

CONGO

NEVER-LEAK ROOFING

CONGO ROOFING is made for all weathers. An unusually severe storm won't hurt it. An extraordinary hot spell won't hurt it. An extra long cold snap won't hurt it. It will stand any kind of exposure. The weather finds no way in which to attack Congo Roofing.

RAIN can't damage it because there is nothing in it that is affected by water in any way. If Congo Roofing were put at the bottom of a pond, the water would never disintegrate it.

AIR can't damage it because there is nothing in it that is volatile—nothing that will evaporate. If Congo Roofing were hung out like a flag for years, so that air could get at both sides of it, it would stay just as pliable and elastic as when new.

CLIMATE can't change it because there is nothing in it that is affected by either heat or cold. The heat on roofs is often terrific, and in cold weather the snow thaws and freezes there for weeks, but Congo has never shown any effects of such exposure.

IT can't rot because there is nothing in it that can decompose. It is because we know the nature of the materials we use that we venture to say that Congo Roofing is practically indestructible.

PEOPLE who buy Congo Roofing for a building once, don't buy any more in after years—for that building—because it is there to stay, although the roof costs but little. They do buy more for their other roofs. Everyone who tries Congo is soon a convert, and he becomes more enthusiastic the longer he waits for the roof to wear out.

EVERY foot of Congo Roofing is carefully inspected as it comes off the machine. No imperfect rolls are allowed to leave the factory. Every pound of the material that enters into the composition is carefully tested before being used, and strictly held to standard. Should it fail in the slightest way, it is immediately discarded. Congo Roofing is handsome in appearance, being of a uniform slate-gray color.

CONGO ROOFING is put up in rolls 36 inches wide. Each roll contains 216 square feet, sufficient to cover 200 square feet and allow for a two inch lap. The rolls are finished with an attractive wrapper and label, and are capped with a special metal cap to protect the ends of the roofing. A steel rod runs through the center to hold the caps and cement securely in place.

SUFFICIENT Congo cement, nails and tin caps for applying are neatly packed in the center of each roll, so that you pay nothing for extras.

CONGO ROOFING is easy to apply. Skilled labor is not necessary. You don't have to hire an expert to help. If you can drive a nail you can do all the work that is necessary.

Wedding Bells.

BIRCHENOUGH-TAVERNER.

On August the 11th, Musgrave Hr. was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when the Reverend Allen Oakley Birchenough, and Miss Elsie Louise Taverner were united in Holy matrimony by the Rev. E. C. French. The ceremony was performed in the Methodist Church, in the presence of a large audience. The bride, handsomely attired in a dress of white silk, with an embroidered bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carrying a large and beautiful bouquet of white roses, carnations, lilies, and maiden hair ferns, etc., looked very charming as she entered the church on the arm of J. B. Wheeler, Esq., J. P., with Mrs. French the wife of the pastor acting as bridesmaid.

She was met at the altar by the groom, he being supported by Dr. C. V. Whiteway a resident of the place. Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered by Mrs. Solomon Whiteway of St. John's. The ceremony over, the happy couple left the church amidst showers of rice.

The wedding reception was held at the parsonage, which was attended by a number of friends; and a very pleasant evening was spent. The bride was the recipient of some very valuable and useful presents.

Mr. Birchenough is a son of the Reverend Albert A. Birchenough, a Primitive Methodist minister of Wolverton, England. He came to the colony in 1907 as a candidate for the ministry of the Methodist Church; was accepted, and laboured with marked success at Bay Roberts, George Street, St. John's and Springdale, Notre Dame Bay, respectively.

As to his preaching there is no need of saying here that he has been a success in this conference; for the people on the various circuits in which he has laboured for the past three years, know him to be a most refreshing, and inspiring preacher, as well as an able minister of the New Testament. We congratulate Dr. Jabez Moore on capturing one of the most brilliant young men of this conference, for the work in North Dakota. Miss Taverner is a daughter of J. H. Taverner Esq., of Little Bay; and has been in the teaching profession for the past three years, in which sphere she too, has been very successful. She has laboured indefatigably, and has felt rewarded in that she has secured so many passes in the C. H. E. Examinations. Mr. and Mrs. Birchenough will leave Little Bay in September for North Dakota, which place will be their future home.

We wish them many years of wedded bliss, and abundant success in the work that they have undertaken to do for the master.

A Dangerous Man.

Rev. Edward Lloyd Jones, a Manchester minister, tells a story of his experience in Fenian days. He was travelling from a Welsh village to Brecon, and had with him a strong wooden box filled with heavy theological books. At Shrewsbury the detectives, who were on the look-out for explosive machines and the like, suspected this heavy box, and word was sent on to Brecon. When the young minister stepped out of the train he was astonished to find a sergeant and several constables awaiting him.

"I think you have a box with you?" said the sergeant.

"Quite right," said the preacher, who began to scowl a little.

Out came the box, and its weight excited fresh suspicion about its contents.

"This is your box?"

"Yes."

"It contains ammunition?"

"It does."

"Very well. Consider yourself in charge. Open the box."

The company stood away while the lid was cautiously wrenched off. When the sergeant found it contained nothing more explosive than Adam Clarke's "Theology" he expressed his indignation freely to the minister. All that he got back was the soft answer: "Why, bless my soul, man, you asked me if the box contained ammunition. That is my ammunition. I'm a Methodist parson, and that's what I shoot with."

