She promised to meet him with $20 tonight, but informed the police. Davis was arrested.

He had been removed to the Kingston penitentiary where he will be placed in a ward for the criminally insane.—Battleford Press.

G.T.P. AWARDS CONTRACT.

Prince Rupert, Aug. 20.—The G.T.P. has awarded to Foley, Welch and Stewart a new contract for the section east of Prince Rupert. It will be 140 miles from Copper River east to Aldermore. This leaves a gap of less than 500 miles, and contracts may be let for this before the end of the year. The new contract is approximately $1 million dollars. There are several long tunnels, one a half mile. The line crosses the Skeena river by cantilever bridge, 15 miles below Hazelton.

KILLED AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Four women and one man, the driver of the car, met death, and two young women narrowly escaped a similar fate here late last night when a large touring car going at a high speed, crashed through the railings of the long trestle over the Tide Flats, at a point known to automobile drivers as "Dead Man's Curve." All the members of the party were from Vancouver, B.C., except the driver of the car who is a Seattle man. The dead: Mrs. M. M. Grothe, Miss Agnes Calvin, Miss Maggie Paul, Mrs. J. Corvin and Ira Perry, the chauffeur. All of the young women are said to belong to prominent families in Vancouver.

HEART ON RIGHT SIDE.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Suffering from a dislocated heart, Frank Thomas, Hillsboro avenue, is in St. Michael's hospital. The complaint is as a rule fatal but the doctors think that Thomas will recover. It will be the first one on record that did not cause death. Two weeks ago Thomas entered the hospital complaining of severe pains in his chest. Dr. Norman Allan attended him, and found the heart had moved over to the right side. About two months before, Thomas contracted a cold and his left pleura cavity filled with pus, forcing the organ out of place. Dr. Allan pumped out the inflamed matter but the heart stayed where it was. It seems to be performing its functions properly.

Griswold, Man., Aug. 19.—A gruesome find was made by A. D. Gamble yesterday when looking over a field of barley to see if it was fit to cut, he came upon the badly decomposed body of Charles Martin, who had been working for him up till two weeks ago. He was of English nationality and had been working for Mr. Gamble about a month. On the morning of Aug. 5 Martin complained of feeling unwell and did not go to work. The other men went to another farm, and on their return thought he had gone away, as he was in the habit of walking off without any warning, and never had been known to stay long at one place. No anxiety was felt about him on that account. Coroner More, of Brandon, was advised and after enquiry ordered the remains to be buried.

PRINCE TO VISIT WEST.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Geo. Louf, president of L'Organization des Zemozovs Russes Unis, accompanied by the secretary of the Russian consulate at Montreal, who acted as interpreter called at the parliament buildings yesterday. He wanted to know about the government surveys in New Ontario, opportunities for colonization and development and the methods employed. Although Prince Louf cannot speak a word of English, it was obvious from his credentials that he is here on an important mission, the nature of which the secretary refused to reveal. Today he will visit the agricultural college at Guelph, and on his return will inspect the entire district from New Liskeard and Cochrane, touching as many engineering parties as possible. Later on he will proceed to Manitoba and the western provinces.

ALBERTA DOCTORS MEET.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 19.—At this morning's session of the annual meeting of the Alberta Medical Association, a resolution was passed to affiliate the Alberta Association with the Dominion association. Dr. Kennedy of Macleod and Dr. Laferaty, of Calgary, were appointed delegates to endeavor to arrange the affiliation. The discussion on inter-provincial registration resulted in a resolution that the four western provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba unite and that one board of examiners be appointed to examine applicants for registration, thus giving physicians who pass the examinations and register the right to practice in any of the four provinces. Delegates will be appointed to meet representatives of the associations of the other three provinces with this end in view.

Among the "Celebrities at Home" Mr. R. L. Borden is included by the London World, the greatest of the British weeklies. The World speaks with enthusiasm of this distinguished visitor to the metropolis, and points out that Mr. Borden is one of the few public men who have come to the front without having had to serve a long apprenticeship to the leadership. In the opinion of the World, it is certain that Mr. Borden will occupy at no distant date the position of premier, and that while he will fill the office admirably, he will have in Mrs. Borden a helpmeet who is especially fitted to perform those social and more or less public duties which fall to the lot of the wife of the premier. Mr. Borden has "made good" says the writer of the appreciative biography in the London Journal. To the affection of the friends who induced him to devote his talents to political life has been added the loyalty of one great party and the esteem of all.

