

Hi-Po Waterproof Dry Batteries

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE, during recent years, has demonstrated that dry batteries, if properly constructed and protected, are ideal for ignition purposes.

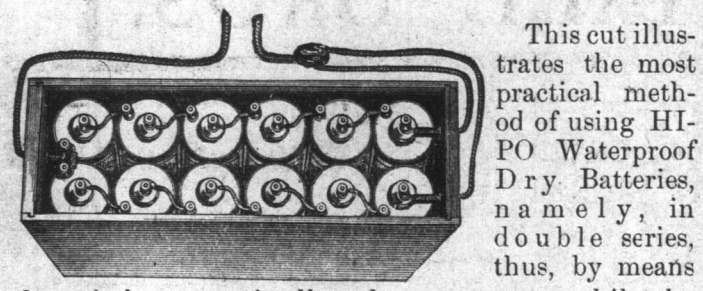

These two essential qualities are combined in the HI-PO waterproof dry cells.

It is a well known fact that the old-type zinc-cells are short-lived when exposed to moisture. Water and dampness have not the least effect on the HI-PO waterproof dry batteries, which can even be left standing in salt water without risk of short current.

Owing to the new patent process under which they are manufactured, the HI-PO waterproof dry cells are protected against all outside influences, each individual cell being built up and sealed in an insulated case.

The HI-PO waterproof dry batteries are used with absolute safety on land, on water and in aerial navigation; they are suitable for any work in any climate.

The HI-PO waterproof dry cells have a much longer life and give more service, size for size, than any other battery made.

This cut illustrates the most practical method of using HI-PO Waterproof Dry Batteries, namely, in double series, thus, by means of a switch, one set is allowed to recuperate, while the other set is in use. (Repair Dept.)

THE LABRADOR MISSION.

(The New Freeman.)

Practically a border line between Canada and Newfoundland, the Labrador has an international interest, and historically a very Catholic interest. Priests from Harbor Grace Diocese attend it. Also other Catholic missionaries have worked in that field. Among the missionary priests in Northern Newfoundland we might mention Father Sheehan. In point of seafaring perils his voyages might be called Apostolic. His contacts with the ice and storm in discharge of his sacred ministry have become a part of the Church history of the north. Especially on sick calls or in holding Stations, in the widely separated districts of his mission, Father Sheehan had frequently to encounter the dangers of the deep. Often in crossing by sail-boat from one side of a point to the other, Father Sheehan had to land on wave-covered shores. Here tide and reef added to the peril. To meet his parishioners in spring or autumn, or in the urgencies of sick calls, he would set forth on his sacred mission despite sleet, snow, ice or waves. Such a work was indeed weighty, and would be more so but for the hearty cheer and genial humor of the energetic, dauntless, lion-hearted missionary. Besides he was able and well seconded on the mission for souls by the free co-operation of his parishioners. They gladly confronted voyages by land and sea to forward him on his missions. In fact now that we read of the new missions in Western Canada and the urgent need there for hundreds of Apostolic Catholic missionaries, we may admit that in the quality of sacerdotal zeal the new missionaries of Catholicity in the West will deserve the best possible inspiration from those ambassadors of the Christian Gospel who have worked for the Church from Labrador to the coast of Massachusetts. The new West will have to learn from the old West in that matter.

Since Father Sheehan began his mission in that part of northern Newfoundland nearest the Labrador coast, many important changes have taken place in the matter of steam communication. Also he was a pioneer of new educational work in many northern settlements, greatly aiding the Bishop in laying the foundations of schools and churches. In all these matters the parishioners were a strong support to him. He was also a zealous preacher of the Gospel, and each Sunday in some portion of his extensive parish he eloquently set forth Divine Truth. In the celebrated mission district of Tilt Cove, famous for lead, copper and silver, Father Sheehan was regarded by the sturdy miners from all parts of the world as a man of "light and leading," veritably a "guide, philosopher and friend." Also, Father Sheehan encouraged as far as possible industrial developments with a view towards the permanent settlement of many places under his spiritual care. He saw in many places great possibilities as regards farming, mining and lumbering and counselled the people to take up these pursuits and with good effect.

The Labrador territory itself is very much more easy of access now than it was about thirty years ago when Father Sheehan began his northern mission. To-day the missionary may go from place to place by steamers, and in summer time enjoy the picturesque variety of the North—a great advance on pioneer days, when means of locomotion was, gradually applied and when the forces of nature were frequently obstacles such as only zeal could combat.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES COLDS, ETC.

An Enjoyable Evening.

A splendid entertainment was given under the auspices of Mrs. Jas. D. Lockyer, in the Orange Hall, on Easter Monday night, consisting of songs, recitations, readings, dialogues, and the celebrated Breach of Promise case by Pickwick and Bardell. Great praise is due the performers in the way they acted their separate parts. Great praise is due the children for the way in which they adapted themselves in the dialogue: "Visitors from Dreamland," and gave all present an idea of the good training they must get at school under Miss Head, the day school teacher. The Orange Hall was filled to the door, and judging from the large audience the proceeds of the evening must have been considerably large, which will go, we understand, in aid of the day school. The entertainment closed at 10.30 by singing the National Anthem, and all proceeded to their respective homes overjoyed with the splendid results of the evening.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I am, yours truly,

ONE PRESENT.
Herring Neck, March 30th, 1910.

Mr. Roosevelt Charged by a Lion.

