

fore? And should we not expect the promise fulfilled? Then we may with assurance look for our glorious Lord.

Second, we should rejoice, and in this we are free to acknowledge that much has been done toward fulfilling God's will in the mission field, and this increases as the century draws to a close.

We see but one hindrance to the world knowing the Lord before the first quarter of the incoming century has passed from us.

We have the money and we have the workers, but a mighty Prince called MAN'S WILL keeps guard over the treasure-house.

It is our business to impress upon this great Sovereign the truth, that if he will but open the treasury of this world's goods, it will be but a few short periods of time until we might lay this world of redeemed sinners as a trophy at the feet of our Divine Lord.

There is much yet to be done in all departments of our work. We are deeply impressed that our Home work will admit of re-adjustment.

We are persuaded that it is wiser to operate missions in a new, growing and promising district, where the gospel is needed, than in one where there are scores of churches, all depending upon missionary support, and where the resources of the country are becoming exhausted and the inhabitants are compelled to seek more promising districts.

At this present time our Foreign Work is in need of prompt support which promises greater results than we have hitherto attained.

Just since our last Conference new fields have been opened and vastly greater prospects are before us.

Therefore resolved:—

First, that we instruct the Conference Committee to re-adjust our Home system, with a view to opening a mission in the North-west Territories in the near future.

Second, that we do all in our power to help re-establish our work in West Africa.

Third, that we invoke the blessing of our God upon all our work, at Home and Abroad.

Fourth, that we do most earnestly plead the Blessing of Heaven, the kind protection of our Father, the companionship of Jesus, the constant guidance of the Holy Spirit, to go with our beloved Bishop, as he leaves us, to set sail for Foreign Lands, and that his work may be a glorious success for God and Humanity.
