

THE BOAT CAPSIZED OFF MACAULAY POINT

Able Seaman Buttery of H. M. S. Shearwater, Sinks-Two Others From Crew Rescued.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Last night about 7.30, cries for help were heard by persons living on the Dallas road. These were 50 strong tish Columbia. The floral emblems that they aroused people in their were the choicest of the season's homes. The call came from the direction of Macaulay Point, and immediately boats set out to render assistance.

Two able seamen from H.M.S. Shearwater were picked up by Joseph and day afternoon at Esquimalt to inquire Ben Phillips, M. McFarlane and J. H. into the circumstances surrounding the S. Gordon, whose boat was the first to reach the spot.

It was then learned that a third seaman named Buttery had also been with them in a small boat which capsized. A diligent search was made for the third sailor, but without any result.

The three sailors, Buttery, Doyle and Drenewood, had been out in a punt during the afternoon. The exact cause of the boat upsetting is not known. The night was calm, but the boat it would appear was not a very steady one, and was easily overturned.

After the capsizing of the punt the two men, Doyle and Drencwood, endeavored to cling to it, but when they grasped the keel it turned with them. They had extreme difficulty in getting any assistance by clinging to the punt on account of its turning. The men differ in their story as to what Buttery did when the accident occurred. One of them thinks that he struck out for shore, and the other says he sank almost immediately. The two survivors were very exhausted when picked up by Messrs. Phillips. The latter immediately put men. and left the other boats which had put out to search for Buttery and bring the punt back. The boats continued the search for a long time, but without finding any trace of the missing sailor. Robert Tait and his son Robert continued to row about the spot for fully two hours in the hope of locating the missing man. The two rescued men spent the night The government, as usual in every

The Emperor refuses to yield to the counsels of the Count Camarilla Bathi, but his attitude continues to be negative and not affirmative. He seems to cling to the idea that a compromise is still possible. Several official notes have been issued denying that the government intends to resort to force, but at the same time there is no evidence that the Emperor is willing to yield to the demands for the suppression of the present ministry with one from the majority in the lower house of parliament. After the lumination the flotilla of small row oats, canoes, etc., turned homeward, flowing somewhat rapidly in the opposite day newspapers from the United direction. Anticipating some excitement, States. and, possibly, an accident, an immens rowd had gathered on the bridge, along the platform on the side, and, in fact, at every point of vantage. Their expecta ions in respect to "excitement" were realized. Many experienced difficulty in vercoming the swift flowing water, and their strenuous efforts were greeted with cheers or hoots according to the varying ortunes. Accidents there were none, but the narrow escapes were frequent, especially among those who had ventured out n canoes. That there were no spills cannot be attributed to anything but the kind intervention of a beneficent providence. It was impossible for those doubtful as to the wisdom of essaying the passage to land and pull their craft through, the platform being, as already stated, thronged. It is the fact that the public was permitted to gather there that the majority of the boatmen and canoeists criticise. The landing was placed there for their benefit, and just when its use was most in demand it was unavailable. Thus any of those disposed to believe that "discretion is the better part of valor" had to overcome their hesitation and take chances of an untimely bath, with serious, and perhaps fatal, results, in the waters of the Gorge. It is to be hoped that the platform will be kept clear during the evening entertainments to be
