

The Literary Revolution.

In January, 1879, The Literary Revolution was inaugurated by the publication of one small volume. It System has, since that time, published and in preparation, comprises over 150 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 500 hands, is actually delivering to purchasers over three tons of books a day, or over 1,000 tons a year, and is so far from being able to fill all orders that additional buildings have just been leased, machinery purchased, and other steps necessary taken to double the present product within the next sixty days. To meet the popular demand for the coming winter months at least 2,000 Tons of Good Literature. The almost wonderful success which the Revolution has achieved is due to the fact that it publishes only books of real merit. II. What is worth reading is worth preserving. All books are neatly and strongly bound. III. Books, which is very much less than it was a few years ago. IV. Books have commonly been considered necessities, and the masses will buy good books by the million if prices are put within reach. V. To make $1.00 and a friend is better than to make $5.00 only, and 1000 books sold at a profit of $1.00 each gives a profit of only $1,000, while 1,000,000 books sold at a profit of one cent each gives a profit of $10,000; and it is this latter, the most important publication thus far undertaken—indeed the most important work ever published in this country—a work that every intelligent person wants in his library, is the Library of Universal Knowledge. It will contain, in its complete form, about 10 per cent more than Appleton's and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopaedia, though costing but a fraction of the price of either. The price of the Library of Universal Knowledge, vol. 1, being issued September 1. Two or more volumes will be issued each month till the whole is completed in 15 volumes, each of nearly 1,000 pages each. The price of the large type edition in cloth binding is $1.50 per volume; in half Russia, gilt top, $1.75 per volume. According to our usual custom, special reductions in price is made to early readers, and during the month of September only orders for volumes I., II., or III., either or all, will be received at the nominal price of 45 cents per volume for the cloth, 55 cents per volume for the half Russia, and 65 cents for the large type edition. The Chambers's Encyclopaedia, complete in 12 volumes of 1000 pages each, and sold, bound in cloth, for the nominal price of $7.50, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $15.00. In this style 12 vols. have already been issued, vol. 13 will be ready September 10, and Vols. 14 and 15 a few days thereafter. On this also special terms are given to early purchasers, those whose orders are received before the 1st of September being sent at once by express, and the remainder when completed in October. The Revolution is always undertaking new enterprises and accomplishments. In the month of September we publish new victories. Du- "Analytical Concordance to the Bible," the great "Webster Unabridged," of religious literature, and a 50 cent edition of Smith's Bible Dictionary. In Biography, two volumes added to our Anna Library of Biography complete in 12 volumes, selected from the famous more than one-tenth the cost heretofore. In Poetry we shall soon have the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, translated by Pope, and a large type edition of Shakespeare. In History a cheap edition of the celebrated Professor's Chronology, and in Javre, "Karl in Queensland," profusely illustrated. The cost of making books diminishes in large degree as their number is multiplied. Many of our books are selling in so much larger quantities than we anticipated that we find it in our power to considerably reduce their prices, and we do it with a great deal of pleasure. Among those so reduced are the histories of Macaulay and Gibbon, Taine, Rollin, Josephus, Modern Classics, Milton, Virgil, Dante, Koran, Bunyan, Crusoe, and several others.

J. W. ELLIOT'S PATENT SAVER HALL STOVE.
The advantages gained over all other stoves are, it produces the greatest amount of heat for a given amount of fuel; this is accomplished by the fine pipe, which is bent down, around and underneath the base. Another object is to secure the greatest possible benefit of the fire which consists in placing around the body of the stove a series of internally projecting pockets overlapping the fire pot and so formed that the air of the room is admitted into the lower end of the pockets, and after passing through them, enters the room, having become intensely heated through contact with the inner sides of the said pockets, which are immediately over the hottest part of the fire, thereby producing far greater results from a GIVEN AMOUNT OF FUEL THAN ANY OTHER STOVE.
An Evaporator which is part of the Stove. The cover is a water tank, and becomes an effective evaporator, which produces a greater or less amount of vapor in proportion to the intensity of heat.
There is a double heater, by means of which heat can be conveyed to any apartment above, and supplied with sufficient vapor from the tank. Also a combined hot air and steam bath is thereby produced if desired.
It is Simple and Easy to Control.
All hinged doors are abandoned, the mica lights can be removed, cleaned, and replaced without burning one's fingers.
The base plate is of cast iron in the place of zinc or other perishable materials and is raised sufficient for the cold air on the floor to pass through its raised and hollow cone-shaped top, stove, and the circulation produced thereby equalizes the temperature of the room.
There are two grates, similar to the base of a circular basket. They can be rotated together or separately.
The fire can always be re-lighted without removing the coal. No screening or sieving, and no waste whatever.
