

friendship courted by the Zempoallans, 299. Builds a fort, 301. Concludes a formal alliance with several caziques, 302. Discovers a conspiracy among his men, and destroys his ships, 304. Is opposed by the Tlascalans, 307. Concludes a peace with them, 310. Proceeds to Cholula, 312. Discovers a conspiracy against him there, and destroys the inhabitants, 313. Approaches in sight of the capital city of Mexico, 314. His first interview with Montezuma, 316. His anxiety at his situation in the city of Mexico, 320. Seizes Montezuma, 322. Prevails on him to own himself a vassal to the Spanish crown, 327. An armament sent by Velasquez to supersede him, 331. His deliberations on this event, 332. Advances to meet Narvaez, 336. Defeats Narvaez and takes him prisoner, 339. Gains over the Spanish soldiers to his interest, ib. Returns to Mexico, 341. Is resolutely attacked by the Mexicans, 342. Death of Montezuma, 344. His extraordinary escape from death, 345. Abandons the city of Mexico, 346. Difficulties of his retreat, 348. Battle of Otumba, and defeat of the Mexicans, 350. Reduces the Tepeacans, 353. Returns towards Mexico, 355. Establishes his headquarters at Tezcuco, 357. Reduces or conciliates the surrounding country, 358. Builds and launches a fleet of brigantines on the lake, and besieges Mexico, 361. Gains possession of the city, 370, and of the whole empire, 372. Is appointed governor of New Spain, 378. His cruel treatment of the natives, 379. His conduct subjected to inquiry, 382. Returns to Spain to justify himself, ib. Is rewarded by the emperor Charles V., 383. Goes back to Mexico with limited powers, ib. Discovers California, 381. Returns to Spain, and dies, 385.

Council of the Indies, its power, 508.

Creoles in the Spanish American colonies, character of, 512.

Cuba, the island of, discovered by Christopher Columbus, 73. Is sailed round by Ocampo, 136. The conquest, undertaken by Diego Velasquez, 143. Cruel treatment of the cazique Hatuey, and his repartee to a friar, ib.

Cubagua, a pearl fishery established there, 138.

Cumana, desolated by Diego Ocampo, 168.

Cuzco, the capital of the Peruvian empire, founded by Manco Capac, 397. Is seized by Pizarro, 413. Is besieged by the Peruvians, 418. Is surprised by Almagro, 420. Is recovered and pillaged by the Pizarros, 425. Was the only city in all Peru, 491.

Dancing, the love of, a favourite passion among the Americans, 264.

Darien, the isthmus of, described, 147.

Diaz, Bartholomew, discovers the Cape of Good Hope, 46.

Domingo, St., on the island of Hispaniola, founded by Bartholomew Columbus, 104.

Dominicans, those in Hispaniola publicly remonstrate against the cruel treatment of the Indians, 156.

Drunkenness, strong propensity of the Americans to indulge in, 266.

Earth, the globe of, how divided into zones by the ancients, 19.

Esquimaux Indians, resemblance between them and their neighbours the Greenlanders, 194.

Eugene IV., pope, grants to the Portuguese an exclusive right to all the countries they should discover, from Cape Non to the continent of India, 40.

Ferdinand, king of Castile—see Columbus and Isabella—turns his attention at length to the regulation of American affairs, 134. Don Diego de Columbus sues out his father's claims against him, 137. Erects two governments on the continent of America, 139. Sends a fleet to Darien, and supersedes Balboa, 150. Appoints Balboa lieutenant-governor of the countries on the South sea, 153. Sends Dias de Solis to discover a western passage to the Moluccas, 155. Thwarts the measures of Diego Columbus, ib. His decree concerning the treatment of the Indians, 157.