Social Notes Of Interest

There is general sympathy expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Simon Jones in the serious illness of their daughter, Miss Peggy Jones, who had purposed going to Montreal on Monday to resume her studies at Trafalgar Institute. She was taken to the St. John Infirmary, where she was operated upon for appendicitis. Latest reports are that Miss Jones is doing nicely. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will delay their intended southern trip until later.

Miss Mae Cullinan, of Toronto, daughter of the late Mr. Henry Cullinan, of St. John, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Peter Sinclair, 106 Pitt street.

Miss Minnie Allen left for New York yesterday after visiting her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Allen, Paradise Row.

Dr. C. J. Dash, of Hillsboro, who is well known and very popular in St. John, is visiting for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Keith, Orange street.

General interest is being taken in the coming ball, which is to be under the auspices of the L. O. D. E. chapter DeMons, next week. Mrs. Sherwood Skinner, regent, who recently returned from New York, is being assisted by an energetic committee.

Miss Margaret Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Henderson, left last week for Boston to resume her studies at Sargent's School of Physical Training. Miss Henderson was entertained at many informal assemblies while at home.

Mrs. Atkinson Morrison entertained a few friends at a delightful dinner on Monday evening at her residence, 41 Duke street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunter White were hosts at a small informal bridge on Monday evening at their residence, Princess street.

Miss Marion Henderson was the guest of Miss Ruth Robinson at Rousesay for a few days this week at the residence of Miss Robinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson.

Mr. Peniston Starr went to New York this week, accompanying his younger sister, who is attending school there.

Mrs. Laura Eddy Duplatis, of Enniskillen, formerly of Bathurst, was a guest in the city yesterday and returned home on the evening train.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, of Fredericton, left Tuesday evening for Southern California, where they will spend the rest of the winter.

Mrs. C. A. Ewing of Fredericton, left Tuesday night for New York, called by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. A. D. G. Van Wart.

Mrs. W. T. Whitehead, who left several weeks ago on a visit to Yarmouth, is now in St. Petersburg, Florida, where she will remain for the balance of the winter.

Miss Manning, of Nova Scotia, is in the city visiting her brother, Dr. James Manning in Gormain street.

Dead Give-Away.

"Maude says her husband disagreed her on their honeymoon."

"How?"

"On the steamer she wanted the other passengers to think an ocean trip was an old story to them, but almost as soon as they went on board he pointed to a row of lifeboats and asked the captain what was the idea of all the extra tires."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

SLIM OR STOUT, YOUR DRESS MAY BETRAY YOU

Costume Designer Gives Pointers to Avoid Emphasis Clothes May Put on Physical Failings

(By Marian Hale.)

New York—You have, of course, your own individual dress problems. But they have their limits.

If you are thin you don't have to worry about concealing your hips, and if you are stout you need not disturb your calm by speculation as to whether your shoulderblades will wear through your frock or not.

But what of one poor man who has to cope with every woman's problems and make each one look like what she is?

Such an expert in human geometry is Charles Le Maire, who designs costumes for many of the most dazzling reviews and stage productions of the day, and who makes Venuses to order.

To him 100 women are just 100 problems in lines, angles and curves. And from him I learned the difference between a dress that flatters and a dress that betrays.

"If you are slender, never wear long draped things, no matter how much you love them. Instead, run a wide band of embroidery up the back and front of your frock and leave the sides fairly plain and straight."

Uncomely Ankles.

There are eddies in which to camouflage the too heavy ankle. According to this expert the strapped model will denude any instep. Another clever trick is to place a small, glittering buckle on the strap over the instep. This calls attention to itself and the ankle is forgotten.

"Another device," he goes on, "is to have a long tassel or side drape that hangs below the hemline and moves as you walk, so that this holds the interest and keeps the onlooker's eyes from lingering on the ankles."

"If you have short, stubby fingers, don't wear rings, though you can go the limit with bracelets. But if your fingers are unduly long there is no better way of keeping your dark than by wearing a sparkling ring of exaggerated width."

"With an evening frock, always carry a fan. It heightens your grace and supplies lovely lines you can never hope to possess without it."

There is just one inflexible rule of dress, he concludes. It is this:—

"If you have a beautiful face, wear the most simple and artless clothes you can find. If your face isn't the sort you would have selected had you had a hand in the matter, concentrate on beautiful clothes, and maybe people will never notice that your features aren't classical."

John Wanamaker, late merchant prince of New York, and Philadelphia, carried $3,000,000 of insurance at the time of his death.