Sunday School Picnic at Clareville.

The Clareville Sunday School picnic came off on Thursday, the 1st inst., at Clareville. The management deserves the highest congratulations. Mr. George Jones, the devoted Sunday School Superintendent, and Mrs. Arthur Balsom, also prominent in Sunday School labours, were foremost in the activities of the occasion. The picnic was held in Arthur Balsom's meadow, and here the tables were lined up about 2 p.m., and from that time until 8 p.m. the demand never ceased and the supply was equal to the demand. The Methodist friends of Clareville are noted for their ability to carry through a function of this nature, and in the present instance they simply excelled. Mrs. Arthur Balsom, whose home was the centre of supply, showed a grand combination of the qualities which, more than anything else, help to make social meetings pleasant and agreeable and shut off the carping or over-queamish attendants. The writer was struck with the large number of visitors present on the occasion. They came from various directions and crowded in until the large meadow was nearly filled. Of course some of the Ethie's crew, and conspicuous among them the chief engineer, put in an appearance on the grounds and showed some interest in a football match which was in progress at the time, and a genial Customs official from St. John's also gave a distinctive feature to the gathering. There was a charming assemblage of lady visitors on the grounds, some of them all the way from Boston, and I am inclined to the opinion that, with our home-made and home-kept stock, no place in the island could show off to better advantage than did this unassuming little settlement on the present occasion. The usual games and sports were indulged in throughout the evening. "Uncle Reuben" did good work with his box of kites, and it would be a good thing if others would copy his generous example.

The people have started a new school building here, north of the railway track, and the new teacher has commenced her duties in the old building. It is to be hoped that she will have the sympathy and co-operation of the people and that her services will commend her to public esteem.

Freight at Halifax.

We learn from Messrs. Harvey & Co. that there is quite an accumulation of freight at Halifax for here and that it is likely that the next will be the last trip of the Rosalind on the Montreal route. The Bornu will drop out and the Rosalind will take her place on the New York-Halifax service. The Bonavista will continue the Montreal service and later the Coban, Cape Breton and other boats will likely go on for the fall freight to this port.

The Daughters of the Empire.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—I take the liberty of asking your co-operation in a project which the call of Empire impels us to undertake. There is being formed an all-British Woman's Patriotic League, with branches in every part of the British Empire and amongst the British born women in the United States. It is proposed to hold next summer in England, a conference of all these organisations, which are in friendly alliance. The Guild of Loyal Women, South Africa; The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire for Canada, the West Indies and the United States, and the Victoria League, representing Australia, New Zealand and the British Isles.

The ladies of Newfoundland are invited to join in this Imperial movement, and a committee composed of several officers of the Daughters of the Empire, who are making a tour through Eastern Canada, propose to visit St. John's early in October in order to form a chapter here and awaken an interest in the divers parts of the Empire, and draw closer in sympathy and understanding the patriotic workers in Newfoundland. The value of the Imperial Order has been made so apparent to the Newfoundland women living in the United States that already two strong chapters have been formed amongst them in New York, which have proven themselves worth while, and the members expressed themselves desirous of having the Imperial Order established in Newfoundland. It is an inspiring thought, that of joining so world wide a movement, and we hope the ladies of Newfoundland will show their patriotism by joining with enthusiasm in the movement.

The Executive hope that you will give prominence to the proposed visit of their committee and encourage your ladies to join the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire and give expression to the splendid idea that the British Empire is the greatest the world has ever seen, and the women within its scattered parts are united in loyalty and devotion to "one flag, one throne, one Empire."

Under separate cover I am sending you our last annual report, a copy of our magazine, "Echoes," a Constitution and leaflet, and hope you will have time to look them over and make extracts in your valuable paper to make known the scope of our work. Hoping for your co-operation, I am

Yours faithfully,
CASILIATINE AELLAND MERRITT,
Honorary Organizing Secretary,

Prince Wouldn't Drink at Fellow Students' Banquet.

Crown Prince of Germany Protested Against Drinking Laws of Students—Emperor Upheld Him.
The German Crown Prince gave the first proof of individual development when, as a student, he refused to submit to the terrible drinking laws which oblige the younger students to swallow an enormous quantity of beer at the command of the older ones. This rebellion was considered by his fellow-students as a breach of sacred tradition, and a report was drawn up and presented to the Emperor, stating the revolutionary behavior of his son. The Emperor is not a very lenient father, but on this occasion he took the side of the Crown Prince, and only the other day he lectured to the students on the evil effects of this custom of excessive drinking.

Has Made no Stir.
The Crown Prince has not made a stir in the world, although once he delivered a public speech in which he called the social Democrats "miscreants." This, of course, was a blunder, for the German Social Democratic party is made up of several millions of members, and the future Emperor must not offend a powerful party, except in a case of urgent necessity.

The newspapers were almost unanimous in their denunciation of this speech, and the prince was silent for years.

Excellent Sportsman.
One knows only that he is an excellent sportsman, and that he assumes no airs. He treats the pompous festivities of the court as "humbug," and he charms the people who approach him by the natural easiness and simplicity of his manners. He is very slender, graceful in his movements, and a remarkable horseman. He is interested in the theatre, and he went seven times to see one comic opera. The political education of the prince was confined to the secret counsellor, Von Falkenhayn.
