HEARST FORCED TO PASS O. T. A., STATES DEWART

Waited Till No Escape, Liberal
Leader Tells S. Oxford Meeting.

ALEX. ROSE CANDIDATE

Is Unanimous Choice of Convention—M. J. Comiskey,
Dr. Rogers, Mayor Buchanan Make Speeches.

INGERSOLL, Sept. 25.—Liberalism was deeply stirred and strong optimism was created this afternoon at the nominating convention of the South Oxford Reform Association in the town hall.

H. Hartley Dewart, leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, was the principal speaker, and following his masterly presentation of the Liberal policy and his sharp criticism of the Hearst administration, Alex. Rose, one of North Oxford's most progressive farmers, was unanimously chosen as the standard-bearer in the coming election. Mr. Rose's candidature was most heartily endorsed and utmost confidence is expressed in his ability to redeem the riding.

That Liberalism is not slumbering in the riding, despite the activity of the U. F. O., already represented by A. T. Walker of East Oxford, was manifested both by the representative attendance and the enthusiasm displayed.

Ingersoll Old Boy.
M. J. Comiskey, vice-president of the Reform Association, occupied the chair in the absence of the president. He expressed gratification at returning to Ingersoll which he had known in his childhood, his parents having resided here, and he recalled the fact that his first oratorical effort was made in a local church as a youngster. He mentioned that since he had taken up the duties of leader he had conducted a very active campaign, having visited over twenty-five constituencies, from all of which he brought a message of cheer.

Mr. Dewart, in a clear and logical manner, analyzed the record of Sir William Hearst and his government. He had found a new spirit awakening among the people, that there was a realization that the Government had abused its power and should not be continued in office. South Oxford, he said, had been honored in the past by Mowat and Cartwright. The present, he said, was no time for disheartening on the part of Liberals. There was never a time when they had to face so weak an opposition, which had been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Forward Policy.
The platform of the Liberal party he described as a forward policy. It was not a policy that appeals to merely one class; it was one that appeals to the entire community. He referred to the praises that the Hearst Government was bestowing upon itself in connection with the temperance question. He outlined what had been the policy of the Liberals in this same connection and how the Liberals had put forth efforts in a similar direction long before the Ontario temperance act was put into effect as a war-time measure. The Liberal party in 1914 had taken its life into its hands in fighting for the abolition of the ban on liquor.

