

pitals of Paris.—7. Bell on Miasm.—8. Holcombe's Letter to Dewees.—9. Merritt on Bilious Fever of Virginia.—Cases.—1. Fahnestock's case of Aneurism of the Bronchial Artery.—2. Church on Inversion of the Uterus.—3. Pithian's case of apparent Superfætation.—Reviews.—1. Blane's Letter to the East India Company on the Cholera of the East Indies.—European Intelligence.—American Intelligence.

LA BELLE ASSEMBLEE.

In the new series of this elegant and highly patronized work, commenced in January, 1825, the great object of the proprietors is to form, by its embellishments, a Picture Gallery of the Female Nobility of Great Britain, and of ladies distinguished by rank, fashion, and talent. In their progress they have been eminently successful. La Belle Assemblée is now the only periodical of note enriched by portraits; consequently, the spirited and beautiful engravings which it every month displays, after the most eminent artists of the age, render it, by the exquisite style of their execution, and the elevated interest of their subjects, at once splendid and unique. In addition to its magnificent portraits, (each of which is alone intrinsically worth twice the cost of the number,) in all that relates to the various pursuits of the Fashionable World, in all that appertains to the cultivation of elegant and polite accomplishments, in all that peculiarly belongs to the empire of taste, the work is also regarded as an indispensable requisite for the drawing room, the boudoir, and the library.

Volume I. contains the Portraits of Viscountess Belgrave, from a painting in the collection of the Marquess of Strafford, by Sir Thomas Lawrence, P. R. A.

The Countess of Denbigh, from a painting by Kirkby, in the possession of the Earl of Denbigh.

Lady Ducie, from a painting by Kirkby, in the possession of Lady Fielding.

Viscountess Ebrington, from a miniature by Linnel, in the collection of the Earl of Harrowby.

Lady Eleanor Lowther, from a miniature by Miss Kendrick, in the possession of the Earl of Harborough.

Miss Jane Porter, from a painting by Harlowe, in the possession of Sir R. Kerr Porter.

Volume II. contains the Portraits of

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, from a portrait by Dawc, R. A. in Kensington Palace.

Lady Alicia Peel, from a miniature by Mrs. Green, in the possession of the Countess of Cassillis.

Lady Grantham, from a family miniature by Miss Kendrick.

Countess of Charleville, from a family painting by Hamilton.

Lady Emily Fielding, from a painting by Kirkby, in the possession of Lady Fielding.

Lady Emily Pusey, from a painting by Kirkby, in the possession of the Earl of Carnarvon.

Volume III. will contain the Portraits of
The Dowager Duchess of Richmond, from a family miniature.

The Countess of Surrey, from a painting by Sir Thomas Lawrence, in the possession of the Duke of Norfolk.

The Countess of Jersey, from a painting by Sir Thomas Lawrence.

Lady Georgiana Agar Ellis, from a painting by Jackson.

The Hon. Mrs. Thomas Hope, from a painting by Sir Thomas Lawrence.

The work is printed on superfine royal paper, with a handsome type, and is got up, in all respects, in the first style of modern improvement. Price $10 per annum.

DRAMATIC COSTUME.

Costume of Shakspeare's Historical Tragedy of King John.

Costume of Shakspeare's Historical Play of King Henry the Fourth, Part First and Second.

The ENGLISH SPY, Characteristic, Satirical, and Humorous; comprising scenes and portraits drawn from the life, illustrative of the present age; containing anecdotes and notices of royal, noble, and distinguished living characters, combined with the eminent, the eccentric, and the notorious; and embracing the peculiar lingual localisms and customs of Eton, Oxford, Cambridge, Cheltenham, Bath, Brighton, and London, in the higher and more polished scenes of life. By Bernard Blackmantle, M. A. The illustrations, by Robert Cruikshank, consist of three coloured plates, besides numerous wood engravings to each part. Scenes in real life represented by portraits of distinguished eccentric and notorious living persons in the metropolis, and other parts of England, actually drawn upon the spot. The work has been printed and prepared for publication in a style of splendour worthy the present improved state of the arts.—24 Nos. published, price 87½ cents each.