PUBLIC MORALS AND VOTERS.

The voters of Ontario have a duty to perform. Things have been done in this province and are being done daily in this province which are flagrant offences against public morals.

We refer to the manner in which the Government is conducting its business in connection with elections, particularly to keep the Ross government in power. The courts have exposed these things, and all men know of them. These acts have been connected up to members of the government and to their recognized agents and the agents of the Liberal party. If any one has a doubt of this, who is the man that has a doubt as to the beneficiaries of these public crimes? They were all done to keep the Liberals in power. And the one way of repudiating these crimes, perhaps of preventing their recurrence, is to punish by dismissal from office the men in whose interests the crimes were committed.

Public morals will grow worse if these crimes are not punished. Boys are growing up in face of these crimes. They will be voters at the next election. And men and newspapers who profess virtue and integrity, but who are outside of politics are saying these wrong things are not wrong; that if they are wrong the Liberals did not do them; if Liberals did do them the ministers and members did not do them.

The Liberal party did them; they were done for the Liberal party; the Liberal party held office on account of them; the Liberal party must suffer for them.

The voter must administer the punishment. He can do it in no other way than voting the Liberal party out of power.

Condone these things and your son when a voter will be asked to condone worse ones!

Punish these things now and the air will clear. And if it does not when fresh men come into power punish them also by dismissal. Turn the bad men out, turn out the party that benefits from wrongful political acts. And keep on turning them out.

Set an example to your son, to your neighbor. If you do not things will grow worse and worse, and what is condoned in politics will be attempted in business, in private life.

If the Conservatives were the biggest rascals unhung; if the Conservatives were the allies of the liquor trade and the allies of evil doers, it would still be incumbent on the honest voter to punish the Ross government for the crimes committed in this province for years past, crimes committed to allow certain politicians to continue in office against the will of the people.

The moral atmosphere of Ontario will stand a lot of clearing these days, and the voter must do his part. And when he's done it he must see that his vote does the work he intended to do with it. There are men being trained to-day, agencies at work that have worked before, money appropriated, to foil and render naught the moral intentions of the voter. Even when the voter goes out to purge, an organized secret enemy will hinder him, if he can, in the work. Things have got to that stage in Ontario. And your sons, the voters that are to be, are growing up in full face of it!

TO THE MEAT EATERS.

Some years ago a clever American wrote a series of articles to show that the people of the United States would, in a very short time, consume the entire agricultural products of that country, that there would then be nothing for export, that as a consequence the price of flour and of beef would increase, and that what is called the margin of subsistence would be lowered. In other words, he said that many people who lived on wheat and beef would come to corn and some kind of a cheaper meat, or we might have a revolution in regard to grain has not been realized, the price of wheat has not gone up; but so far as beef is concerned the prophecy has come true, and is likely to remain true because of the great increase in population.

Even in the cattle lands of the country on which cattle have heretofore been fed. While the production of wheat and corn may therefore be increased in that way, there is still little doubt of the fact of the tendency of the price of meat to go up, and that in consequence the poorer people will have to do with less of it. One great difference between the people of America and Europe is the difference in their diet. Far more meat per head is consumed in America by those who work than by those who work in Europe. Having stated this fact, readers can draw their own deductions.

Another side of the case is now being presented by those who have made a study of public health and who claim that the people of America consume far too much meat; that they would be healthier if they used more grain and less flesh food; that many diseases of the blood and digestive organs are caused by too much meat diet; and that the high price of beef will cause less meat to be eaten, and therefore the health of the people will be improved and their tempers improved, and that the money now wasted in meat will be spent in some other direction. Many of our people in Canada eat meat three times a day, and looking at it from the doctor's point of view, we imagine that there is a great deal to be said in favor of at least one meat a day, being taken without meat. Having said this much, the reader can make his own deductions on this score.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS.

Canada's material advancement is reflected in the prosperity of the Canadian railways and in the optimistic predictions made concerning these transportation systems.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company has made so much progress during the past two or three years that its long deferred second preference stock is now upon a four per cent. basis, while there appears to be hope for its third stockholders.

Canadian Pacific stock, now upon a five per cent. basis, has reflected the good times in its rise, and there are even better things in store for the Canadian. So much of last year's western grain crop remains in the public and private elevators and granaries of Manitoba and the Territories that the C.P.R. will be fully occupied until September hauling this to the head of the lakes. Then the new crop will be in, and if that prove only an average one the company should have another year's heavy work provided for it.

Thus, as far as grain haulage is concerned, the C.P.R. has nearly two years of big business pretty well assured. The company's land sales are now an important source of revenue, and the future of the road is bound to be favorably affected by the rapid influx of a new agricultural population to our great prairie land.

A CRYING NECESSITY.

Toronto is again up against the pressing question of relieving the serious summer traffic conditions at the foot of Yonge-street. The present level railway crossing at the lower end of that thoroughfare is a standing menace to a large section of the city's population. During the warm weather thousands of men, women and children have daily, in getting to and from the island and lake steamers, to take their lives in their hands. It is high time that our citizens were relieved of the necessity of dodging railway trains on our water front. The thousands of tourists who, during the summer, stream from the city wharves up Yonge-street, likewise deserve some consideration.

City Engineer Rust yesterday for the second time recommended to the Board of Works that the difficulty be overcome by the construction of a high level bridge, starting on Front-street, at the east side of Yonge-street, and extending over the railway tracks for 940 feet southward to Lake-street. In reporting again in favor of the bridge scheme the Engineer practically condemns the alternative tunnel proposition for the same point. The bridge, when constructed, will leave the present Yonge-street roadway free of obstruction, for it is proposed to secure room for the structure by expropriating the property of the Canadian Rubber Co., at the southeast corner of Yonge and Front-streets, and also to take a slice off the old right-of-way at the foot of Yonge-street.

The scheme would entail the expenditure of $105,000-$105,000 for the bridge itself and $100,000 for necessary land and land damages.

It is proposed that the railways be called upon to bear one-half the cost of the bridge, and the ratepayers will no doubt shortly be asked to vote the other half. If so, they owe it to themselves and the city to place in the hands of the executive the required moneys.

THE LOGICAL CONCLUSION.

The suggestion that the people should kill the Beef Trust by a general refusal to eat meat is capable of being nullified by the reductio ad absurdum argument. The difficulty is that there appear also to be fish, poultry and egg trusts, and fruit and vegetable trusts, while grain corners are no unusual phenomena. If, therefore, the public carries out to a logical conclusion its threat to boycott meat, it will also have to eschew all other articles of food.

As a matter of fact the combine or trust system extends nowadays to most lines of commerce, so that if the people are going into the boycott business, they must cease wearing clothes, living in houses and doing a number of other comfortable and seemly things.

ENGALLS ON RAILWAY MERGERS.

In a New York advice, President Ingalls of the Big Four is quoted as saying that the tendency towards the merging of the great railroad systems must stop some time and that in his judgment that time has arrived. He said: "You see we cannot tell how ambitious our Caesar will be. If the merging of railroads should be carried to what apparently is its logical conclusion, one man would be at the head of all the roads in the United States. The government would then be forced to step in and assume ownership and control. That contingency I would regard as nothing short of a public calamity."

"The purchase of the Burlington by Hill, in my opinion, was a mistake. It resulted in the Northern Pacific panic. That deal sowed the first seeds of suspicion in the minds of the people. As an outsider, the purchase of the Burlington appears to me to have been unnecessary. As far as the policy of consolidation has gone, I believe it generally will benefit both the public and the investor. Rates will be maintained on a firm basis, at the same time being governed by competitive markets."