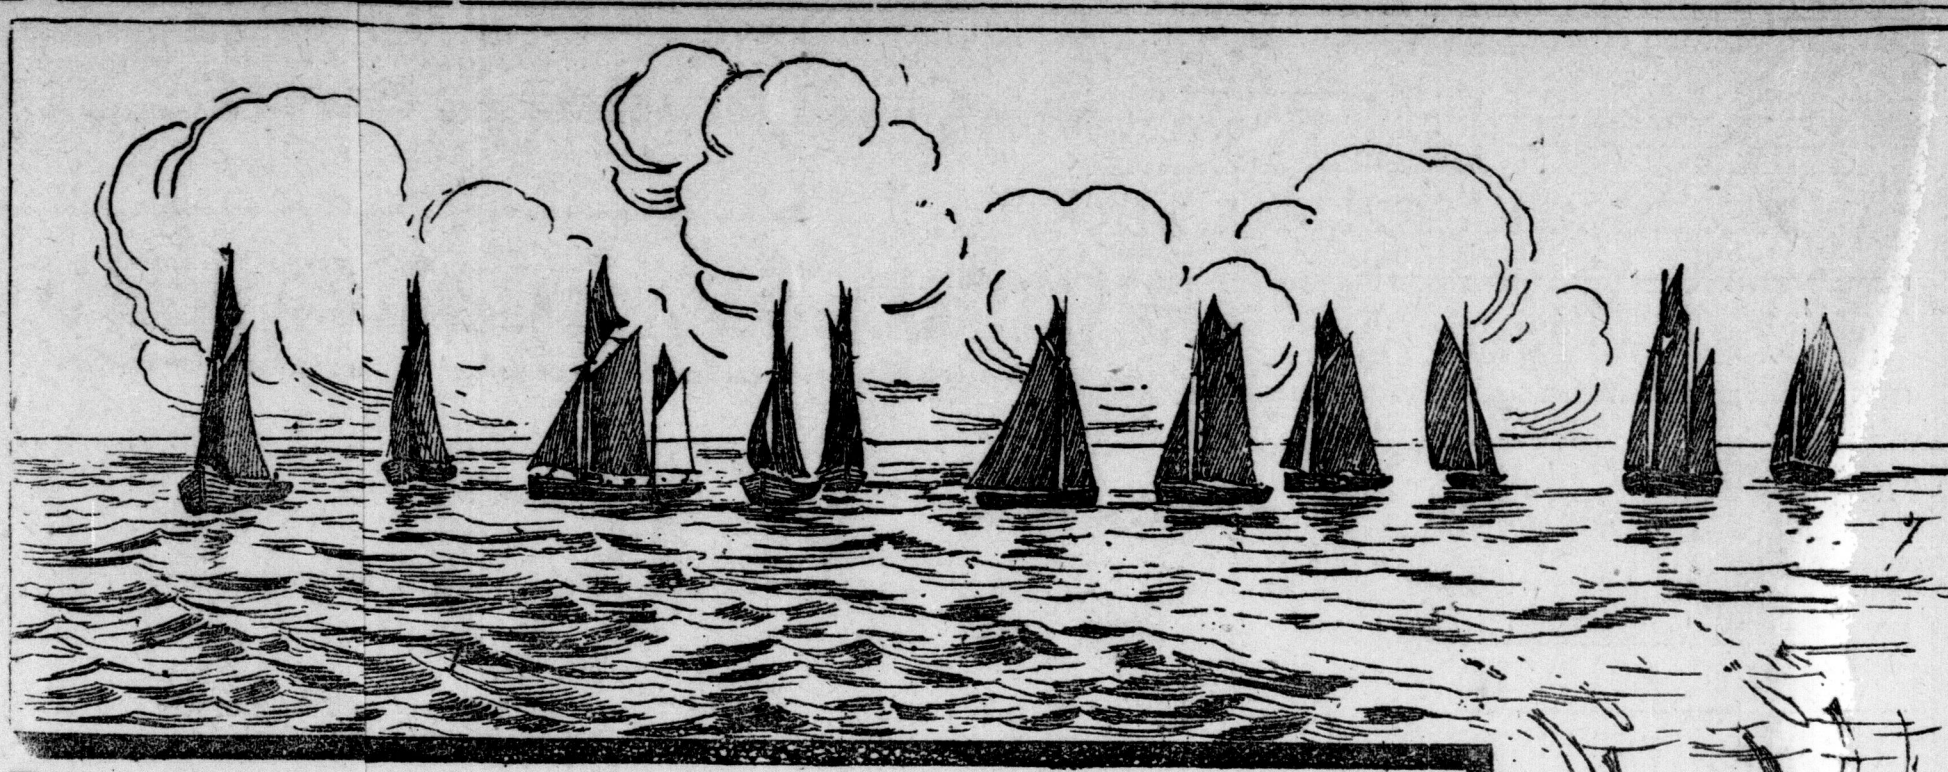

Every barroom, he said, had been a committee-room for the Conservatives. The Government of today had been placed in power by the liquor interests. He alluded to the petition signed, he said, by three-quarters of the people which had been placed before Sir William Hearst in regard to the temperance situation. Sir William desired to be with the majority, and hence the action that resulted.

Liberal Principle.
This was the very principle for which the Liberals had been contending. This was a war-time issue, although granted long after the war began and upon which a referendum was to be taken later. At present the Government was striving to confuse the issue—that of its own record and the liquor question. He warned his hearers not to be deceived.

