MANY VOTES CAST TODAY

St. Mary's Band Adds 800 To Its Total

FRIEND OF THE A. O. H.

Asks Why That Organization Does Not Wake Up and Get Into the Race--Court La Tour and Scotch Boys' Brigade Make Gains.

All roads seem to lead to Times contest headquarters. Today the number of votes cast was unusually large, the ballots pouring in from all portions of the province.

St. Mary's Band further strengthened its clutch upon prominent position, by adding over 800 votes to its total.

St. Stephen's Scotch Boys' Brigade increased its vote by more than 600, while that of the contestants, not so prominent in the struggle, also made their presence felt in the race for the purse of gold.

The following was received this morning: Contest Editor Evening Times: Dear Sir--It is with a feeling that it is with to shame, that I notice the standing of the A. O. H. in the contest for the $200 in gold.

Has this powerful organization no friends left in St. John that it is allowed to remain at the bottom of the list with only six votes to its credit? I enclose ten votes for this order and sincerely trust that every true son of Ireland in the city will follow my lead.

Yours sincerely, ARBAINE-POGUE. The contest editor applauds the sentiments contained in the above letter and trusts that the friends of this splendid organization will see that their cause does not suffer for lack of support.

After advising Mr. Moran to "methodically and systematically" set to work to meet the demands of the public, Mr. Lawson said: "Why not start in as soon as you are released and lay out a sweeping campaign?"

SEVENTY THREE HOURS IN A SMALL OPEN BOAT AT MERCY OF THE WAVES

HALIFAX, Nov. 10 (Special).--The steamer Parmad, bound to Miramichi, put in here this morning to land Captain Williams and crew of the large tug Marion C. Kennedy the Oron, which was abandoned on Monday last in a sinking condition off Cape Sable. The Marion C. left La Have on Saturday, and was abandoned on Monday last in a sinking condition off Cape Sable. The Marion C. was a small open boat, and was laden with hemlock timber for New York. On getting outside they found the wind blowing heavy from the north, and increasing to a gale on Sunday.

At 8 p. m. Saturday night the vessel sprang a leak and all hands were kept continuously at the pumps, but the water gained on them until Monday at 10.30 a. m., when she was found to be full of water. It was decided to take to the boat, and the crew got into the dingy boat and started off. The vessel was then about one hundred miles west of Cape Sable, and the water was level with her deck boards.

The boat was provisioned but there was no time to get the personal effects of the men. For seventy-three hours after the boat was abandoned, the crew of the Marion C. were kept busy at the pumps, but the water gained on them until Monday at 10.30 a. m., when she was found to be full of water.

A REPORT ON IMMIGRATION

Attache of British Embassy at Washington Reports on Immigration into United States

LONDON, Nov. 9.--A blue book presented to parliament yesterday gives an extensive report of immigration into the United States prepared by Ronald L. Lindsay, second secretary of the British embassy at Washington.

Dealing with the question of the exclusion of undesirable immigrants, Mr. Lindsay contends that it is impossible to devise a system not liable to mistake but that the matter must be regarded from the view point of an American who has the right to prefer that several desirables should be excluded rather than one passenger admitted. The author of the report suggests that it would be desirable to expect the various European races in America to fuse physically. There is no such thing as an American type. Many generations must elapse before the Americans can be physically differentiated from Europeans to the extent for instance as the English are from the French. But an assimilation of a simpler or more superficial nature has been in progress ever since the colony was first set on foot, and it is not easy to discern any force sufficiently strong to stop this movement.

Mr. Lindsay says: "America pays a heavy price for her new immigrants, many of whom are unable to do the work which is all the harder. In conclusion Mr. Lindsay says: "It is hoped that this report may have added some evidence to show that in spite of the gravity of the task, America has little reason to fear failure."

NOW THEY HAVE MR. SPRING-RICE

New York Hears That He Will Succeed Sir Mortimer Durand at Washington.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.--It was ascertained in this city last night that Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice will probably be the next ambassador to the United States from Great Britain. As far as could be learned by the foreign office here he has not yet definitely decided on the appointment, but of all those mentioned for the office Mr. Spring-Rice is regarded as the most likely to be appointed. Mr. Spring-Rice is at present in Paris, having succeeded Sir A. H. Hardinge as ambassador there in 1904. He was born in 1859 and became a clerk first in the foreign office and then in the foreign office, and for a time was assistant secretary to Earl Grey and to Lord Salisbury. Mr. Spring-Rice is comparatively a young man for the post at Washington. If he enters the service he will be at least, to the best of his knowledge, a man of the highest caliber. He is an exceedingly friendly man, and has been in the foreign office since 1884. He is married to Florence, daughter of Sir Frank Laugel.

