salle's death took place shortly after he became the apostle of socialism, but his doctrines and teachings lived after three million dollars, in other words the his doctrines and teachings lived after him, and flourished like the proverbial green bay tree. After the close of Germanyls war with France, on the 6th of May, when the peace of Frankfort was signed, the condition of the country was in the bighest degree favorable to the movement, as the people became intoxicated with success, and thought the war indemnity was an inexhaustible mine of wealth. This led to great extravagance of living among the middle and working classes; while at the same time the expenses of state affairs were enumous. The Chancellor of the German Empire, Prince Bismarck, has himself to thank, in a large measure, that he now finds himself opposed by an expression of popular feeling that cannot be denied. He is a statesman of extraordinary genius and authority; but he will need all his powers to grapple successfully with the new order of things. He might repeal the Suffrage Act of 1869, which entitles every German twenty one years of age to be a voter, and also every one who has resided one year in one of the Federal States, and has completed his twenty fifth year. He is capable of this, or some other course equally harsh, but what would the result be if he exercises his arbitrary power so severely?

Our attention has been called to an article which appears in the New York Scientific Times and Register, relating to the boot and shoe manufactories of Messrs. Jacob M. Cropley & Bros., in the New England States. The article we quote below; and as the Messrs. Cropley are natives of this county, we will preface the article with a few facts in regard to the senior and leading meinber of the firm, which will be of interest to a large rection of our readers. The mother of these gentlemen was a Miller, consequently their connection is wide.

Miller, consequently their connection is wide.

J. M. Cropley was born at Mount Ha-ley, in 1846, and is now 38 years of age. At the age of 22 he struck out for the States, without trade or money,
