Rev. Dr. Talmage Shows the Cause of Great Financial Disturbances.

course Dr. Talmage shows the causes of the great financial disturbances which take place every few years and arraigns the people who live beyond their means; text, Jeremiah zvii., 11, "As the partridge sitteth on eggs and hatch them not, so he that getteth riches, and not by right, shall leave them in the midst of his day and at | man buys anything he does not mean his end shall be a fool."

Allusion is here made to a well known fact in natural history. If a partridge or a quail or a robin brood the eggs of another species, the young will not stay with the one that happened to brood them, but at the first opportunthe farmyard hen, having brooded aquatic fowls, when after awhile they water. So my text suggests that a tude of people who buy that which man may gather under his wings the they never intend to pay for, for which property of others, but it will after while escape. It will leave the man will ever be able to pay. Now, if you

Some say it is the curities, which even the most honest and intelligent men could not have take the time of the messenger foreseen. Sohething back of that. I will give you the primal cause of all disturbances. It is the extravagance of modern society which impels a man to spend more money than he can honestly make, and he goes into wild speculation in order to get the means for inordinate display, and sometimes the man is to blame and sometimes his wife and oftener both $20,000 income, is not enough for a man to keep up the style of living he pro-poses, and therefore he steers his bank have suddenly snatched up $50,000 or $100,000. Why not he? The present income of the man not being large encatch up with his neighbors. Others have a country seat; so must he. Others have an extravagant caterer, so must he. Others have a palatial resi-nce; so must he. Extravagance is the cause of all the defalcations of the last 60 years, and, if you will go through the history of all defalcations of the last 60 years, and, if you will go through the history of all the great panics and the great financial disturbances, no sooner have you found the story than right back of it many banquets the man gave—always, and not one exception for the last 60 years, either directly or indirectly ex-

The earth sleeps, and God blank-ets it with the brilliants of the night it from the burnished laver of the sunrise. So I have not much patience with a man who talks as though decoration and adornment and the ele-gances of life are a sin when they are divinely recommended. But there is a line to be drawn between adornment those we cannot afford, and when a man crosses that line he becomes cul-pable. I cannot tell you what is extravagant for you. You cannot tell me what is extravagant for me. What is right for a queen may be squandering for a duchess. What may be economfor a duchess. What may be economical for you, a man with larger income, will be wicked waste for me, with smaller income. There is no from rule on this subject. Every man before God and on his knees must judge what is extravagance, and when a man goes into expenditures beyond his means he is extravagant. When a man buys business misfortune or an attack of travareant.

You know very well there are thousands of families in our great cities who stay in neighborhoods until they get trusted. They stay in the neighborhoods until the druggists will let them have no more medicines, and the butchers will sell them no more meat, and the bakers will sell them no more bread, and the grocerymen will sell them no more sugar. Then they find the region unhealthy, and they hire a carman, whom they never pay, to take carman, whom they never pay, to take great extravagances.

That would be less criminal, because in the other way you take not only the man's goods, but you take the time of the merchant and the time of his accountant, and you brought you the goods. Now, if you must steal, steal in a way to do as little damage to the trader as possible.

> John Randolph arose in the American senate when a question of national finance was being discussed, and, stretching himself to his full height in a shrill voice he cried out, "Mr Chairman. I have discovered the philosopher's stone, which turns everything this subject or the seasons of defalca-tion will continue to repeat themselves. You have no right to ride in a carriage for which you are hopelessly in debt to the wheelwright who furnished the landau, and to the horse dealer who provided the blooded span, and to the steeds, and to the liveryman who has provided the stabling, and to the driver who, with rosetted hat, sits on the coach box.