The lion stopped and lay down behind a bush; jumping off I took a shot at him at two hundred yards, but only wounded him slightly in one paw; and after a moment's sullen hesitation he went, lashing his tail. We mounted our horses and went after him: Tarleton lost sight of him, but I marked him lying down behind a low grassy ant hill. Again we dismounted at a distance of two hundred yards; Tarleton telling me that now he was sure to charge. In all East Africa there is no man, not even Cuninghame himself, whom I would rather have by me than Tarleton, in difficulties with a charging lion; on this occasion, however, I am glad to say that his rifle was badly sighted, and shot altogether too low.

Again I knelt and fired; but the mass of hair on the lion made me think he was nearer than he was, and I undershot, inflicting a flesh wound that was neither crippling nor fatal. He was already grunting savagely and tossing his tail erect, with his head held low; and at the shot the great sinewy beast came toward us with the speed of a greyhound. Tarleton then, very properly, fired, for lion hunting is no child's play, and it is not good to run risks. Ordinarily it is a very mean thing to experience joy at a friend's misadventure; but this was not an ordinary case, and I felt keen delight when the bullet from the badly sighted rifle missed, striking the ground many yards short. I was sighting carefully, from my knee, and I knew I had the lion all right; for though he galloped at a great pace, he came an steadily—ears laid back, and uttering terrific coughing grunts—and there was now no question of making allowance for distance, nor, as he was out in the open, for the fact that he had not before been distinctly visible. The head of my foresight was exactly on the centre of his chest as I pressed the trigger, and the bullet went as true as if the place had been plotted with dividers. The blow brought him up all standing, and he fell forward on his head. The soft-nosed Winchester bullet had gone straight through the chest cavity, smashing the lungs and the big blood-vessels of the heart. Painfully he recovered his feet, and tried to come on, his ferocious courage holding out to the last.—From "African Game Trails," by Theodore Roosevelt, in the April Scribner.

WARNING.

Since the discovery in England and the introduction into Newfoundland of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower, and on account of the phenomenal sale it has had, others have tried to imitate SALVIA. Beware and make certain you get the original. Every bottle bears the same, "SALVIA" (Latin for sage).

The results obtained from using SALVIA are remarkable. Falling hair is at once fastened to the scalp; new life springs up from the roots, and the growth of the hair is amazing. Dead hairs are restored to their natural color. The Dandruff germ is destroyed. Every bottle has a written guarantee. Your dealer always keeps a stock of SALVIA on hand. Try a bottle and watch your hair grow. SALVIA is the only preparation, as far as we know, that is sold with a guarantee. A large bottle for 50c.

Entertainment

At Holyrood.

An entertainment was given in the Star Hall, Holyrood, on Monday night last which had been under preparation for weeks. The troupe was composed of two teachers—Messrs. T. Dwyer and Patrick Morrissey, Station Agent; Geo. Nicholl, P. Muldowney and Mrs. Moore, and Misses Morrissey, Muldowney and Kennedy, together with the more talented pupils of the four schools of the parish. The performance was under the capable direction of Rev. Fr. Battcock, who has had a long experience. It is needless to say our expectations ran high and that the whole performance pleased the audience very much. The songs were a happy selection, and the choruses showed the presence of good voices on the stage. The dialogues were healthy in tone and amusing in character, and the recitations were well rendered and received. The entertainment was a decided success socially and financially. The hall was packed with a large audience. The rev. director and his troupe have made a decided hit and received well merited congratulations. I would wish to particularize, but I have not a programme beside me, so I cannot give the names of all the performers or pieces. I notice Mrs. (Capt.) Lewis presided at the piano and played the accompaniments of the different songs capably. The dance which came off at the close of the programme was well patronized, and musician Corbett kept the young folk busy till the programme was finished. The entertainment was repeated on Tuesday evening to the children of the parish free, and when over, the rev. director's performers were feasted with good things provided by some ladies and catered to by Misses Joy, Rourke, O'Neill and Hicks. Messrs. Geo. Nicholl, T. Dwyer, Bernard Barrett and Meadames Lewis and Moore had charge of the stage decorations, which were very attractive. What pleased me most were the dialogue, "The Unwilling Witness," and the song, "How Cook Found the Pole." We hope to see more of those school entertainments in the future. Their influence upon pupils, teachers and parents cannot be too highly valued.

Yours thankfully,
AMATEUR.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, April 8, '10.

White Rose Tooth Paste has proven its value against anything of the kind in the market. It is of the proper consistence and does not get hard. It is bland and pleasant in flavor, and does not become hard, and it keeps the teeth white and clean, and preserves them. Try a tube next time. Price 25c.

Violet Witch Hazel Toilet Water is just the thing for use after shaving, and as a general toilet perfume. Sweet, lasting, economical. Large bottle for 35c.

Rademaker's Hopes can now be had at both our stores. You ought to try them—they are simply delicious. 10, 20 and 30c. pkg.—adv.

Last Night's Recital.

An appreciative audience greeted the organist and choir at the vocal and instrumental recital given in Cochrane Street Methodist Church last evening. The choir rendered three anthems, and Misses Herder, Vincent and Dr. Macpherson were the soloists. The organist, Mr. Arthur Mowls, played four organ pieces, the beautiful instrument was shown off to much advantage, especially in the last number given, the "Grand Offertoire" in D, the composition of which was essentially French in style. The recital lasted just one hour, and we congratulate all who took part in giving this opportunity of spending such a pleasant hour.

C. C. C. SPORTS.—The members of the C. C. C. are now making preparations for their annual indoor sports which will take place in the Armoury the last of the month. A specially good programme is being prepared.

AN ORDERLY CITY.—Despite the fact that there are hundreds of sealers in the city, all of whom have done well at the sealfishery and are plentifully supplied with money, the police experience very little trouble. There is practically no drunkenness and few arrests are made.
