

THE COMPLETE PREACHER

—AND—

The Metropolitan Pulpit and Homiletic Monthly
ISSUED AS ONE LARGE MAGAZINE.

COMMENDATIONS.

From literally thousands of letters and newspaper notices, commending our two periodicals (now issued as one large magazine), we have taken almost at random the following:

"I am delighted at the union. Your magazine is to the preacher very much what the daily paper is to the merchant."—GEORGE H SMYTH, Chaplain House of Refuge, New York.

From JOHN GREENFIELD, D.D., British Chaplain of Rouen, France: "I wish you every possible success, and will not fail to circulate the work as far as I can. We have nothing in England half so good in form or contents."

"We are not surprised at the popularity of this magazine among clergymen."—The Methodist Protestant, Baltimore.

"The Metropolitan Pulpit and Homiletic Monthly comes to us with a rich variety, and in its line has nothing to compare with it in our country."—REV. DR. STEELE, New Brunswick, N.J., in The Freedonian.

"It is valuable to clergymen. By a bird's-eye view we see what the leading ministers of the different denominations throughout the world are preaching about and how they preach."—Toronto Christian Guardian.

"The great value of this periodical is its suggestions to preachers in the active ministry. It ought to find its way into every pastor's study."—The Church Union, New York.

"We prefer this periodical greatly to any collection of sermons of any one man or of any number of men, for it not only presents in a condensed form the sermons of many eminent divines, but devotes considerable space to 'Preachers Exchanging Views,' 'Sermonic Criticisms,' etc."—The Presbyterian, Wilmington, N. C.

"We wish that all might take it."—The Church News, St Louis, Mo.

"The editor has made this monthly a necessity to thousands of ministers."—Christian Intelligencer, N. Y.

"The Religious Newspaper Agency are doing a work of universal value to ministers and students in their two periodicals. The prices bring them within the range of all."—St Louis Central Advocate.

"Bears out its claim to be a monthly invaluable to clergymen and to all who are preparing to enter the ministry."—Religious Telescope.

"Contains many hints at the meaning of texts, sermonic criticisms, a multitude of suggestions as to preaching, etc., which must prove most valuable to all ministers and lovers of good preaching."—Methodist, New York.

"Must prove valuable to all ministers."—Golden Rule (Dr. MURRAY'S paper) Boston.

"It is greatly improved, and is indispensable to any man who wishes to keep posted on the pulpit of the day. It is suggestive and helpful in a high degree to a preacher."—Chicago Standard.

"Unquestionably of great value to all who 'search the Scriptures,' and to those who are called to 'divide the word of truth.'"—St Louis Presbyterian.

"The Complete Preacher is the best thing of the kind published,"—C. R. BLAUVELT, Ed. of The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

"This monthly is of wonderful value to ministers. . . . The suggestions and thoughts are the finest of the living ministry to-day."—St Louis Observer.