Two of Brownings poems dealing with the land and landmen were written when he was in a boat and seasick.

At Essendon, St. John's, Marjorie Mountain, one of our tennis crones, agreed to partner James Todd for life in the bigger game of matrimony, and did it in gold and cream-brocade, and with a long and flowing train.

The bride's parents, the W. J. Mountains, staged the after-dinner in the Moore Ponds Town Hall.

WHEEL CHAIN FOUND.

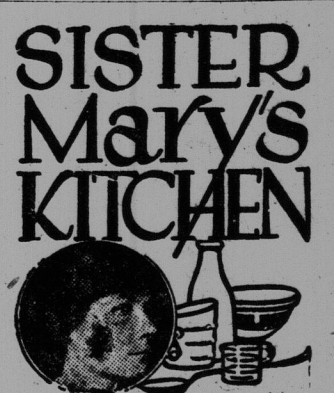

An automobile chain, found on the corner of King and Gormain streets yesterday, was handed to the police and the owner can receive it on application at police headquarters.

FEATHER FANS LINK GAY MEMORIES OF CIVIL WAR DAYS WITH PRESENT

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

MEAT AND FRUIT SALADS.

The combination of fruit and meat in salad is rather unusual but delicious. The fruit lightens the dish and adds the piquancy needed with the meat.

A tart fruit such as pineapple, canned of course, apricots or fresh oranges or grapefruit should be used. These fruits take the place of celery if celery is not at hand, but combine well with meat and celery.

A delicate meat or fish gains much from the fruit while the whole salad is leavened, as it were, and made to fit into any sort of a dinner or luncheon.

Left-over bits of chicken and canned fruit can be worked up in these salads to advantage.

Chicken and Pineapple Salad.

One cup diced chicken, 1 cup diced pineapple, hearts of lettuce, 1 canned pineapple, mayonnaise.

Combine chicken and pineapple and arrange in lettuce hearts. Mask with mayonnaise and garnish with tiny strips of pineapple.

Turkey and Pineapple Salad.

Turkey combines in the same proportion with pineapple that chicken does. The meat should be carefully cooled and freed from skin and tendons. Nuts may be added to the meat if there is less than one cup.

Tongue and Apricot Salad.

Drain canned apricots from their syrup and cut in neat dice. Baby beef or veal tongue, cut in dice. Boil tongue and skin. Cut in dice. Combine one cup of diced tongue with one-half cup diced apricots. Arrange on a bed of lettuce, mask with mayonnaise and garnish with crescents of pickled beets and threads of gherkins.

Tuna Fish and Tangerine Salad.

One and one-half cups tuna fish, ½ cup diced tangerines, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Combine fish and celery with enough mayonnaise to make moist. Arrange on a bed of lettuce and garnish with sections of tangerines. After peeling the fruit remove the skin from each section. To do this cut a gash through the skin at the thick middle part of the section, being careful not to pierce the fruit. Then pull the back of the outside and tear or cut off. The covering of the outside of tangerines is so thin that it need not be removed.

The tongue and tuna fish salads could be used with brown bread and butter sandwiches for an afternoon tea or bridge.

A salad of sweetbreads, carrots and San Angelo, Tex. — Sympathetic memory links today with the romantic days of the Confederacy for Mrs. Ella E. Fisher, of this city.

Yet even that isn't enough. From those days of her youth and gaiety, she preserves her sympathies and feelings by making what she learned to fashion then.

Feather fans, from turkey and peacock. Each one a memorial to her halcyon days.

Now in her eightieth year, Mrs. Fisher keeps her fingers nimble with the work of forming these fans, and her mind agile with the memories they evoke. The income she derives from their sale gives her further joy in being turned over, as she puts it, to "church, charity and good will."

Her "Customers."

Thus, without material recompense, Mrs. Fisher spreads joy to others who need it, as well as those who purchase it. For society matrons, debutantes and social butterflies prize these fans as objects made especially for them.

Woodrow Wilson has one. Woman in various parts of the United States can show them, and even outside the country, in Canada, England and elsewhere, these feather fans, put together by the wrinkled fingers of a girl of the Confederacy, cool pretty faces.

She calls them Confederate fans, in memory of her younger days. She first learned to make them during the Civil War, when the south was closed to the markets of the world and the inhabitants were forced to depend upon invention for almost everything they needed.

