THE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE ON RECRUITING ENLARGED

Business men asked to take a deeper interest in the War and encourage the men to go — Mrs. Brown and Sergt. Knight speak.

About seventy-five prominent citizens were present at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon at the invitation of the citizens' committee on recruiting. Addresses were given by Mrs. Netta Brown and Sergeant Knight. A few matters of detail in connection with the general plans for furthering the cause of recruiting were discussed and considered. These included readjustment of committees and how far it will be possible to sustain further interest in the campaign by energetic effort. The question as to whether a women's committee on recruiting would meet with the approval of the citizens' committee was brought forward, and the unanimous opinion of those present was that such a committee would be an invaluable aid in securing more men.

E. A. Schofield suggested the infusion of new life in the work of the citizens' committee. He said that the ice has as yet been only broken, and much more effective work might be undertaken if the constitution of the committee could be reorganized in some way with the idea of bringing in, from time to time, new men to help in the general work of the committee. Senator Thorne spoke of the need for continuing the work which the citizens' committee has taken in hand. The general question as to how far it would be advisable to reconstitute, or reorganize the existing committee of twenty-five was discussed at length. Senator Daniel, W. F. Hatheway, Rev. Dr. Hutchinson, T. H. Estabrooks, A. M. Beiding, A. H. Wetmore, Senator Thorne and others taking part. It was ultimately decided that the present committee of twenty-five shall continue in office, the chairman being at liberty to add six or ten more names when necessary.

The following were added to the speakers' and meetings' committee: J. P. Gregory, J. O'Keefe, E. L. Rising, C. B. Lockhart, M. L. A., J. M. Robinson, Thomas Gorman, Rev. M. E. Fletcher and W. A. Lockhart. They will meet in the Board of Trade rooms this morning at ten o'clock to arrange for a meeting tonight in King Square, and generally to forward efforts in the direction of holding future meetings, with competent speakers present, to keep alive the campaign. There will be a general meeting of the citizens' committee at 3.30 this afternoon.

THE SPEAKERS.

Mrs. Netta Brown, in the course of a short but interesting address said that she confessed to a little disappointment at the attendance of her listeners in St. John last Tuesday.

LIEUT. EDGAR MARCH BOMBING OFFICER OF 26TH BATTALION

Took special course in London to qualify for position — Saw his brother Dudley.

Mrs. C. March, of 95 Coburg street, has received a letter from her son, Lieut. J. Edgar March, formerly city editor of The Standard, who went overseas with the 26th Battalion.

Lieut. March writes from East Sandling Camp, on August 28th, and speaks of a visit to London, where he went to take a special course, to enable him to qualify for an appointment as bombing officer. He states that the course was interesting and difficult, and took five days. It consisted of a comprehensive study of the different kinds of bombs and the engines for throwing these deadly missiles.

The course was taken in the war department yards, where there is the most modern and up-to-date equipment for this purpose.

On the Monday following, the Battalion was ordered out on a route march that lasted four days, during which the officers and men all slept on the ground in their kits.

He states that he enjoyed the tramp immensely, and was much impressed with the magnitude of the operations in which upwards of 50,000 men participated.

Lieut. March was sitting on a fence near Ashford, where the maneuvers were being carried on, reading some letters he had just received from home, when the Canadian 6th Mounted Rifles marched past, and he noticed his brother Dudley, in the ranks, carrying a stretcher. He said the boy looked fine, in fact better than he had ever seen him look.
