

Yesterday, To-day, -- nay, every Day,
and all Night long.

ALWAYS conscious of these perilous Times, and ever careless of promoting Manufactures and Pieces of Mechanism, we beg leave in these alarming Days, to send you an Alarum-clock, made by a very curious Native of this City, tho' formerly born in London. The Use of it is too invisible not to be seen by more discerning Eyes than those of your Grace.— For, as Dangers and Invasions may happen at Midnight, when you are fast asleep; your Grace need but pull a small String and you may wake yourself, whenever, and as often as you please,—in the Day-time.

WE hope a certain A——l, who shall be nameless, by Name Mr. B—g, may, if he deserve it, be brought to that Shame his Actions will and have intitled him to, whenever he shall be employed again, which we hope a —— will prevent.—Being willing to overlook the first Fault,
