

The Tilton-Beecher Scandal.
The American papers are again revelling in the Tilton-Beecher scandal, which has been revived by the publication of a letter from the former addressed to the Rev. Dr. Bacon, who presided over the Brooklyn Congregational Council, which met last year to discuss this painful quarrel. Mr. Tilton felt aggrieved by the action of this Council, and once more re-opens the whole question as to the amount of blame which attaches to him or to Henry Ward Beecher.

Tilton, according to his statement, was a member of Plymouth Church for 15 years, but in 1870 it came to his knowledge that Beecher had committed against him an offence which he forbears to name or characterize. On this account he ceased attending his ministry, and after the lapse of a certain period, his name was, according to the rules of the church, erased from the list of members. It seems that Beecher apologized to him for the wrong—whatever it was—that he had committed, and alleged that an exposure would forbid him re-ascending the pulpit. Thus the matter stood till 1872, when some New York paper published a garbled version of the scandal, attributing its origin and animus to Tilton. This was followed by accusations made before the Congregational Council already referred to, which he alleges were permitted by Mr. Beecher, who, Tilton says, was himself the guilty party. Smarting under these wrongs, Tilton says he could stand it no longer, and so adopts this last method of clearing himself. He gives documentary evidence to substantiate his assertions, and fortify his position. Among others he publishes a letter he says he received from Beecher in 1871, which reads as follows:—"I ask Theodore Tilton's forgiveness, and humble myself before him as I do before my God. He would have been a better man in my circumstances than I have been. I can ask nothing except that he will remember all the other breasts that would ache. I will not plead for myself. I even wish that I were dead."

Thus the matter stands, but what the end will be we know not. Beecher maintains a dead silence, but it is understood that the position he intends to take is this:—He will make at the proper time a statement exonerating Tilton from blame in connection with the misrepresentations that have been made. As to the nature of the original difficulty between them, he will decline to be instrumental in reopening the matter, taking the ground that it was a personal affair between him and Tilton that was amicably settled years ago, and with which the public has no business. If the Plymouth Church insists on a re-opening and investigation of the scandal, he may resign his pastorate. It is stated on good authority that the original charge against Mr. Beecher was of not so serious a character as might be inferred from the published extract from Mr. Beecher's apology.

The Six Nations Indians.
Last session Mr. Paterson, the member for South Brant, endeavored to interest Parliament in the condition of the Indians living in the different Provinces, and to this end obtained a committee of the House, who, however, confined their inquiries to the condition of the Six Nations Indians, living on the Reservation near Brantford. Some interesting facts have been gleaned from the evidence furnished to the committee by the Espositor, from which we copy:—

"A gradual improvement is going on in the moral character and habits of industry of those who occupy the Reservation on the Grand River. A well organized Agricultural Society has been instituted among them, and the annual amount of produce, horses and cattle is very creditable. About three-fourths are professing Christians, while the remaining fourth are pagans who worship the Great Spirit with the forms and ceremonies of their forefathers. The Reserve consists of about 52,000 acres of land, of which from 8,000 to 10,000 is in various stages of improvement. It is divided into concessions and lots of about one hundred acres each. The good merchantable timber has already been removed, that which remains being necessary for the Indians themselves for farming and household purposes. A great amount of trouble and expense has been incurred in keeping the wood from being taken off the Reserve. The Council look with disfavor upon the Indians renting their farms to the whites, and it is allowed only in very special cases. An Indian married to a white woman does not forfeit his annuity, but an Indian woman who marries a white man loses it and her name is erased from the list. This is said to encourage adultery among the tribes. Any member of the Six Nations who is absent for a time may be traced from the list. The Indians prefer their ancient rules to the statute law of the country enacted for their regulation. The Act of 1869 is not acceptable to them, and very few have availed themselves of the enfranchisement clauses of it, which is probably owing to the fact that they do not obtain a fee simple for their lands. If they could dispose freely of the land acquired by them, more would take advantage of it, but at present it would be injudicious to grant such a right, unless under very well-defined restrictions. The number of chiefs exceeds sixty, but that number never attends Council. The Indians are not yet in a state to alter their place among the rest of the population of the country, but a few years will be productive of great advances and work out the needed change. Many of them are now well qualified to do so, but the great majority have not yet acquired those habits of industry and foresight necessary for such a step. The intermarriage of Indians and whites is injurious to the health and constitution of the offspring. From seven to ten days is required to pay the annuity money, which is due by the Superintendent at the Council House on the Reserve. We will give some further interesting facts in a future article."

It is generally understood in Ottawa that the Hon. Malcom Cameron will shortly succeed Mr. Morris as Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba. Lord Dufferin will arrive in Ottawa this week from Quebec, on which occasion Mr. Fournier will be sworn in as Minister of Justice, and Mr. Geoffrion as Minister of Inland Revenue. From that city His Excellency will proceed to Simcoe and Lake Superior, probably to Manitoba. Dr. Nelles, Principal of Victoria College, is in Hamilton, to confer with its citizens and ascertain what they will do with the view of getting Victoria College moved from Cobourg to that city.

That part of the Mississippi bottom which was flooded with water last spring, is raising magnificent crops of corn, which spring up in a few days after being planted.
