THINK IT OVER. It will mean the employment of many additional thousands of men and women in the factories of Canada. It will mean greater activity and more independence in the industrial life of the country. It will mean New Factories for the Cities and Towns of Canada. It will result in further inspiring the confidence of British investors in the stability of the business of Canada. The Gleaner Telephone Calls. Business Office 215-11 News Department 368 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1915 HON. J. D. HAZEN AT BOSTON.

Thousands of former Canadians scattered throughout the New England States thrilled with pride for their native land as they listened to the message delivered by Hon. J. D. Hazen before the Canadian Club at Boston last evening. That within a comparatively short time a quarter of a million Canadian soldiers will be taking a part in the great struggle on the European continent, that already Canadian troops had brought undying honor to their country by their heroic stand on the battlefields of Flanders, and that thousands more were prepared to sacrifice their private interests at the call of Empire, was the inspiring theme of the Minister of Marine's address. As Hon. Mr. Hazen pointed out, to fully realize the position that Canada now occupies in the struggle being waged across the seas, it is only necessary to state that at the present time the Canadian forces in Europe more than equal in number the combined total of troops that fought on the side of the British at Waterloo, and of the troops that in the first instance Great Britain sent to the Crimea.

What Canada has so grandly begun will be continued to the very end. Temporary reverses will only inspire our people to deeper courage and to more grim determination to pluck victory out of defeat. They realize all that is at stake in this great contest, that our destiny as a nation and our existence as an Empire, would be imperiled by a German victory, and they are determined that Prussian militarism shall never sway the destinies of Canada. It goes without saying that his Boston audience gave Hon. Mr. Hazen a notable reception. Many of those present were born in New Brunswick and are well-informed on the career of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in the Borden cabinet. Hon. Mr. Hazen has the happy faculty of making last the friends wherever he goes. Broad-minded administration of the nation's business has been and is the dominant feature of his work since entering the Federal sphere. It is little wonder, then, that the big man with the high ideals is winning his way. A master of facts and figures, he presents his case with an eloquent lucidity that especially appeals to the public. New Brunswick's representative in the cabinet has already done well. He will do better, for his convictions are founded upon lines deep and strong and for the welfare of his native country.

THE NEAR EAST PROBLEM. The situation in the Balkans has taken on a somewhat brighter outlook today. The report that the Serbian troops operating on the Velez-Prelep front have had a splendid victory over the Bulgarian foe, and driven them back many miles, is very encouraging and gives promise that southern Macedonia can yet be held until the Allies are in such force as will enable them to strike a decisive blow at the invaders. The line restored by the Bulgarian repulse is said to have placed the Serbs' right wing in touch with the French before Velez, and clears a 20 or 40 mile strip of southern Serbia of the enemy. If this is correct, the importance of the Serbian triumph can hardly be over-estimated.

Respecting the friction between Greece and the Allied powers and the "coercive measures" which have been taken by the Allies to bring King Constantine to his senses, it is now said that they have had the desired effect and that Constantine now declares the situation was the result of a misunderstanding and will be remedied. The belief is now expressed that Greece, having been duly impressed by Lord Kitchener's visit and the threat at her commerce, will concede the reasonable demands of the Allies. The Allied powers do not propose to coerce Greece to depart from the attitude of neutrality which she believes best serves her interests, but they have been obliged to take the course of certain alliances to the possibility of measures which, if taken by the Hellenic government, would be contrary to the assurances received. When all doubt in regard to these matters has been dissipated, the Allied powers will be happy to remove the obstacles now imposed on merchandise consigned to Greece and accord all those facilities naturally attending normal relations.

The form in which the Allies propose to bring pressure to bear upon Greece is a commercial blockade. Until the government of Greece satisfies the Allies that benevolent neutrality will not suddenly become active hostility in the event of the Allied troops in Macedonia suffering a reverse, there will be no ocean-borne trade between Greece and the outer world. It must be remembered that Greece could render great aid to Turkey, Bulgaria and the Germanic powers were she desirous of doing so, by passing on to them vital war supplies and foodstuffs imported ostensibly for her own use. She could also secretly harbor German and Austrian submarines, and keep an army in constant readiness to intercept and disarm any soldiers of the Allied powers, and particularly of Serbia, who may be forced to cross her frontier. It is evident that Lord Kitchener's conference with King Constantine at Athens did not altogether remove the doubt existing in the minds of the statesmen of the Alliance as to the King's intentions, and that the decision to blockade the Greek ports was at once promulgated as a result.

