Hood's Sarsaparille is prepared by exingredients which were seemingly intended by Nature herself for the alleviation of human ills. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach and digestive organs and creates an appetite; it absolutely cures all scrofula eruptions, boils, pimples, sores, salt rheum, and every form of skin disease; cures liver complaint, kidney troubles, strengthens and builds up the nervous system. It n-tirely overcomes that tired feeling, giving strength and energy in place of weakness and languor. It wards off malaria, ty-phoid fever, and by purifying the blood it keeps the whole system healthy.

The weaving of noble words around the memory of this great Englishman is not, is the opinion of those who knew Gladstone best, the only way in which our people can recognize and reverence his worth. They can remember that his last message to America was one of sincere grief at the loss of the Maine. They can believe that he had a deep trust in the honest purpose of the American people in wishing to free Cuba from those ills, against which, under other skies, he himself, had fought so stoically. Not Armenia, nor Bulgaria, nor the prisons of old Naples, could have moved Gladstone more than the story of Cuban horrors.