JOCKEY DIES FROM INJURIES

Unfortunate Man Was Thrown From a Horse on Race Track Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.--L. Sewell, one of the best known jockeys on the American turf died last night at the home of his mother at Sheepshead Bay, as the result of injuries sustained in the sixth race at Jervis race track yesterday. Sewell had the mount on W. S. House's bay horse Lightning. He had the horse in fifth position at the half mile gate where there was considerable crowding and being on the inside position he was thrown on the rail. The jockey lay helpless and for a time the spectators in the grand stand thought he was dead. The track ambulance conveyed to the track physician indicated that Sewell was still stunned and no bones had been broken. The prediction was made that he would be seen in the next few days.

He was taken to his home in an automobile. There he complained of extreme pain in his head and body and he soon sank into an unconscious state. A doctor from Sheepshead Bay was called and found that the jockey was suffering from internal hemorrhages and that his life was in peril. A doctor from Brooklyn was called in by the first fire station, and they worked over the jockey for half an hour until fifteen minutes after eleven, when he died. The horse Lightning, on which the jockey was thrown, is owned by J. W. Lusk and is valued at $10,000. The horse was ridden by J. W. Lusk and is valued at $10,000. The horse was ridden by J. W. GREATEST MONOPOLY OF KIND IN THE WORLD

Mining Engineer Acquires Very Valuable Fishing Concession From Mexican Republic.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 9.--What is perhaps the greatest monopoly of its kind in the world, has been acquired, it is learned today by John C. Miller, a mining engineer of El Paso, through a concession granted by the government of the Republic of Mexico, giving Miller exclusive fishing rights on the west coast of Mexico from Guaymas on the north, to Manzanillo on the south, and on the east coast from parallel 24 on the north to the Bay of Comanche on the south, including all the rivers, bays, inlets and also the lakes for 20 miles inland. This covers, perhaps the finest fishing and oyster territory in the world.

STOLE A MACHINE GUN

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 10.--The most recent exploit of the St. Petersburg revolutionaries is the theft of a machine gun of the latest model, and a large supply of cartridges. It is presumed that an expert gunner is involved, because all the necessary accessories were simultaneously abstracted from the armory. The prefect of police has issued an order specially enjoining the necessity of re-capturing the gun to Izlanktown.

A rather notable incident in connection with the mishap is that one of the men who was on board the ship, working on the tug when the small boat upset and dinner cans, hog-head and the other articles went floating about in the water. The hog-head made very rapid progress towards the falls and the men thoroughly convinced that it was folly to work without a dinner before them, decided to return to Izlanktown.

Ernest Logan, of Kennedy street, is the proud possessor of a large dog of hounds which he takes good care to keep up every night. Of late he has visited them in the morning and on several occasions has found one or two dead and half eaten. Anxious to find out the cause of death Mr. Logan set a trap in the coop on Thursday night, and yesterday morning about 6 o'clock, hearing the cries of some animal, he went out to the coop and found that he had captured a small-sized raccoon. The animal was not dead, but it was when Mr. Logan let him. It is thought that the coon came from the woods near Marble Cove.

SASKATOON IS OUTDONE

As a Wealth Producer A Busy Morning at Lands

HOW ONE MAN FARED

He Bought Land for Less Than $30,000, Cut $60,000 Worth of Timber on it and Afterwards Sold it for $90,000.

C. W. Elderkin, of Antigonish, N. B., is in the city, a guest at the Dufferin. Mr. Elderkin until recently owned large lumber interests in the eastern province, but has sold a large tract of timber lands, comprising about 20,000 acres, to J. Newton Pugsley. The property is located in the vicinity of Eatonville. Mr. Elderkin says the prospects for the timber business in Nova Scotia this winter are very bright. Good prices are being obtained, though labor is scarce.

Mr. Elderkin is of the opinion that the timber lands of Nova Scotia or New Brunswick are a better investment than lots in Saskatoon or any other part of the west, and he says he has property both here and in the west.

It is stated that the property sold by Mr. Elderkin recently brought him $90,000. About eight years ago this property was purchased by him for about $20,000 or $30,000, and during the eight years he owned it, he made double that amount out of it, and finally disposed of it for three times the price for which he purchased it. It is also understood that at the time he bought this property Mr. Elderkin was told he would lose money on it. The record, however, shows that he did not.

