AUTO SHOW AT EXHIBITION

There Will be a Splendid Display at the Fair This Year—Fine Fireworks Programme.

As the dates of the St. John Exhibition approach, the interest of the people in its success is growing much more evident. This is known better in the offices of the Association, perhaps, than anywhere else, for there applications for space are being made every day, and the views of interested exhibitors heard almost hourly. It is beyond doubt now that the exhibits being prepared for the exhibition will make, as a whole, a far better display than was ever anticipated.

One very interesting feature of the show will be the automobile display. These expensive machines, with their rich and gorgeous trimmings, are well calculated to impress and interest the people who will attend the exhibition.

A number of manufacturers have made enquiries as to the possibility of showing some machines in motion, and the management of the exhibition is now looking into the possibility of arranging for this interesting feature. Years ago, machinery hall, so called, was one of the most attractive places in the exhibition grounds, and many of the people will be glad to see this department revived.

Amusements and fireworks will, of course, be very strong attributes to the success of the exhibition, and if one may judge by the features offered to the management of the St. John show, there will be no lack of the very best entertainment for those who attend. The fireworks programme is a particularly attractive one, embracing some startling spectacular productions, the like of which have never been seen in St. John.

The variety features for amusement hall and the free show in the grounds, are such as to interest and entice even the most experienced amusement men, and there is every prospect that the programme in this line of entertainment will be satisfactory to everybody.

THE COUNTRY MARKET

There was not a great variety in the country market to choose from this morning. The rain apparently kept many of the country people from coming in and as a result there was a scarcity in the supplies of produce.

Fresh eggs were sold at 25 cents and small packages of butter were bought up at 25 to 30 cents a pound. Strawberries advanced to 15 cents a box. Lamb and veal were also very scarce.

EDMUND BREESE TELLS OF HIS PLANS

Interesting Interview With Well Known Actor Who is Summering in St. John—He Talks of Some New Plays.

A Times representative had an extended interview today with Edmund Breese, who is now in St. John. Mr. Breese was seen at the residence of his father-in-law, I. J. D. Landry, where he will remain until his departure for New York in five weeks.

Mr. Breese, as is well known, originated the role of John Burnett Ryder, the fifty bearded financier in Charles Klein's great play, The Lion and the Mouse, and on August 30th he will again portray the character until October 15, when he will commence rehearsals for Klein's latest drama, entitled The Mischief Makers, which opens in New York. Mr. Breese will originate the leading character in the play and will remain with the company for several weeks, leaving The Mischief Makers to get to a test the play from the pen of Edith Ellis Baker, so well known here, designated The Nebaskan. If this play proves successful, he will continue with the organization, either in New York or on the road.

Several weeks ago he played a special engagement at Chicago in a try-out of a play, written by Walter Hackett, an editor of a Chicago daily, and Robert Davis. This drama depicts the experiences of a wealthy Westerner, who endeavors to break into Eastern elite society by marrying the daughter of a bankrupt judge. On the play to his unsmooth mamma the Westerner, Carson Bland by name, has been the butt for ridicule of different members of the four hundred. His wife who detests him, endeavors to ruin him by destroying some proxies of mining stocks, thereby giving his opponents in the fight for his gold mine, possession of the property. He detects her in the act of purloining the papers, and she destroys them in his presence. She repents, however, and informs his antagonists in the controversy that she has retained from destroying the proxies, as she finds herself in love with her husband, and they, therefore, resign from the struggle, believing him to have the proxies in his possession. The play terminates happily.

When the reporter called on Mr. Breese he was engaged in reading the manuscripts of two plays he had received this morning. Since January last he has received one hundred plays for his criticism, and out of that number has selected but two that were suitable, namely, The Mischief Makers and The Nebaskan.

In the same case, playing the Invader at Chicago with Mr. Breese, were Tom Wise, Lewis Mason and Louise Gallo-way, who have appeared in this city. Florence Rockwell was leading lady. The leading lady in The Mischief Makers original cast will probably be Doris Donnelly.

Mr. Breese believes Margaret Anglin to be without a superior on the stage today. In fact her only rival is Julia Haylowe. Mr. Breese played with Miss Anglin eight years ago. He says that the Great Divide was an enormous patronage at the Princess Theatre, New York, on its lengthy run.

Referring again to the Invader he declared that the drama was interpreted by the strongest cast of players he had ever been a member of, but the intense heat interfered with the attendance.

In reply to a query relative to the four greatest stage successes of decade he named The Lion and the Mouse, Ben Hur, Way Down East and In Old Kentucky. Four companies were on the road during the last season, playing The Lion and the Mouse and there will be three this coming season.

The Servant in the House, by Charles Rana Kennedy, an English author, is termed by Mr. Breese as the best play produced last season and in regard to the best American play by an American author. The Witching Hour by Augustus Thomas and in which John Mason is the star is selected.

Mr. Breese came here direct from Chicago via Detroit and by steamship from Detroit through the lakes, past the Thousand Islands and Lacine Rapids to Montreal, from whence he came by I. C. R. From Chicago to Detroit the journey was very night insufferable because of the immense clouds of dust that filled the train continually.

The remainder of the trip was very pleasing particularly the section on the Intercolonial, which Mr. Breese states is difficult to excel in comfort to the passenger. Regularity of railroad, speed and safety combined, are all incidentals that make the life of a passenger pleasant.

Regarding St. John as a summer resort Mr. Breese says it is an ideal point in which to spend a vacation and it is a matter of wonder to him that thousands of tourists do not flock here during the sultry months as the city possesses all the qualifications conducive to an excellent watering place. Mr. Breese has cultivated the acquaintance of many citizens of this city. His most intimate friend in St. John, he says, is Judge Ritchie. He looks forward from Christmas to his vacation in St. John, and he invariably remains here as long as possible. He does not see why the fog should be detrimental to this place as a resort for it is a most refreshing change from suffocating warmth to the cool mist so prevalent in Fundy ports. Outside of his family Mr. Breese names golf as his sole recreation. He had intended to play on the local links today with several enthusiasts but through obvious reasons has been compelled to cancel the appointment, much to his regret.

Mr. Breese is in the neighborhood of forty years old, is quite heavily built and of medium height. In speaking to the reporter he said he would like to play in St. John, but the situation of the city climatic any possibility of his desire being accorded to by Henry B. Harris his manager, under whose direction he will continue.

Prior to her marriage Mr. Breese was Miss Genevieve Landry, daughter of the proprietor of the King street music store.

The annual picnic of St. Jude's Sunday School will be held on Wednesday next at Lepreau. The picnicers will go down and return by the regular N. B. Southern train.
