CHICAGO PREACHER IN ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Those who attended Divine service at St. Andrew's church yesterday morning, listened to one of the most scholarly efforts ever given in this city, when Rev. C. P. Goodson, late of Chicago, who is temporarily filling the pulpit, addressed a large congregation.

He presented the Bible as supreme in the realm of literature, in the realm of morals, as a book of principles for a conduct programme of right living, as a book which produces the highest type of civilization, in its power to transform lives and as a source of comfort. Wherever the Bible has been found there has always been a new revival wave sweep over the country.

The Bible outlines a complete programme for right living. It is profitable for teaching, reproof, correction and instruction in righteousness, that the man may be complete.

As a practical climax Mr. Goodson made an appeal to his hearers to read the Bible.

URGES PROHIBITION FOR THE PROVINCE

Four-fifths of New Brunswick Now Under "No License" Laws--Rev. W. R. Robinson Advocates Clean Sweep.

Rev. W. R. Robinson was the speaker before the Thorne lodge yesterday afternoon and he delivered a practical and forceful temperance address, urging the need of a prohibitory law for New Brunswick. Rev. Mr. Robinson answered the contention that temperance people should show a good example before asking for provincial prohibition, by saying that the enforcement of the prohibitory liquor laws secured under local option was the duty of the officials appointed by the province for the purpose.

There should be more practical organization on the part of the temperance people. The best security provincial prohibition, said Mr. Robinson. Eighteen years ago there was a great temperance sentiment and marked the most astute political leaders were cognizant of it. There was a prohibitory law passed at that time, but the people do not want or need such legislation. There should be a better showing of the old sentiment.

Referring to the gains the temperance cause had made in the province despite the apparent apathy, the speaker said, that on the first of next May there would be no parishes in Restigouche county to grant licenses; Gloucester will have two parishes under license; Kent will have but one; Northumberland, Westmorland, Albert, Kings, Queens, York, Shubury, Carleton and Charlotte are without license; Victoria and Madawaska have each two parishes in which licenses are granted, while in St. John county there is one parish granting license.

Under this showing four-fifths of the province are under prohibition and with the proper sentiment and organization it should not be difficult to secure prohibition for the whole province.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cogger sang a duet.

City Pastors on The Peace Movement

Peace Sunday Observed Yesterday by Eloquent Sermons in City Churches--Current Events Seem Warlike.

In a number of the city churches yesterday was observed as peace Sunday, and the pastors delivered special sermons in the interests of the peace movement.

At Centenary church last evening, Rev. Dr. Flanders gave a most impressive address on the question of the peace of the world. In opening he said the Christmas season was an appropriate time for a peace movement, though unfortunately current events did not seem to be propitious as there was war in China, war between Italy and Turkey, trouble in Persia, strained relations between England and Germany, and a prospect of the United States and Russia. But these things while not propitious, justified the peace society in asking the prayers of the church in the interests of peace.

Continuing the speaker said that in spite of the war clouds on the horizon there was every reason to view the peace movement with optimism. The character of the cause in which we were engaged was changing, and it was originating and the Christian spirit were becoming more operative. In earlier times wars originated in selfishness, and national jealousies, which prohibited to a great extent the idea of arbitration. But in the present time wars are mainly in an economic sense, in ambition to extend territory or trade or protect investments; that is in questions which might readily be arbitrated.

On all sides it was manifest that the sentiment against military armaments was increasing among intelligent men. It was recognized that an armed nation was always predisposed to war, and that the expenditures for the war was a mal-apportioned cost to the public funds. A breadought cost as much as a first class university. War diverted capital and labor into unproductive and unprofitable activities, and impoverished a people.

Our ideals were also changing. In the middle ages the popular hero was the warrior, but today we glorify the scientist, the poet, the philanthropist, and men distinguished in the arts of peace.

Another strong reason why we should believe and work for the peace of the world was the fact that the Bible prophesied the coming of a time when wars would cease and the further fact that the teachings and personality of Christ must eventually operate to bring about the era of peace on earth and goodwill among men.

In Germain St. Church, in the Germain Street Baptist church that evening Rev. Frederick Grattan preached from the text, "And men shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks." After remarking that the disturbed state of international relations made the time important for bringing up the peace question, he dealt with the progress of the peace movement and pointed out the events which had led up to the formation of the International Arbitration Tribunal. He then dealt with the arguments for and against arbitration and pointed out that while the war, he pointed out that while the war, might have some preparation for peace, it might have some preparation for peace, it might have some preparation for peace.

At St. James' church, Rev. I. A. Cady preached an interesting sermon last evening based on the prophecy of Isaiah that a time would come when nations would no longer lift up sword against nation, and there shall be no more war. He said that some modern prophets were predicting the end of the world, but as long as that prophecy of Isaiah remained unfulfilled there was no good reason to look for the present time when there were wars and rumors of wars in many lands, and rumors of wars in many lands, and rumors of wars in many lands.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN CENTENARY SCHOOL

Annual Christmas Exercises of Centenary Sabbath School Yesterday, Interesting and Novel--Trees and Tableaux

The spirit of Christmas took possession of the schoolroom of Centenary church yesterday afternoon. It was the magic of its message over the huge Christmas tree on the platform, resplendent with its glittering fringe of gifts, revolving slowly in the air, and the beautiful decorations of the room with a mystic sound, attuned to the happy harmonies of the occasion, narrating melodiously the story of the birth of the Christ child, and the joyous greetings and gifts that glimmered along the wreaths of holly, entwined with yew, myrtle and bay.