The Italian attack on Gorizia is being pushed with the utmost vigor. General Cadorna evidently believes that the Austrian defence is giving way before the tremendous pounding of the Italian heavy artillery. The official report from Rome says that the Italian infantry have begun successfully an attack on the heights north-east of Oslava, and that farther south, on the Carso plateau, after a brilliant assault Italian infantry secured a solid footing on a portion of the top of Monte San Michele. This peak dominates a group of roads to the south which are absolutely vital to the Austrian defence. If the Italians can secure the remainder of Monte San Michele and plant heavy artillery there, they will be able to sweep the plateau almost to the Adriatic. The Austrian official statement asserts that while the Italians did penetrate their lines near Oslava they were driven back save on one summit, "for the possession of which we are still fighting."

Spirited artillery actions on a large part of the western front are noted in the French report. The enemy's works, it is reported, were badly damaged. The regions of Loos and Hulloch are mentioned, so that the British guns are now joining in the artillery duel. The Belgians report German artillery activity around Dixmude, which was promptly met by the shelling of the German positions and batteries. The Russians came back on the run along the Sty. There, it is reported, "the enemy could not hold the ground which he had occupied, and we re-occupied on Friday the town of Czartorisk and the village of Kosinitch, on the left bank of the Styr below Czartorisk." The only other noteworthy incident on the eastern front is the forced retreat of the Germans from some of their trenches west of Dvinsk. In the abandoned positions the Russians found arms, munitions and German dead. There seems to be no vigor in the German infantry along the Dvina, although their artillery is still well served, especially on the Riga sector.

WEDS IN WEST.

Former Marysville Young Lady Married at Cranbrook, B. C. (Cranbrook, B. C., Herald.) The marriage of Mr. O. E. Barber, manager of the Cranbrook Drug and Book Co., to Miss Gertrude Wade, daughter of Mr. J. E. Wade, a former resident of this city, was solemnized at the residence of the bride's father, 1448 Eleventh avenue west, Vancouver, on Tuesday, October 26th, at two p. m. The ceremony was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom being present, the officiating minister being the Rev. Mr. Long of Vancouver. The bride wore a travelling suit of brown velvet with milk trimmings, and hat to match, with corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds. Luncheon was served after the wedding, and the happy couple left on the afternoon train for the south, visiting the San Francisco exposition, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Portland, Seattle and other points. Mr. and Mrs. Barber returned to Cranbrook on Tuesday and will occupy the Quain residence on Norbury avenue and Edwards street. The happy young couple were welcomed

Returned Soldier Heroes Entertained by the Canadian Order of Foresters Court

Reception in Honor of Major Guthrie Was Attended by Three Others.

LT. COL. H. F. McLEOD, M. P. WINS GENEROUS PRAISE

Eighteen Members of Court Fredericton Are Now Wearing Khaki.

Court Fredericton, No. 778, Canadian Order of Foresters, last evening honored Major Percy A. Guthrie, Fredericton's returned hero-officer and one of their foremost members. The affair took place after the regular meeting of the court and was in the way of a reception for Major Guthrie, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. A fine musical programme was carried out and during an interval refreshments were served. Chief Ranger Murray Hagerman, presided and all the officers of the Court were present as well as a large representation of the members. The first address of the evening was given by Sergt. Major Brewer, deputy recruiter for York County and Past Chief Ranger, who during the course of his remarks referred to the achievements of Major Guthrie at the front.

Major Guthrie's Address. Major Guthrie was called upon, and as he arose to speak he was given a great ovation by his fellow members. He congratulated the Court on the fact that 18 of its members were now in khaki and stated that he was proud to be a member of a society that had done so nobly in this great crisis. Several addresses were given. Private John Jones of the 12th Battalion (Montreal Highlanders), Private Jack Markey of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry and Private James King of the 12th Battalion, all returned heroes, and during his address Major Guthrie, referred to the bravery and gallantry of these men on the fighting line. "I feel proud to be able to speak to you of the commanding officer of the battalion of which the three men you see here tonight and myself belonged," said Major Guthrie. "I refer to Lieut. Col. H. F. McLeod, officer commanding the 12th Battalion and a member of your Court, Fredericton. He was one of the first to be killed in the war, and broke out, and went to England as the leader of the old 12th, which I have no hesitancy in saying was the finest unit in the entire British Empire. It was a day indeed when we were told that, as we were members of the 4th Brigade, we had to remain as a reserve battalion, and while our sorrow was great, yet that was an order and we obeyed. We were refused an opportunity of a test on the field with the other battalions. Of that entire 4th Brigade Col. McLeod was the only commanding officer who went to the front. He was there for two months when he was called back, orders having been sent out to fill up the ranks of his battalion. I want to tell you—his fellow members—that no commanding officer crossed the sea who holds the respect of every non-commissioned officer and man as does Col. McLeod." Major Guthrie's address at this stage was punctuated with cheers for Col. McLeod. Continuing, Major Guthrie spoke of a few incidents in connection with life on the firing line, and at the conclusion of his address the guests sang For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Roll of Honor

