

Are three of our leaders in men's and young men's Overcoats for this season. Judging by the advance sale up to date we have struck it right in the matter of styles and prices. The "Beatty" is strictly a young man's coat, semibody-fitting, velvet collar, 2-button, double breasted, with piped cuffs. Priced at $12.00, $15.00 and $18.00.

The "College" is a slightly larger built model, with wide lapels and velvet collar, form fitting, a typical College Boys' Coat. The Slip-on has a wide range of patterns, and has a style distinctive from all other coats. Our new models have a little less skirt room, full straight hanging back, with wide collar and lapels, truly a striking garment, moderately priced.

We hear nothing but praise on all sides for our overcoats this season, and they are truly a splendid showing of nifty garments.

CANADA'S PREMIER VISITED HAMILTON

Sir Robert Borden Royally Received by Great Crowd in

MESSAGE TO DOMINION

Allies Will Win, But Great Sacrifices Must Be Made, He Declared.

HAMILTON, Wednesday, Sept. 29.—
Hamilton citizens will long remember the splendid patriotic meeting which was held in the armories last evening when the Right Hon. Sir Robert L. Borden, premier of Canada, delivered an eloquent address. in which he told of the splendid fight which has been waged against the Germans by the allies, and of the great preparations that have been made by Britain since the commencement of the war fourteen months ago, whereby the latest war equipment and a large army of highly trained soldiers will be placed in the field in the near future, to overthrow the Germans and give freedom to the entire world.

Sir Robert arrived from London at 7 o'clock, and was tendered a civic reception by Mayor Walters, members of the board of control and the city council. A body guard, composed of the Second Dragoons and the 13th Royal Regiment band, accompanied the parade from the depot to the armories, where Sir Robert inspected the body guard and the members of the Hamilton Depot Battalion, who handled the crowds at the armories. A luncheon was the served at the Royal Hotel, after which the premier was taken to the armories, where between four and the city council the armories, where between four and the tother was taken to the armories, where between four and the city to the armories, where between four and the council to the armories, where between four and the city to the armories, where between four and the city to the armories, where between four and the city to the armories, where between four and the city to the council to the armories of th HAMILTON, Wednesday, Sept. 29.-

A luncheon was the served at the Royal Hotel, after which the premier was taken to the armories, where between four and five thousand people had assembled When the premier entered the building he was given a rousing reception, the cheering lasting for several minutes.

Mayor Walters' Address.

Mayor Walters in a short introductory address stated mat the citizens of Hamilton were greatly honored by the visit of Sir Rohert and Lady Borden. especially address stated that the citizens of Hamilton were greatly honored by the visit of Sir Robert and Lady Borden, especially on the anniversary of the birthday of General Sir John French. He said Sir Robert had been bearing the burden of a young nation since the commencement of the war, which was no easy task, but that he measured up to the great task set before him. He had shown his interest in the contest in which Britain is now engaged and in the soldiers of Canada by visiting England and the trenches in Europe to give to them a message of courage from the Canadian people.

Great Recepton for Premier.

Another great ovation greeted Sir Robert when he arose to speak, and for several minutes he was unable to commence because of cheering, clapping of hands and stamping of feet.

"For nearly 14 months our empire has been at war, and it must be borne upon our minds more than ever before that it is for a just cause, and a cause, which in the end must surely triumph," said Sir Robert. "I do not need to urge that point upon you. No statesmen ever strove more to prevent the war than those at the head of affairs, and especially Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs. War came and we were not prepared."

"My mission to Great Britain and Wrence was to learn how these prepara-

"My mission to Great Britain and France was to learn how these preparations had gone on during the past 14 months and how they are to go on in the future. When it became evident that Britain would have to transport soldiers to the field of battle, not by the thousands, but by millions, it appeared as if the wheels were creeping.

More Than Match for Enemy.

"The magnitude of the war has now been grasped by men responsible for the affairs of the nation, and if not today, we will in the near future, go into the field more fully equipped and on equal, if not a better, basis than our enemies. I wish to convey to the people of Canada that the soldiers of the British Isles, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Africa and India consider themselves equal, if not more than a match, man to man, for the enemy."

Sir Robert paid a splendid tribute

Sir Robert paid a splendid tribute to the Canadian soldiers at present in training at the Niagara camp. London and other points thruout the Dominion. In physique, courage, resourcefulness and cheerfulness they were equal to any body of men engaged in the struggle in Europe.

The premier referred to his visit to the trenches, the City of Ypres and Hill 60, where nearly 120,000 soldiers of the allies are buried, and described the horrible and cruel warfare waged by the Germans.

New Army to Bring Victory.

"The splendid spirit ef patriotism and unity which has been shown by the Canadian people has enabled the Canadian Government to accomplish what no other government could have done under the circumstances," said. Sir Robert. "When the four thousand soldiers now at Niagara under orders to leave for the front arrive in France, Canada will have sent more men than Britain sent to the Crimean war.

"It is claimed that this is a decadent

Crimean war.

