

obligations to you for so many kindnesses received at your hands, and every feeling of my heart, would forbid anything of the kind. When I commenced to write this letter, I had no idea of the length or the range of discussion it would assume. But as I have mused, the fire has burned, my convictions have come out clear and strong, and I have felt that, as a servant of Christ, and in furtherance of what I believed to be for His glory, I ought to be neither afraid nor ashamed to utter them. If aught has been written amiss, may he pardon and overrule it; if aught according to His will, may he bless and prosper it.

With sincere veneration and affection,

I am, my dear Bishop,

Very truly, yours, etc.,

A. J. LATANE.
