TWO CLERGYMEN ADDRESS COAL MINING BOARD

Representatives of Ministerial Alliance Tell of Social Side of Family Life in the Industrial Towns.

(Canadian Press Despatch).
Sydney, N. S., May 8.—When the conciliation board which is investigating the dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and its coal mining employees, commenced this afternoon, following an inspection trip to Mine No. 2, the chairman, D'Arcy Scott, said: "I have decided to continue practicing law. I don't want a mining job."
On behalf of a delegation from the ministerial alliance which asked a hearing, Rev. Mr. McGuire said he desired to discuss not the economic aspect of the dispute, but the social end, which had to do with the morale of the miners. He declared that unemployment had helped to create among the men a lack of confidence in the corporation. Rightly or wrongly, the miners believed that large and small bundles of new, old and indifferent clothing of many styles were brought to more than the public and private schools by children whose parents had ransacked attics and store-rooms to aid the sufferers in Ararat. The intention, officials of the Near East Relief said, is to get the clothing to the Mount Ararat region in ample time for next winter.

Rev. A. M. McLeod declared the ministers represented a body of opinion which did not get before conciliation boards, namely the women and children who have to bear the greater burden.

Rev. Mr. McLeod said the company had declared that it was not in a position to pay better wages, but the community was not convinced of the truth of such an assertion. He believed the men should have a showdown on costs and profits as well. If it were impossible for the company to pay higher wages, this fact should be made known to the men, whom he believed would work for lower wages when once the company had demonstrated beyond all doubt the extent of their ability to pay wages of any kind.

Mr. Moore—"The company has already agreed to produce these cost sheets."
Rev. Mr. McLeod—"I am glad to hear that."

BOY ROOF DWELLERS LIVE 9 MONTHS IN TANK

Runaway Pair Had Nearly Every Convenience Except a Cook Stove.

New York, May 8.—Raymond and Timothy Murray, seventeen, were arraigned before Magistrate W. Bruce Cook in the city court charged with disorderly conduct. Later they were committed to jail until May 9 pending an investigation, mainly to determine whether the boys' parents want them home again. And thereby hangs a tale of modern roof dwellers.

Raymond and Timothy left their respective residences nine months ago, it was alleged. Since then, off and on they have resided in an empty tank, eight feet deep and ten feet in diameter, on the roof of the five-story tenement at 215 East Eighty-fourth street. Patrolman Paul J. Schafert of the East Sixty-seventh street station found them there sound asleep, after a tenant had asked an investigation.

LUNCHEON MEET OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club today adopted the policy of having fortnightly luncheons at Bond's, at which the minutes of executive meetings will be read and discussed, opportunities for useful work considered, and good fellowship and the community spirit developed.

C. F. Sanford, in moving that the luncheons be continued fortnightly, described the new move as the best the club had made for the success of its work.

President R. E. Armstrong was in the chair, and outlined the general policy of the club. F. W. Coombs told of the work of the athletic association. J. Paterson briefly discussed the work of the executive and reviewed the history of the club. H. V. McKinnon, who read the minutes of executive meetings, also gave information concerning the Radio Association of the club. There were fifty-five members in attendance and all were delighted with the new departure in club policy.

KNICKERS ANGER MOTHER

Philadelphia Woman Gives Girl's Outfit For Armenians.

Philadelphia, May 8.—Included in the 200 tons of clothing which represented the Philadelphia's response to the worldwide call for "bunlike day" issued by the Near East Relief were two pairs of new knickers for young women. Accompanying them was a note from an irate mother, who expressed the hope that some unfortunate girl in Armenia could find them to be just as utilitarian as her daughter believed them to be. Fortunately, the mother's note was not included in the shipment. Large and small bundles of new, old and indifferent clothing of many styles were brought to more than the public and private schools by children whose parents had ransacked attics and store-rooms to aid the sufferers in Ararat. The intention, officials of the Near East Relief said, is to get the clothing to the Mount Ararat region in ample time for next winter.

NAVY LEAGUE BRANCH ANNUAL

President R. E. Armstrong Reviews the Year.

Joys and Sorrows; Ups and Downs—Statement re Purchase of Building by Executives of League and Seamen's Mission Society.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick branch of the Navy League of Canada is being held this afternoon at the Seaman's Institute, Prince William street, with the president, R. E. Armstrong, in the chair. Mr. Armstrong presented his report, which reviewed the activities of the league during the last year as follows:

In presenting this, my second annual report as president of the New Brunswick Branch of the Navy League of Canada, I have deemed it wise to make a brief statement regarding some of the accomplishments of this division of the league during the last year. Like most other organizations, the Navy League has had its joys and its sorrows, its ups and its downs.

Among its joys might be numbered the entertainment that it was able to give to the officers and men of the Canadian navy who visited the port last year. This entertainment, carried out in St. Andrew's hall, was one of the most pleasurable functions the league has ever undertaken. I should like to say that the officers and men of the Canadian navy who visited the port last year were given a delightful dance. The provincial government also assisted in a very material way.

In addition to the officers and sailors of the Canadian navy, a hearty welcome was also extended to the men of His Majesty's warships, Valerian and Cambria, when they visited the port last season.

Another most delightful function was that of the dinner given to the men of the S. S. "McLure Head" who were rescued from their lives in rescuing twenty-three sailors of the Norwegian ship "Moff" from drowning in the Atlantic ocean under circumstances which called for a display of the highest gallantry. The circumstances under which this rescue was effected were forwarded to the British Navy League and the recommendation was made that the crew be suitably recognized.