Court Fredericton has eighteen members on active service, the honor roll being as follows: Lieut. Col. H. F. McLeod, M. P. Major P. A. Guthrie, M. L. A. Capt. the Rev. J. H. MacDonald, D. W. Little, N. P. Blaisdell, Isaac Burns, A. H. Boddington, Sloney Drew, Rowland Fox, Fred Fletcher, Fletcher Foster, C. E. Miles, George W. Segge, Titus Munhall, Amos Pickard, Fred Lorette, George Lorette, Phil Lorette.

Col. McLeod Praised. Private John Markey gave a reading when called upon, and Private King and Private Jones both made short addresses. The latter also paid Col. McLeod a very high tribute. "The 12th that is of our members were now in khaki and stepped on the shores of England," he said, "and we had one of the best as a commanding officer. There is no man I respect more than Col. McLeod. I met him in France and he was the same to me as when I met him here at home. There is no man worthy of a better name, and those people who are knocking him at home while he is away are not to be considered with him. Some should take the opportunity of going to the front themselves."

All the returned heroes were very warm in their praise of Major Guthrie. At the conclusion of his address a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. F. Lister, seconded by Mr. George Crawford, to those who took part in the musical programme, which was as follows: Hallelu solo—Mr. C. D. Holder. Selection—Delong quartette. Song—Mr. George Ross. Reading—Mr. W. A. Walsh. Vocal solo—Mr. D. Leo Dolan. Song—Mr. Allen Delong. At the conclusion of the meeting Chief Ranger Hagerman stated that a resolution would be sent to Col. McLeod expressing regret at his present illness and congratulating him on his work as a commanding officer of the 12th Battalion. The gathering broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Lighter Side of Life

Over Jealous.

The proprietor of a "Novelty Shop" in Cleveland is a man of most excitable temperament who is continually finding fault with his clerks for their indifference in the matter of commencing sales. Not long ago he received a clerk say to a customer, "No, we haven't any for a long time." The proprietor, who was standing in the rear of the store, became much interested in an admission, and, advancing to the front of the store, glaring fiercely at the clerk, he said to the customer, "We have plenty in reserve, madam; plenty in the stock-room." The customer glanced at him wonderingly, and then, to the amazement of the proprietor, gave way to uncontrolled laughter, and walked out. "What did she say to you?" demanded the proprietor of the clerk. "What did she say? Oh, we were talking about the weather, and she said, 'We haven't had any rain lately.'"

A Pessimist.

Timothy McNulty was boss of a section of a Southern railway which included several tunnels. Timothy had as his guest Barney Madigan, a new rival from old Ireland, and together they were making an inspection of the road one morning. As they walked on, Barney Madigan was greeted with the piercing whistle of the limited, and stepped aside until it had passed. Barney stood in open-mouthed wonder as the fast train neared, passed, and entered the tunnel at the rate of fifty miles an hour. "Ain't that fine?" said Timothy, as the last car finally disappeared. "Talk about yer wondrous inventions! Where'll yer find anythin' ter bate that?" Barney was awestruck, and it was some moments before he could adequately express his thoughts. "Yis, Timothy, 'tis fine," said he, finally, "but I was jist thinkin' what a terrible thing 'twould be if it should miss 'er hole!"

His Benefactor.

After many years of long and faithful attendance on his patients, old Dr. Brown decided to take a much-needed vacation, intrusting his practice to his son. A recent medical graduate, later, when the old gentleman returned, the younger physician told him among other things, that he had cured Miss Anthony, an aged and wealthy spinster, of her chronic indigestion. "My boy," said the old gentleman, "I'm certainly proud of you; but Miss Anthony is the city by their numerous friends, who are extending congratulations. The bride was formerly a resident of Marysville and has many friends there who will join in congratulations.

George's Commission. One of the wealthy men of Cleveland, whose education is not as comprehensive as his business instinct, recently visited Washington and, incidentally, some of the historic towns of interest thereabout. "Here," said a guide to him one day, "right here in this room, sir, George Washington received his first commission." Whereupon the Clevelander brightened up. "Do you happen to know," he asked, "what per cent. commission it was?"