Girls, then, Mrs. Fisher recalls, made hats from Palmetto leaves, trimmed tangerines makes a delicious combination. The carrots should be used raw and cut in tiny dice. If the core is hard and watery use only the golden outer layer. The sweetbreads should be well cooked and blanched. When very cold cut in dice. To one cup of diced meat add one cup of diced tangerines. Let stand in a cold place for half an hour. Arrange on a bed of lettuce hearts and mask with mayonnaise.

An oil mayonnaise is perhaps more "tasty" with these salads than a boiled dressing. A meat salad requires an oil mayonnaise and with the meat the fruit can carry it.

COWLEY FATHER COMING.

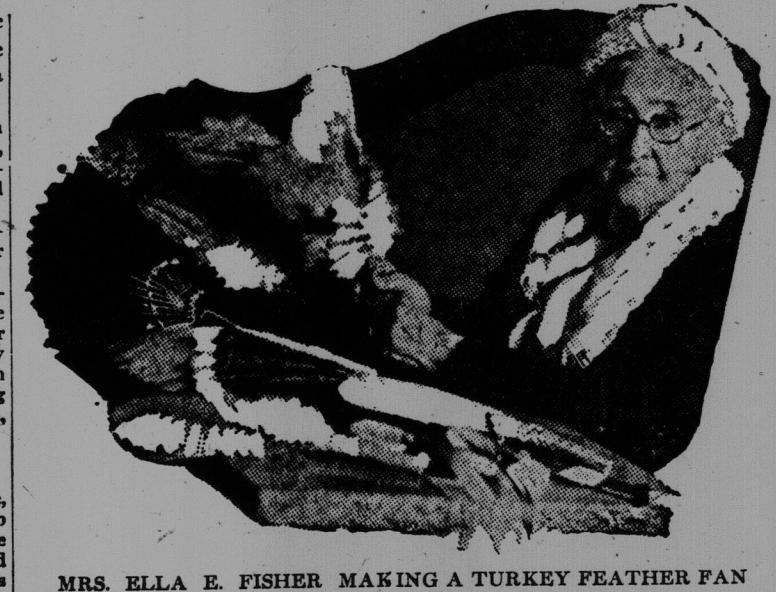

Rev. Father Tovey, a prominent member of the Society of Mission Priests of St. John the Evangelist (the Cowley Fathers) of Cowley, St. John, Oxford, England and Boston, Mass., is expected in the city this week and is to preach at the Mission church of St. John Baptist.

He will sail from St. John for England on Jan. 18. The Cowley Fathers are a monastic order which has given several of its members to the episcopate, including Bishops Grifone of Fond du Lac, Brent of Buffalo, Osborne of Springfield, Ill., and Hall of Vermont.

MRS. ELLA E. FISHER MAKING A TURKEY FEATHER FAN

with old ribbons, dyed from flower petals; for there were no dyes in those days. The last of these four dreary, full years found their wardrobe sadly depleted. "My young sister and I," she says, "would beg our dear old grandmother to let us look through her trunks for something to freshen up our pitiful wardrobes. So her gorgones and beiges helped us mightily to look young and pretty."

A War Product

"In the last year of the war, dreadful as it was to us in the south, I had one of the gayest years of my young ladyhood, for camped over the hill from our home was a brigade of Confederate soldiers. We had dances, horse-back rides, musicales, too."

One day some soldiers sent her mother two wild turkeys they had killed. An old friend of the family showed Mrs. Fisher how to make fans from the feathers.

Some time later, Misher made such a fan for a charity bazaar, and since then she has been making turkey and peacock feather fans almost daily. She has been paying 5 cents for the wing and tail feathers. Before putting them together, she rinses them through a gasoline bath, and then dyes them any color desired.

Witness stated that he was before the return of Sir Richard Squires from a trip he made abroad shortly after the return of his Government to power.

Mr. Howley pointed out that this statement contradicted one made by Mrs. Harant in her evidence on the previous day.

On the matter of her approach to Mr. Meany for the cashing of checks made out by her as attorney for Sir Richard, Mrs. Harant said that this was done on instruction from her principal. She alleged that she was told to approach Mr. Meany in the same connection.

Her statement was that on more than one occasion she had been instructed to this effect. She stated that she had full authority from Sir Richard to act in this manner, but in reply to questions of Mr. Howley she admitted that her instructions were general and there was to her no limitation by Sir Richard Squires as to methods whereby Mr. Meany should advance her any money or procure them for her.

She was simply told to try to get financial assistance from Mr. Meany.

A Clear Explanation

Teacher—Johnny, what are the two genders?

Johnny—Masculine and feminine. The masculine are divided into temperate and intemperate, and the feminine into frigid and torrid.—American Legion Weekly.