Your president had the pleasure shortly afterwards in participating in a reception given to the officers and crew of the Head Line of steamers on the West Side.

The Christmas reception held in the Seaman's Institute, in co-operation with the officers and ladies of the Institute, was another very agreeable event. A detailed report of this affair will appear in the report of the Seaman's Institute.

The league is using a debt of gratitude to the Daughters of the Empire, the Y. W. C. A., and the other women's organizations that assist in carrying out the plans of the Institute. Many donations of cash and of Christmas gifts were contributed to the league.

For the purpose of awakening an interest in Navy League enterprise, Commander Leitch, of the Dominion Navy League, addressed meetings at Moncton and other points. Captain George S. Laing, from the Dominion Department, was also able to show some most interesting film pictures throughout the province. While in St. John, the opportunities that this form of publicity opened up for the ports of Canada were most valuable. The medium of films of this character, Canadian living away from the seaboard, could be taught a most valuable lesson as to the port assets of Canada and the future, if we deemed wise by the joint executives of a great nation out of Canada.

In co-operation with the Seaman's Mission, a most humane work was carried on throughout the last winter in caring for unemployed and disabled seamen, as well as for other sailors passing through this port. From the date of opening of the winter port in November last until its close recently, there was scarcely a night that did not see every bed in the dormitories of the Seaman's Institute occupied by homeless and jobless men. Frequently as many as twenty sailors were compelled to accept shelter on the floors of the institute. These men were looked after most humanely and kindly by Manager Johnston, who not only provided sleeping accommodations for them, but also furnished them with food and assisted them in securing employment. The measure of assistance that the Navy League has been able to extend to distressed seamen is in itself an ample justification for the existence of the organization.

The league was able to render some financial aid to the young Canadians who had joined the Spanish legionaries in Morocco and who landed in St. John without any money for transportation to New House.

In order to provide ample accommodations for the seamen of the port in future, it was deemed wise by the joint executives of the Navy League and of

The Seaman's Mission, to purchase the Davidson building adjoining the Seaman's Institute. This building was acquired at a cost of $16,000. Each of the two organizations contributed $8,000 to the purchase of the building. The balance of the $16,000 endowment fund which the Eastern Trust Company, which now holds a mortgage on the building. The joint executives are content to wait until port conditions improve before attempting to carry out any radical changes in the building.

A question of some moment to the Navy League was the reaching of a satisfactory determination with the Dominion executive as to the title of the institute building. It had been claimed by the Dominion executive that the title was to be transferred to the Navy League of Canada on the establishment of the $16,000 endowment fund which the institution received from the league. It was impressed upon the Dominion executive that no such agreement had been entered into when the appropriation was first made, nor was there any allusion to it in the trust deed which was drawn up in that connection. It was also pointed out by the local executive that the attention of the Dominion executive was made that he could not see how the relations of the two organizations, which were functioning together so satisfactorily, could be disturbed by such a transfer. Other reasons were given, the details of which need not be entered into at this time. It is sufficient to say that a letter was received in reply from the Dominion executive, in which the statement was made that he could not see how the relations of the two organizations, which were functioning together so satisfactorily, could be disturbed by such a transfer. Other reasons were given, the details of which need not be entered into at this time. It is sufficient to say that a letter was received in reply from the Dominion executive, in which the statement was made that he could not see how the relations of the two organizations, which were functioning together so satisfactorily, could be disturbed by such a transfer.

The action of the Washington conference with respect to naval disarmament was a subject that was drawn to the attention of the branch executive by the Dominion executive. The view was expressed that the New Brunswick executive had absolute confidence in the representatives that Great Britain had carried to the Washington conference, and that it was sufficient to say that a letter was received in reply from the Dominion executive, in which the statement was made that he could not see how the relations of the two organizations, which were functioning together so satisfactorily, could be disturbed by such a transfer.

The death of Sir John Eaton, honorary vice-president of the Dominion Navy League, was deplored in a telegram of regret from the N. B. Branch. A message was forwarded to the family of the late president of the Saskatchewan Branch of the league.

Your president had the pleasure, with the secretary, of attending the meeting of the Dominion executive, which was held last year in the new Navy League building, Halifax. There was a good representation from other provinces of the Dominion and a most interesting meeting was the result. One of the special purposes of the meeting was the formal opening of the new Navy League building. One evening was devoted to this object. The visiting representatives were most hospitably treated by their Halifax friends. One pleasurable feature was a trip around Halifax harbor. It was decided to hold the next convention in Winnipeg, but within the last few weeks the place of meeting has been changed to Montreal. The Montreal convention will open on Wednesday, June 7.

In closing this report I would express my grateful thanks to the executive of the Seaman's Institute and to Manager Brindle for their kindly co-operation in the Daughters of the Empire, the Y. W. C. A., and other women's organizations for their helpful assistance, to ex-Mayor Schofield for helpful aid, to the executive of the league, to Captain Mulrany, chairman of the relief committee, and to the secretary and treasurer for the usefulness aid they have extended in carrying on the work of the league. It was also a pleasure to have the members of the executive for the honor that they have bestowed on me in re-selecting me as president of the New Brunswick branch of the Navy League.

Excavators exploring the site of Troy, and working down to the third city of Homer's time, have found drinking vessels like those of the 18th century, made with gold, silver and electrum, but without handles.

They also lacked a pleasure within our reach, Blue Bird Tea. Well might Sydney Smith exclaim, "I'm glad I wasn't born before tea!"
