Crichlow's Suspension Follows the Run-In

Crichlow was suspended in-efinitely for his attack on imps De Lave, but while London fans do not generally stand behind rowdy'sm, they are solid behind Crich's actions. De Lave, if reports are true, and they are liable to investigation, not only challenged any member of the London team, but throughout the series here made remarks, which were both insulting to the fans of London and to Canada as a nation. "A poor bunch of fans, poorer than the country they live in was one of the remarks Mister De Lave is said to have made, the while he was drawing his monthly stipend largely through London fans, whose support con-stitutes about three-fifths of the Mint League's financial strength, He is also alleged to have de-liberately baited some of the London players, sotto voce, until they were beyond playing ball.

This is quite believable after De Lave's open remarks to the fans in the stands, during the whole time he worked here. He may have been subjected to some rather caustic remarks, but he invited them, and will probably invite still more trouble if