The day of the gift bringing for the children of the Sunday school and as a result of it the Santa Claus of the poor of the city will be able to lead his reindeer with a large stock of supplies when he comes to St. John. In addition to giving $50 for missions, the school children gathered a large quantity of articles of all sorts from candy and toys, to clothing and barrels of potatoes.

The ceremony of bringing gifts to Santa Claus, was rather impressive. As the superintendent called out the names of the children, the boys and girls formed up, marched solemnly to the front and piled their gifts in the snow of the Christmas tree. One of the striking features of the procedure was the offering of a book for missions. On each side of the great Christmas tree a booth had been erected for the purpose of being taken the curtains were drawn, disclosing groups of boys and girls arranged in a line.

During the afternoon Rev. Dr. Flanders and P. R. Murray delivered brief addresses referring to the steady growth of the Sunday school and expressing appreciation of the part played by the children in providing so many Christmas gifts for the poor of the parish. The secretary of the Sunday school, Mr. J. L. Carleton, read a paper showing that the attendance for the day was 350, an increase of 50 over the corresponding date last year.

G. M. B. A. HEAR LECTURE ON HENRY GRATTAN

Henry Grattan was the subject of last evening's lecture in the G. M. B. A. series. Dr. P. A. Neill presided and the lecturer was Henry O. McInerney. Both lecturer and audience were very interested in the subject, and the frequent applause with which the marks of the speaker were received, and his masterly treatment and lucid enunciation combined to make the evening's entertainment a very pleasing one.

After a few brief introductory remarks on the early years of Grattan, the lecturer dealt with the political career from 1775, when Grattan entered Irish politics, his perseverance and attainment of the reins of leadership.

His first object was to nullify the Declaratory Act and Poyning's Law, which had made the Irish Parliament subservient to the English Parliament. His successful efforts in securing the independence of the Irish Parliament, his attainment of franchise for Catholics, and efforts to nullify the penal laws, were dealt with in detail.

Mr. McInerney then described Grattan's fight against union, his brilliant success in securing the repeal of the union, and his subsequent retirement from the political arena, his return and efforts to introduce a resolution for the extension of Catholic franchise were treated, after which the lecturer concluded with an appreciation of Grattan's worth, as an orator, politician and man.

GOOD SOLOISTS COMING HERE FOR "THE MESSIAH"

The executive of the St. John Choral Society has been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Annie Estelle Houghton, of Boston, and Miss Ella M. Courtney, of Halifax, to sing the soprano and contralto parts of the soprano and contralto parts of the oratorio, "The Messiah," which the society will render at its first concert on Tuesday evening, January 16th next, in the Opera House. Both these ladies have excellent reputations as oratorio artists of the first rank, and their advent here will be eagerly looked forward to by all lovers of good music.

The large chorus, of about 150 voices, has been rehearsing faithfully for several weeks and will undoubtedly give a good account of itself--indeed according to the opinion of several prominent musicians who have heard the chorus at work, an agreeable surprise is in store for all who attend the concert.

SCOUT TRAINING PUT TO PRACTICAL TEST

Two boys attending Rothsay College, had a chance Saturday night of realizing the value of the training given to boys scouts, Saturday afternoon Lloyd C. Campbell, son of J. Roy Campbell, of St. John, and Jack Henson, of Fredericton, went for a trip in the woods around Rothsay, in the course of their travels they saw a moose, and proceeded to track him, and succeeded in putting to practical test the instructions of the scout master, that they kept up the hunt until darkness overtook them. By that time they were not very far where they were, but instead of losing their heads and tramping about in the woods all night with a chance of growing exhausted, they wisely concluded to prepare a camp and make the best of the situation.

Young Campbell, who has camped out with Wm. Melatosh, curator of the Natural History museum, was very glad in the ways of making the best of life in the woods, and his companion was not altogether a novice. So the boys constructed a camp of boughs and wood to keep it going during the night. Whether they enjoyed the trip does not appear, but they returned to Rothsay about midnight, and were very tired, and their parents were very glad to see them.

When the boys failed to return Saturday night there was considerable uneasiness at the college, and the principal, Rev. W. H. Hibbard, with other citizens of the woods, organized a search party, and started to hunt for the woods. Mr. Melatosh of St. John, was also sent out to see if it was thought he might be able to direct the party to where the boys were, but the boys on several occasions, to find their way home after daylight. J. Roy Campbell when seen by The Standard expressed his appreciation of the efforts of Mr. Hibbard, and other friends in Rothsay, who took part in the search.

THE PIROUETTE TROUPE'S CHARITY

The committee of the Piroquette troupe of the H. S. Engineers of Ireland had a meeting prior to leaving St. John to decide as to the disposition of the proceeds of the concert given on Wednesday night. It was unanimously decided that the major portion should be devoted to the General Hospital, as so many of their members have received at different times so much kindness and attention from the nurses, and it was their wish to show some practical appreciation of the same. On the vessel returning the presentation will be made to the nursing staff. The balance of the proceeds have been distributed between the last Post Fund, Home

George Connell led the affirmative and was assisted by R. J. McDougall and T. C. Olive. The negative side was led by F. L. Cotter, who was assisted by F. P. Scott and E. H. Hanson. The debate was very interesting and many points of interest were brought out by the speakers who had spent considerable time in preparing their various points and arguments.
