BRING SHOTGUN TO SCARE FLIERS

Farmers Indignant When Aviators Fly Low to Frighten Them.

BOYS ARE PULLING FLAX

Machines Were Not Ready to Start at Willowdale Yesterday.

An accident to an aviator who dropped with his machine in a nearby field was an irresistible attraction for half a dozen boys who were starting to pull flax on the provincial government lands at Willowdale yesterday afternoon.

The boys had been placed on the field by the flax and loam branch of the department of agriculture, and an experiment with a new flax pulling machine was to have been conducted under the supervision of R. J. Hutchinson, Dominion Government expert, but as the machine could not be got ready on time the experiment had to be postponed until some time today.

A number of farmers from the surrounding district gathered at the government flax field in the afternoon and were somewhat disappointed when the demonstration had to be postponed. They had, however, more excitement than they were looking for while they were in the fields.

Some of them had come quite a distance in their motor cars and had left their machines standing in the open fields. As the farmers strolled through the flax a couple of aviators apparently took great pleasure in swooping down all about a sudden and then rising and skimming over them just a few feet from their heads.

In one instance in particular an elderly farmer was forced to drop to his hands and knees to escape being struck by the wings of the huge airplane as it came buzzing over his head.

Farmers Were Indignant. The farmers, who were on the government land, were most indignant at the actions of those two flyers, and the numbers of their machines were secured in order to report the matter to the military authorities.

One farmer openly threatened to bring out a shotgun the next time he is in that vicinity and use it on any of the aviators who are working in the fields that they are not only a menace to the farmers' lives but also risk striking a fence with the children, after losing their way, fell down under a tree and spent the night there.

The father, with the assistance of the police, organized a search party and the woods were searched all night with no result. After the search was given up the children found their way home the next morning in time for breakfast, highly clad over their adventure.

WILL ENTERTAIN SOLDIERS. This afternoon, Col. H. C. Bickford, commanding Toronto military district, and Mrs. Bickford will entertain one hundred of the returned soldiers of the College street military convalescent home hospital at a garden party at Ranelagh Park, their home.

No pains have been spared in preparations for the soldiers' entertainment during the afternoon and evening. A dainty supper will be served on the spacious lawns.

TRAINING OF SOLDIER CURBS MARCHING SONGS

Behind British Lines in France, June 31.—The picture which portrays the British soldier as continually vocal while he tramps along the roads of France is overdrawn.

The period of modern intensive training in England somehow has a curbing effect on the marching song. When the men first join the service marches are short and equipment light.

In those days they seldom march in silence. But as the marches grow longer and the packs heavier their songs become proportionately shorter.

By the time they begin marching in France with full equipment, songs were become the exception rather than the rule.

A 15-mile march along the cobbled highways of northern France with a full kit and 120 rounds of ammunition leaves little breath for singing. Whistling requires less exertion and a mouth organ is very popular, but a brass band is the ideal accompaniment to a long march.

It sets an even rhythmic step, which is the secret of endurance. If the soldier cannot spare the breath to sing when on the march he makes up for it at other times, and concerts are the most popular form of recreation behind the lines.

The Algonquin Park of Ontario is easily accessible by the Grand Trunk Railway from all the principal centers. It is about two hundred miles north of Toronto, and may be reached also through Ottawa, being about one hundred and seventy miles west of the Capital City. There are more than fifteen hundred lakes and rivers in the Park, and to the excellence of the fishing there is undisputed testimony. Fish caught in the waters of the reserve have won prizes at many of the national competitions open to the anglers of the continent. While the Park makes an especially strong appeal to the fisherman and angler, it is a vacation territory where each member of the family may find healthful recreation in the great out-of-doors. Good hotels, illustrated descriptive literature and all particulars may be had on application to any Grand Trunk Agent, or to C. E. Horning, D.F.A., Toronto, Ont.