WHO BURIES SUICIDES.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 19.—Out of the burial of Niagara Falls suicides has arisen an international episode which may end in an appeal to the provincial parliament. The trouble is over the question who shall pay the funeral expenses of the river victims. About $500 a year is involved in the answer. About ninety-nine out of every one hundred suicides' bodies find their way to the Maid of the Mist landing or to the whirlpool, both on the Canadian side. Declaring that almost all the suicides go in on the American side, the Canadian commissioners appealed to the American park commissioners to help pay the expenses of the burial. The Americans refused, although admitting the origin of most of the suicides. The Canadian commissioners have decided that bodies shall be buried where found, instead of being brought to the cemetery. They refused to pay for the body of a Buffaloian found last week.

HEAVY YIELD, GOOD QUALITY.

Minneapolis, Aug. 20.—Arthur W. Hawkes, of Toronto, superintendent of publicity for the Canadian Northern railway system, was in Minneapolis yesterday, after an extended trip over their lines in Western Canada. "One of the greatest crops in the history of western Canada is being harvested," said Mr. Hawkes. "Wheat is already being cut in southern Manitoba, and harvest will be on next week in all of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The weather has been favorable on the whole, and the crop will be enormous except in a part of southern Manitoba where

STRATHCONA IN AMERICA.

New York, Aug. 20.—Lord Strathcona, high commissioner for Canada, and his grandchildren Miss Frances and Donald Howard, of London, arrived at 10 o'clock on the Murestania today for Montreal and finally Vancouver. They will return to England in October. Lord Strathcona is 89 years old, but was so remarkably well preserved that he was conspicuous among a great number of passengers. He is a life long friend of J. Hill, the railroad magnate. "I am particularly interested in the tremendous strides in development being made by the Northern Pacific," said Lord Strathcona, discussing railway matters. He was one of those who in 1877, started a railroad which developed into the present Pacific. "Its inception was greeted with derision even by the men supposed to be authorities on railroad matters. There are few railroad men now who would venture the suggestion, I think, that we made a wrong move or that we made it at a wrong time."

SUFFRAGETTES AGAIN.

London, Aug. 20.—There were suffragettes disturbances at several political meetings in the British Isles tonight. The women made determined efforts to invade St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, and a crowd of their sympathizers came into conflict with the police which resulted in riotous scenes. Several suffragettes were arrested for throwing stones through the windows of the hall and other breaches of the peace. Secretary of war, Haldane, while addressing a meeting at Liverpool this evening was greatly disturbed by a number of suffragettes who took up a position on the roof of an adjacent building and showered bricks through the windows of the hall in which the meeting was being held. Seven of the women were arrested.

PRISONER ATTACKS JAILER.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—A desperate break for liberty was made tonight by ten prisoners in the Bedford jail at Sweetshurg, who attacked the turnkey and beat him almost into insensibility before help arrived and they were overpowered. The regular jailer was away on a holiday, and the prisoner was in charge of Deputy Scott, who is 78 years old. When he started tonight to lock up the men they turned on him, evidently as the result of a plot, and seizing his keys beat him over the head with them. The old man shouted for help and his cries called in the jailer. He appeared with a revolver. After a sharp struggle all the prisoners were landed behind the bars, where they will probably have an extension of their term as a result of their break for freedom. The ring leader in the revolt was a prisoner named Staggs, who is serving a short sentence for vagrancy and the plans had gone so far that a rope had been hung from one of the windows for the prisoners to descend. Scott is confined to the hospital as the result of the attack and will be permanently disabled.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

MAJOR JOHN S. DENNIS. Mr. Thomas Fallis writes as follows in "Human Life" regarding Major John S. Dennis, to whom the Canadian Northwest owes no little for its present prosperity: The strength of a nation depends upon the strength of the individual citizen. The strength of the citizen depends upon his opportunity to grow and develop under favorable conditions. And the man who points the way, shows the course and helps plant in fertile soil the seed of material independence is giving to the nation the best citizen, because offering the most satisfactory opportunities for citizenship, and the government and the next generation and the succeeding generations of Canadians, cannot help but feel a growing appreciation of John S. Dennis, whose hands have pointed so successfully the way to the northwest as to give him a continental reputation.