"We must cast our ballot with regard to the moral issue," said Mr. Dewart. The speaker referred to the statement that he was the rising hope of the liquor interests. Mr. Rowell, he declared, again must have been hard driven when he made such a statement. Mr. Dewart had never been connected with the liquor party in the past, and never would be. The speaker told of deceiving literature that was being sent out to confuse voters, which, he claimed, was emanating from Conservative sources.

Women Getting Vote.
The speaker cited facts leading up to the women being granted the franchise. The Liberal party, he said, had stood for equality of the sexes in this respect and was responsible for the franchise being granted. He described the "somersault act" of Premier Hearst when he realized that the question was about to be introduced in the House by the Liberals.

Mr. Dewart read Sir William Hearst's manifesto. Dropping the comment, it is full of glittering generalities, he said. A government, he added, must be judged not by its promises, but by its performance. In the opinion of Mr. Dewart, the present farmers' situation was the result of incompetency and lack of interest on the part of the Government to agricultural interests. Under Sir Oliver Mowat the agricultural college at Guelph was started. In this connection he cited the efforts and ambitions of Mr. May-

Don't Hire a Servant—Buy One

Saving time by short-cuts in housework becomes a thrifty habit, like adding to one's savings account. The old way of cleaning kept one continually at it. With the Premier a little work every day accomplishes more and wears less than a lot of hard work done the old way.

The Premier Cleaner is light in weight, thorough in operation and works rapidly. The rollers prevent scratching bare floors or scraping carpets. The nozzle can be regulated to rugs of different depths. The circulation of air lifts the carpet and raises the nap without spreading dust.

Proposal Defeated.

It had been proposed that the diminution of population and production in the country be investigated by a commission, but the matter was defeated, the reason being that "they did not have confidence in commissions." The Liberals had advocated training schools in agriculture for both boys and girls. "I ask you," said Mr. Dewart, "which party has stood consistently strong for agricultural interests." He asked Mr. F. O. member in South Oxford to support the Liberal nominee, as he could do much to help the farmers.

The Government was also criticized

WHERE DOES IT BELONG?

We hear much talk of the success of the Jewellery Store. We think the Jewellery Store is the correct place for optical parlors, as this really belongs to their business, as they can both repair your glasses as well as fit new ones, and also adjust them accurately. John A. Nash, "My Jeweller," has seen the importance of this, and has a most modern optical department. He has three opticians, and is doing a wonderful optical business. They test eyes perfectly, and fit glasses properly. His store is 266 Dundas street. Where you will certainly buy.

for its action in regard to settlements for returned soldiers. He wanted to know, instead of placing the returned men in Northern Ontario, why some of them that are going to

Sir William Hearst and his Government were also criticized regarding the department of agriculture. When Hon. J. S. Duhad died, it was understood that a practical man would be chosen, but surprise was great when the premier took upon his own overburdened shoulders the duties of minister of agriculture.

Not Investigating Combines.

The Government was also roundly criticized for its neglect in safeguarding the interests of the people by not investigating combines and profiteering. He also charged gross extravagance in connection with Government House and its upkeep.

In closing Mr. Dewart pointed out that the Liberal policy was one to benefit the agricultural interests, the labor interests, the returned men, in fact, everyone in the community. Every effort, he said, was being employed by the Government to stay in power. He, however, believed there was a reawakening on the part of the people, and that they realized there was an earnest desire on the part of Liberals to honestly serve the people.

Eight names were placed in nomination: Mayor J. V. Buchanan, Col. T. R. Mayberry, Alex. Rose, Dr. Rogers, Charles Denton, John McKee, W. C. Brown, Mrs. J. C. Ross. Each of the nominees spoke briefly. Although he had announced his withdrawal, it was finally announced that Mr. Rose would accept, and he was tendered the unanimous nomination.

Dr. Rogers, in his address, favored a farmer, although not one to represent the farmers alone. He believed that had the Hearst Government instituted something to continue in office they could have done nothing better than initiate the U. F. O.

Mayor Buchanan spoke vigorously, and advised conciliatory action between the Liberals and the U. F. O. Mrs. Carpenter of Hamilton addressed the ladies and W. G. Charlton of Ashter spoke on organization.
