If there is a month that is more gladly chievous boys, through a long, hot nailed by the mothers of the Queen City perionce can understand. halled by the mothers of the Queen City than September, I want to make the acquaintance of that month! All July and Angust, the kiddles, from the four or five-year-old kindergartner to the boys and girls in their teens, have had the run of the home from early morning till late at night, and no moment has been free from their mischlef and noise, their endless wants, their walls and woes. They have had glorlous, idle, happy days,—but the mothers? There have been no blessed hours of calm between 9 o'clock and 12, when mother has been sure of an uninterrupted breathing space in which to get through her never ending work, and to do so with the knowledge that the bairns were absolutely safe within the protecting.

There have been no flessed through her never ending work, and to do so with the knowledge that the bairns were absolutely safe within the protecting.

There—only those who have had this experience can understand.

Why is it—"Why is ut—in the name of Hiven why is ut—as Mulvaney would say, that we snould be treated by the patent with a they is safe with all the diseases that fiesh is helr to? We are neither mained, nor halt, nor blind, nor deaf; on the contrary we are most uninterestingly healthy—not to say robust. Yet we, and not the gaunt, emaclated, holiow-eyed victim of disease in front of us, when mother has been sure of an uninterrupted breathing space in which to get through her never ending work, and to do so with the knowledge that the bairns were absolutely safe within the protecting. bailed by the mothers of the Queen City