He went into the northwest in 1872 a strong, athletic youth of sixteen, with the spirit of adventure in his head, and the warm red blood of a fighting ancestry pulsing through his veins, and he made the best of every opportunity by giving back to those who trusted him loyalty and intelligence. For two years he worked with the engineers employed by the Dominion government to survey that part of the country, then an unmarked wilderness and prairie, which is now known as the province of Manitoba. In 1874 he was appointed to the staff of the special survey establishing longitudes, the first extensive trigonometrical survey undertaken in Canada. In 1878 at the age of 32 he was in charge of a section of the special survey running base lines between the third and fourth principal meridians. In 1879 he entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company under Lord Strathcona, now high commissioner for Canada in the British empire.

He remained in the service until 1882, and in that time he organized the company's land department and was its technical chief. In 1884 he put in a season of exploration of the Rocky mountains. When the half-breed rebellion broke out in 1885, Mr. Dennis organized and commanded an intelligence corps of scouts composed of surveyors and others familiar with the country, and retired at the close of the rebellion with the full rank of major in the Canadian militia. After the rebellion Mr. Dennis was placed in charge of the inspection of surveys in the Canadian west, and in that capacity traversed a large part of the present provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In 1887 the Dominion government made him chief engineer of surveys, which position he filled until 1894, when he was also given charge of surveys, having in view the possibility of irrigation in southern Alberta and western Saskatchewan, being commissioned first to visit the irrigated areas of the United States and obtained data for the irrigation act, then being framed, and the following session enacted into law. The important amendments of this act of 1898 were largely made at Mr. Dennis' suggestion. In that year (1898) the territorial government of the Northwest Territories, now divided into the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, invited him to leave the service of the Dominion government and become Territorial deputy minister of public works. This invitation being accepted, Mr. Dennis organized that department, serving with distinction through the Haultain-Ross administration. After his transfer to the Territorial government, the Dominion government continued him in supervising the administration of the Northwest Irrigation Act, he having practically built up whatever machinery then existed for enforcing the provisions of that act and the gathering of information in regard to irrigation development in Alberta and Saskatchewan. After some negotiation, the whole of the irrigation administration work was transferred to the territorial department of public works, and Mr. Dennis again took full charge of western irrigation administration and surveys. One of the most important objects of the Dominion irrigation surveys, undertaken early in the history of irrigation developments in Alberta, was to demonstrate the feasibility of four or five large irrigation projects. One of these was the Bow river canal. Mr. Dennis personally supervised the early surveys to determine the practicability of this canal, and became intimately acquainted with the topography and general character of the country to be served. It was generally conceded that this undertaking would either have to be carried out by the Dominion government or the Canadian Pacific railway. Efforts were finally made to induce the Dominion government to hand over to the railway in a solid block all the land lying east of Calgary to be served by the Bow river canal, with the understanding that the Canadian Pacific railway would undertake the task of developing these lands by means of irrigation. This was eventually agreed to.

When the railway company went into irrigation development, it became necessary for them to secure the services of someone familiar with the subject, who also possessed a complete knowledge of western Canada, and the company's choice automatically fell upon Mr. Dennis, who was promptly induced to sever his connection with the federal government and to enter the employ of the railway corporation. He thus became "superintendent of irrigation," and "land commissioner for British Columbia." He was afterwards created "assistant to the second vice-president," and assumed general charge of certain other matters in Alberta and British Columbia, in addition to his other duties, and also looked after the question of water supply for locomotives on that portion of the railway system lying west of Winnipeg. Of this latter duties he was afterwards relieved.

HOMESTEAD GRANTS.

