THEY DID ME FORGET THEM.
By the sea, the sea, the sea,
They did me forget them—
The grave deep, the sea, the sea,
They did me forget them—
They say that the sound of thy laugh
Is like the sound of the sea,
And I shall hear it sweet music to me,
I cannot forget thee—thy smile, thy eye,
And thy deep, earnest eye, bright as when we first met;
The eye which returns in the silence of sleep,
And I start from my slumbers to listen and weep.
The spring of the desert, in darkness flows on,
When the hand that has sealed its pure waters is gone;
And the eyes of the stranger in vain seek to know
Where the Arab's bright fountain is sparkling below.
So this fond heart has closed 'er the source of its tears—
O'er the love it has lived on—yet hidden for years;
Thou art gone, and thy shadow's hand still
Seeks to bring that anointed fountain to daylight again.

I CANNOT FORGET THEE.
I cannot forget thee—the struggle is vain,
Thy image will come in the loneliness of the night,
To bring back the past, with its hopes and its fears,
Its joys and its sorrows, its raptures and tears.
I love thee, I love thee—I cannot resign
The fond hope that whither, thou yet wilt be mine;
At morning, at evening, in dreams thou art near,
And accents I love sweetly fall on my ear.
Let fate do her worst, she can never efface
From my mind or my heart, thy name or thy place;
Thou wilt be with me, and thou wilt be with me,
Thou art my beloved, thou art mine, and forever!

Cheshire Cheese—The fame of the cheese of Cheshire is of very ancient date; at least as old as the reign of Henry I. (A. D. 1100). The Countess of Chester, though the wife of Hugh Lupus, the King's first earl, best of a feudal and feudal good cheese, three of which she presented to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Giraldus Cambrensis, bears honorable testimony to the excellence of the Cheshire cheese of the day. Edw. Weekly Messenger, Feb. 22, 1841. Poor men eat cheese for supper, rich men for digestion. It seems that the ancient Britons had no skill in the making thereof, till taught by the Romans, and the Romans may even have been the most exact therein. The country of Chester does still afford the best quantity and quality of it, and yet their cows are not (as in other parts) housed in the winter; so that it may seem strange, that the richest soil should yield the tenderest cheese. Some evidence is vain to make the like in other places, though here they fed their cows and dairy maids, because they should have fetched their ground too (wherein surely some occult excellence in this kind), or else some good cheese will not be made. Hear not the like commendation of the butter in this kind; as that good cheese these two commodities are like stars of a different horizon, so that the elevation of the one to eminency is the depression of the other.—Faith's Works.
