Extracts from Correspondence.

From Mr. Smith, the Travelling Agent.

The past year has been one of unwonted success in the operations of the Auxiliary, and its numerous Branches and Associations throughout the Province. The interest taken in the great object in which they are engaged, has been widened and deepened as much as the resources have been augmented; and both may be regarded as sure indications of prosperity, and substantial grounds of hope for the future.

This state of things is to be attributed, under the blessing of God, to the enlarged diffusion of reliable information,—for the object has only to be known, to be approved,—by means of Jubilee papers and other publications of the Parent Society, the Jubilee Remembrancer, (the Auxiliary's Quarterly Periodical for the Jubilee year); and by an enlarged exhibition of facts, at our public meetings, in the city and in the country; also by private conversations called forth in soliciting contributions. By these and other means the attention of a greater number of Christians of all denominations has been arrested, and their sympathy enlisted in a work, which all who rightly view it acknowledge