Mr. Pugsley, who appeared for Mrs. Chisholm, asked Mr. French if he knocked at the door, or rang the bell, and who admitted him. Mr. French replied he was not certain, but that he had not crawled in. He stated further that Mrs. Chisholm threw the summons on the floor, and he added that he was not going to be "hauled around" in the discharge of his duty. He was quite willing to answer for his own misdemeanor if he did wrong.

Mr. Pugsley will have a large number of men working for him at River Hebert and Apple River. At the latter place he expects to cut about 6,000,000 feet of lumber.

His honor observed that he did not think Mr. French had any right to enter the house without being let in. This he regarded as outrageous. Mr. French said, was an impetuous man, and had no business to go in as he did.

Mr. French replied that he had gone in "all right," and called Mary Ann Brookins to the stand. The Brookins woman said she was not there for Mr. French, but for the defendant, but she said, was not in a fit condition to be in court.

His honor observed that Mr. French ought to have sought admittance in the regular way instead of going in and taking charge as he had. He pointed out that the law prohibited a constable by seizing a fine of $80 on persons assaulting them in the discharge of their duty, whereas if they assaulted anyone else, the penalty would be only $20.

His honor told the official that if he had all he could do to control him in court could hardly expect him to do so under other circumstances. Mr. French said he did not think his conduct merited such remarks.

His honor found that an assault had been committed and let the matter drop at that.

Judge Ritchie rendered a decision this morning in the case against Ernest Logan and John McWhaters, of St. John's Shore, who were charged by Theo. Leashon, of Malagony road, with shooting his dog on Tuesday last.

His honor directed that London be dismissed as there was nothing in the evidence that pointed against him. He reviewed the case against McWhaters as well as that against Logan, and stated that circumstances pointed against him. He pointed out that the penalty was $100 and that compensation for the loss of the dog was also required. In view of the fact that there were circumstances in the young man's favor, he was let out on suspended sentence and an arrangement was made for compensation.

Judge Ritchie said it was to McWhaters' credit that he did not go on the stand and deny the charge against him. He had also heard reports to the effect that he (McWhaters) was industrious and respectable.

The case against Louis Walsh, Fred Dustin and a lad named Doherty, for throwing a candle in an assistant in G. T. Black's bowling alley, came up and Dustin pleaded guilty. Mr. Black was charged with allowing the lads who were under 16, in his place after 7 o'clock at night. The matter was heard and allowed to drop.

THE NEMEA ABANDONED. William Thomson & Co., the owners of the abandoned steamer Nemea, received the following cable from Queenstown, G. B. this morning: "The underwriters on the vessel sent out the salvage tug Blazer to try to tow in the abandoned steamer Nemea. The tug has just returned, and reports that after towing the ship by the stern for two days she finally had to abandon her on November 8th in a northeast gale, and the wreck was then in a sinking condition, with bow and after holds awash, and it had not finished burning."

A horse, with wagon attached, ran away on Main street, but before going far was captured when possessed by F. S. Thomas' hat store by Conductor Joseph Needham.

JUDGE HAD HANDS FULL

A Busy Morning at The Police Court

WORD TO CONSTABLES

Case of Assault Preferred by Constable French Against Mrs. Chisholm of North End Allowed to Drop--Decision in Dog Case.

Judge Ritchie had all he could attend to at this morning's session of the police court, which lasted from ten o'clock till about midday.

After the common drunks had been disposed of the case of Constable French against Mrs. Chisholm, of the north end, was heard. A charge of assault was proven against the defendant, and under existing circumstances the case was allowed to drop at that.

Constable French swore that on the day on which the offense was committed he went to Mrs. Chisholm's home to serve a summons on her son, who, with his wife, lived in separate apartments. Having accomplished this, he came down the stairs, and was met by Mrs. Chisholm, for whom he had a second summons, which she tried to keep him from serving.

He declared that Mrs. Chisholm caught him by the arm to put him out of the house and called him by some very unseemly names, which he desired him to convey to her creditors. Mr. French said he would not repeat the names in the summons on the woman's arm.

Shirwood Skinner, who appeared for Mrs. Chisholm, asked Mr. French if he knocked at the door, or rang the bell, and who admitted him. Mr. French replied he was not certain, but that he had not crawled in. He stated further that Mrs. Chisholm threw the summons on the floor, and he added that he was not going to be "hauled around" in the discharge of his duty. He was quite willing to answer for his own misdemeanor if he did wrong.