Since 1903 over 300,000 homesteads have been granted to settlers; the population of the dominion has increased over 1,000,000, the total trade has increased $178,000,000, the revenue has increased $30,000,000, the product of grain in the three great western agricultural provinces has shown an increase of nearly 100,000,000 bushels. Much of this increase in trade and population is directly traceable to Major Dennis. It is conservatively estimated that from 75,000 to 100,000 people will leave the United States this year to settle in Canada, mostly in the western provinces. A very large percentage are well to do farmers, and the total amount of wealth which they will bring will be many millions of dollars. And this is the result of the efforts of Major Dennis, a twentieth century pioneer.

A man of rare personality, unusual executive ability, a shiner and an organizer, Mr. Dennis might have built up an immense fortune for himself. His success has come from intelligent, painstaking, serious work, and the growth and development of western Canada is a monument which will last for all time in memory of his accomplishments. This is to certify that I have used Minard's Liniment in my family for years and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have also found it excellent for horse flesh. (Signed) W. S. PINFEO. BLOOD FLOWS AT PITTSBURG

Strikers of Car Company Come Into Contact With the Authorities and Several Are Killed and Many Wounded

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—As a smoke befogged sun rose over the dull, gray houses and factories of McKees Rocks early today, nothing but two piles of bricks and a street littered with glass indicated to the casual observer that last night one of the bloodiest riots in Pennsylvania since the days of the homestead strike had occurred, costing six lives and at least seven mortal injuries, the result of a six weeks' old labor dispute between the Pressed Steel Car Company of Schenck and its employees. From midnight until dawn today, the county officers searched dark alleyways and crowded desolate tenements for wounded men and women. Before night fall it is predicted that the total death toll will be more than a dozen. The state's toll is two dead and one injured. The county lost a deputy sheriff while the striking employees of the company lost five of their leaders, two dead and three fatally injured. One woman, the wife of a striker, for the sake of her husband's cause was shot in the back and will not recover. A boy who stood beside her during a clash between state troops and the infuriated mob of strike sympathizers, also is in danger of death, having been shot with a rifle ball.

Sheriff Gumbert, of Allegheny, has sworn in half a hundred deputies for the county, in anticipation of a renewal today. It is not unlikely that the militia from the eastern part of Pennsylvania will be ordered to Pittsburg within the next twenty-four hours if conditions warrant. The rioting came suddenly and without warning at the close of a calm and peaceful Sunday. About 9 o'clock strikers were seen together at the Schoenville end of the Donovan bridge, a viaduct spanning the Pittsburg and Lake Erie tracks. Suddenly it was rumored that a number of strike breakers were being brought from the city to the plant. Pickets were immediately doubled and every car that came from the city was held up. This procedure had been going on for some time when a car carrying Sheriff Exeler came along. He was returning from Pittsburg to the Steel Car plant. A revolver was placed at the motorman's head and the car was stopped. A crowd of strikers immediately suspected the deputy sheriff. He was ordered to leave the car.

Instead, it is said, he drew back his coat and showed his star. This was the signal for a fusillade of shots. Exeler opened fire in return, and when the cartridge of his revolver were exhausted he fell under a shower of stones and bullets. The motorman and conductor placed the body on the car and took it to a physician to McKees Rocks. A large bullet through his forehead was the direct cause of death, although his head and body were terribly mangled and beaten by stones and clubs. Hardly had the car with Exeler's body started for the physician's office, than the mob formed ten deep across the tracks. Troopers Williams, Smith, Jones, O'Donnell and Keith, all of troop "A" were on the car. They had been on a brief lullough. When the mob boarded the car and seized the conductor, the men rose to make a fight.

Then began a fusillade in which 500 shots were fired. O'Donnell was the first to fall with a bullet hole in his head. Trooper Kitch stood over his fallen comrade and gamely opened fire on the mob with a revolver in each hand. Volley after volley was fired at him, but he escaped being shot, although he was terribly stoned and beaten after all his comrades had fallen at his feet. Soon after O'Donnell was shot, Trooper Williams fell mortally wounded after a volley aimed at the head of the trooper. Word of the battle reached Lieutenant Smith, of the constabulary, and he ordered out his entire force of troopers. As they galloped down toward the Donovan bridge with carbines drawn, the mob broke and fled. At midnight McKees Rocks was as quiet as during the early Sabbath afternoon.
