I ask him if I don't know where he lives, and how can I get there when both of my legs are broken?"

"Bobby, they told me at the mission-school as how Jesus passed by; teacher says as he goes round. How do you know but what he might come round to this hospital this very night? You'd know Him if you was to see Him."

"But I can't keep my eyes open. My legs feel so awful bad. Doctor says I'll die."

"Bobby, hold up your hand and he'll know what you want when he passes by."

"They got the hand up; it dropped. They tried again; it slowly fell back. Three times he raised the little hand only to let it fall. Bursting into tears he said:

"I give it up."

"Bobby, lend me yer hand, said the other little fellow; 'put yer elbow on my pillow; I can do without it.'

"So one hand was propped up. And when they came in the morning the boy lay dead, his hand still propped up for Jesus. You may search the world and you cannot find a grander illustration of simple trust than that of the little boy who had been to mission-school but once."—Selected.