"It is claimed that this is a decadent nation, but one only needs to see the fine British soldiers and their splendid spirit of courage and resourcefulness to know they are not of a decadent nation. When the rest of Lord Kitchener's army, which is now being organized and environment. When the rest of Lord Kitchener's army, which is now being organized and equipped takes its place at the front I venture to say that you could find no better army in the field, and I believe that this army will be able to bring the war to a triumphant close. From the British soldiers at the front I bring no message of desperation or gloom as to the outcome. When it is considered that the Germans spent as to the outcome. When it is considered that the Germans spent years in preparing for this war, and that hey are using unheard-of and horrible

they are using unheard-of and horrible means to overthrow other mations by their huge army, we must have most intense convictions that the cause for which we are fighting will be victorious. In conclusion, Sir Robert said: "This war will be brought to the end for which we all desire and hope. It has brought a spirit of self-sacrifice, unity, forbearance and mutual concession, which in years to come will have a great influence on Canada and the empire." n Canada and the empire

During her stay here, Lady Borden was intertained by Mrs. P. D. Crerar and Mrs. Chester S. Walters. She attended the meeting, at the conclusion of which the visitors were taken for a motor trip round the city before departing for awa at ten o'clock.

Hamilton Dissatisfied. According to the arrangements made by the military authorities, Hamilton is to have only one battalion quartered here for the winter months. At a conference of the authorities at Niagara camp, it was decided that only the 86th Hamilton Machine Cur. Exterior Machine Gun Battalion would be located t the local armories, and there is no ossibility of getting any of the batteries, s was anticipated. The batteries will be quartered at the Exhibition trounds in Toronto, despite the strenuous efforts of the mayor and other local officials. Considerable dissatisfaction has already been expressed over the announcement that the batteries will winter in Toronto, on the grounds that the 31st Battery is largely composed of Hamilton men. while the 40th, or Hamilton Sportsmen's Battery, is entirely a Hamilton battery. Yesterday a special committee was appointed to wait on Allan Royce, the owner of the 32 acres, with a view to finding out just what rights the railway company have in connection with the site.

Commissioner Chambers recommended to the committee the purchase of land for a civic nursery for the growing of trees required on the city streets and in the parks. He suggested the purchase of between 40 and 50 acres near Brampton at about $500 or $600 per acre, pointing out that the land in this locality was particularly well adapted for such a purpose. Ald. Ball suggested that a portion of the jail farm be used, but the commissioner did not think well of the idea, remarking that the land was entirely unsuited for the growing of young Hereafter the committee will meet

Bloor Street Grading.

At the continued meeting of the works committee yesterday, enquiry was made as to why the grading of West Bloor street is not being continued. In April last the city council decided to go on with the grading on the north side of Bloor street and west of Quebec avenue, and the property own-ers interested gave 20 feet off their frontages for the purpose. At that time it was estimated that the work would cost something over $93,000, and yes-terday Commissioner Harris said that the work had not been continued because there were no funds. It will take approximately $44,000 to complete the work, and the committee decided to ask the board of control to provide he necessary funds.

the movement is not serious and only advanced with a view to get some degree of equality from the city.

Commenting on the tremendous increase in the assessment in North Toronto S. J. Douglas, a former member of the old council, said last night: "The assessment department apparently have no well defined line of action, and if we may judge from what we see and hear the whole thing is done in a haphazard manner. In my own case," said Mr. Douglas, "I have a store property on Yonge street north of Broadway avenue which is assessed at $150 a foot. A mile and a quarter south in Deer Park there which is assessed at $150 a foot. A mile and a quarter south in Deer Park there are men engaged in highly remunerative business whose property is assessed at $100. The Rosedale Hotel is also reported to be assessed at $100 or $150 a foot. There is practically no redress, for when one appeals against the assessment he is subjected to a lot of cross-questioning, and in the end the assessors' figures are confirmed."

Others Think Same.

Dozens of other north end men voiced the same complaint, all objecting to what they called the inequality of the whole thing, and charging that there was no proportion between the figures obtaining in North Toronto and other parts of the city.

no proportion between the figures obtaining in North Toronto and other parts of the city.

Ano her source of complaint is the abominable car service maintained on lower Yonge street, and which the recent decision of the appellate court, in the minds of many north enders, removed further than ever from settlement. Commenting on the new situation which has arisen and in view of the decision of the city to appeal the case to the privy councit in England, Ald. Ball said last night that he was strongly in favor of allowing the city to go ahead and put down the tracks between the present northern terminus and Farnham avenue, letting the Toronto Street Railway operate it if they would, and if not, operate it as a municipal franchise and let the whole question of legal rights be subsequently fourth.

The enormous saving which would be effected in putting down the tracks thru the subway at the present time coupled other consideration.

A motion along this line introduced by Ald. Ramsden at the last session of the city council met with a fair measure of support and will be reintroduced by Ald. Ramsden, Ald. Ball or some other member of the city council at the next meeting. Scores of prominent business men in Deer Park, North Toronto, and, in fact, all conversant with the situation, and who are daily inconvenienced by the long walk, give expression to the same views, and while anxious that the city's rights shall be maintained, demand that some commonsense solution of the present trouble be found.