one-half of the people of this country owe the other half how can we expect financial prosperity? Again and again at the national election we have had a spasm of virtue, and we said, "Out with one administration and in with things and then we will get all over our perturbation." I do not care who is president or who is secretary of the treasury or how much breadstuffs go out of the country or how much gold is imported until we learn to pay our debts and it becomes a general theory in this country that men must buy no more than they can pay for. Until that time comes there will be no permanent prosperity. Look at the pernicious extravagances. Take the one or an Edwin Booth or a Joseph Jef-ferson thrills a great audience with ferson thrills a great audience with tragedy, you know as well as I do that the vast majority of the theatres are as debased as debased they can be, as unclean as unclean they can be and as damnable as damnable they can be, three million dollars, the vast majority of these dollars going in the wrong

Business men, cool headed business men, is uch a thing a possibility? These extravagances also account, as I have already hinted, for the positive crimes, the forgeries, the abscondings of the officers of the banks. The store on the business street swamped by the residence on the fashionable avenue. The father's, the husband's craft capsized by carrying to much domestic sail. That is what springs the leak in the merchant's springs the leak in the merchant's money till. That is what cracks the pistols of the suicides. That is what tears down the banks. drop the curtain. The play is ended, and the lights are out. I call it a tragedy. That is a misnomer. It is a farce. Extravagance counts for much of th pauperism. Who are these people whom you have to help? Many of there that the only compensation they are going to get is the acquaintance of the plenty, lived in luxury, had more unable patrons. There are thousands of such they needed, spent all they had, spent more, too; then died and left their more, too; then died and left their call them by the right name, for if a families in poverty. Some of those man buys anything he does not mean who call on you now for aid had an ancestry that supped on burgundy and woodcock. I could name a score of men who have every luxury. They smoke the best cigars, and they drink the finest wines, and they have the grandest surroundings, and when they lie their families will go on the cold charity of the world. Now, the death of such a man is a grand larceny. swindles the world as he goes into his coffin, and he deserves to have his bones sold to the medical museum for anatomical specimens, the proceeds to furnish bread for his children.

PROVIDING FOR ONE'S OWN. I know it cuts close. I did not know but some of you in high dudgeon would get up and go out. You stand it well! some of you make a great swash in life, and after awhile you will die, and ters will be sent for to come and les. But they will not come. If you send for me, I will tell you what my text will be: "He that provideth not for his own, and especially for those of his own household, is worse than an infidel." And yet we find Christian men, men of large means, who sometimes talk eloquently about the Christian church and about civili zation, expending everything on them selves and nothing on the cause of God, and they crack the back of their Palais Royal glove in trying to hide the one cent they put in the Lord's treasury. What an apportionment! Twenty thousand dollars for ourselves and one cent for God. Ah, my friends, this extravagance accounts for a great deal of what the cause of God suffers. And the desecration goes on, even to the funeral day. You know very well that there are men who die solvent, but the expenses are so great before they get underground they are insol-vent. There are families that go into penury in wicked response to the de-mands of this day. They put in casket and tombstone that which they ought to put in bread. They wanted bread;

you gave them a tombstone.

One would think that the last two obligations people would be particular about would be the physician and the undertaker. Because they are the two last obligations these two professions sation. Merchants sell goods, and the goods are not paid for. They take back the goods, I am told. But there is no relief in this case. The man spent all of the world and has left nothing for his family, nothing for the obseques, and as he goes out of the world he steals the doctor's pills and the underate estate, and the aggregate was $3, estate dies. rd. I tell you, my friends, in the day of God's judgment we will not only have to give an account for the way we made our money, but for the way we spent it. We have got to leave all the things that surround us now. Alas, if any of you in the dying hour felt like the dying actress who asked that and then turned them over with her pale hand and said: "Alas, that I have to leave you so soon!" Better in that hour have one treasure of heaven than the bridal trousseau of a Marie Antoinette or to have been seated with caligula at the banquet which costs its housands of dollars or to have been carried to our last resting place with senators and princes as pall-bearers They that consecrate their wealth, their They that consecrate their wealth, their time, their all, to God shall be held in
