Foreign Exchange Establishes Another New Low Record French Aristocrats Set Faces Against Present Extravagance

Whirlwind Finish Necessary to Make Community Service Success.

REPUTATION AT STAKE

Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars-$350,000-is the amount that must be subscribed today by the citizens of Toronto if the drive for the federation of community service is to be a success. In other words, if this amount is not totalled when the teams get together at night, Toronto, for the time in its record of the past five years will have gone lamentably be-hind its objective and the splendid ecord it built up during the war will receive an indelible black mark. At last night's gathering it was emphasized with all the punch possible that when the total subscribed to that date was announced as $153,000 that the figures meant exactly what they said, there was no camouflage, no "holding back" as the public some-signed by Raiph Connable, which said, "In addition to the subscription now in, I will be one of ten men to give an additional $5000." The Connable and Woolworth officials had already subscribed $5000. The parliament buildings were reinstated in the good graces of the canvassers when 1200 cards for contributions were circulated, and the cantributions were circulated, and the cantributions were circulated. tributions were circulated, and the can-vasser in charge of that section told that they will be collected and given in to-day at 2 o'clock.

An instance of the results of educa-lon on the methods of community sertion on the methods of community service was given by one of the campaigners to whom $5 had been sent as a subscription. Knowing the donor could afford more and believing that he did not understand the situation, he called upon him and at the close of his visit was the happy possessor of a denation of $500. Horace. Davidson, secretary, emphasized the point that there was some misunderstanding about the house to-house canvas, which tho not general, means that many homes will be called the representatives on that executive council were doubled and the salaries of the secretaries raised to $50 a week, and the organizers' left at $40. This gave cause for much argument, the statement being made that anyone receiving that much money was no longer in the working class, but was a "bourgeoise."

The feature of today's session of the One Big Union convention was a

and most inexpensive form.
"It is time that the old nobility of France set an example of economy said the princess, addressing the first meeting of the league. "Costly functions in this difficult period of our history not only profane the memory of our heroic dead, but encourage the unscrupulous profiteers to continue their campaign of extortion on the public.

We are thru offering ourselves prey to the avarice of unscrupulous caterers to luxury. The Comtesse De Chabrillon said at the meeting:

"It will be years before I shall consent to resume costame balls, which were well enough before the war, but would be a scandalously bad example now. I have already sold all my jewelry except my family heirlooms, and I have bought Wictory bonds from the proceeds.
"I haven't purchased a single new gown in the past year and shall not buy new clothes until those I now possess are completely worn out. If all the fashionable people follow my example and boycott the profiteers and frown upon the vulgar display of the newly rich, the present orgy of irreverent pleasure-seeking will quickly die out. If the profiteers are boycotted they will oon see the light of decency and reason and learn to be content with legiti-

"At a time when industries are tied up by strikes, of the workers for higher wages fashionable society should seize the occasion to tie up profiteering by a strike for lower prices."

Simultaneously with the formation of this economy league by France's old aristocracy leaders, middle class opinion is reaching a point of extreme irritation over the indecent "undressy" dresses now in vogue here. The recent appearance at the opera of a woman without corsage was the signal for a small riot, crowds in the lobby jostling her and crying:

Pound Sterling Worth Only $3.49 in New York-Organization of International Exchange Committee is Needed to Avert World-Wide Disaster.

New York, Jan. 28.—Rates of exchange on London and all the principal Euro-pean centres continued to dwindle to new ow records today thru sheer weight of offerings from domestic and foreign sources. Today's decimes extended to the Orient, the rate moving against Japan for the first time in over a year. There was little trading in Chinese bills, because, of the inability of dealers to se-
