An Adventurous Life.

Last night a young man who arriv ed here yesterday from Grand Falls, named J. W. R. Hamilton, of Kent, England, reported to the police the loss of a sum of money. He says he has had a most adventurous career spent two years in the Argentine Re public, was a member of the Vigi-lants there, captured a desperado who had killed 27 persons, and only eccived $15 reward for his brave ac from the Government. The captiv was given a life term. Leaving ther he went to South Africa, joined Welsh Regiment and went through the Boer War under Baden-Powell. His mother and two sisters, he says, wer killed by bursting shells at Lady and his father and brothe thile defending the town. He has wo sisters and a brother living new t Johannesburg. On arriving here n a vessel he went to Green Bay a he herring fishery for 6 months, and the past fourteen months has been a work at Grand Falls.
