

nt

25
00
48
30
12
06
00
00
05
09
03
00
00
06
05
08
05
06
07

CONSTITUTION

The Legislature of the State shall be composed of a Senate and a House of Representatives. The Senate shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State for a term of four years, and shall hold its first session on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held. The House of Representatives shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State for a term of two years, and shall hold its first session on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held. The Legislature shall assemble on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held, and shall continue to assemble on the first Monday of January next after every second year thereafter, unless otherwise provided by law. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 1. The Legislature shall be composed of a Senate and a House of Representatives. The Senate shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State for a term of four years, and shall hold its first session on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held. The House of Representatives shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State for a term of two years, and shall hold its first session on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held. The Legislature shall assemble on the first Monday of January next after the year in which the first general election shall be held, and shall continue to assemble on the first Monday of January next after every second year thereafter, unless otherwise provided by law. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 2. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 3. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 4. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 5. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 6. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 7. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 8. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 9. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.

Section 10. The Legislature shall have the power to pass laws, to originate bills, to impeach and remove from office any officer of the State, and to exercise all other powers vested in the Legislature by the Constitution and the laws of the State.