

WARD, LOCK & CO.'S

THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL.

By GUY BOOTHBY.

A more exciting romance no man could reasonably ask for.

WHEN I WAS CZAR.

By A. W. MARCHMONT.

A really brilliant novel, full of dramatic incident and smart dialogue.

THE CRIMSON BLIND.

By FRED M. WHITE.

One of the most ingeniously conceived detective stories ever written.

THE LODESTAR.

By MAX PEMBERTON.

A fine and distinguished romance.

IN WHITE RAIMENT.

By WILLIAM LE QUEUX.

Absolutely the most puzzling and enthralling of Mr. Le Queux's many popular romances.

NOT PROVEN.

By ALICE AND CLAUDE ASKEW.

The finest emotional and entertaining story these authors have written.

YOUNG LORD STRANLEIGH.

By ROBERT BARR.

"The most amusing and at the same time the most exciting novel of the year."—Manchester Courier.
