WASHINGTON. DC. Feb 18—Notice is given by the Lighthouse Board that on or about March 15, 1899, a fog bell will be established at Bridgewater, Ct. Breakwater Light Station, at the easterly end of the inner breakwater making off from Tongue Point, westerly side of the entrance to Bridgeport Harbor, to be struck by machinery, during thick or foggy weather, a single blow every $ seconds.

States that Canada was utterly dependent on them, they then asked the pandent on them, they then asked the United States to concede something, not for what they were prepared to give, but for what they had already given without getting anything in return. They boasted throughout Canada that all that was necessary to secure favorable treaty, are rangements with the United States. was to put the liberal party in power, yet now after two and a half years of liberal rule, Mr. Charlton tells the people in Chicago that sentiment in Canada was never so bitter as it is today against the United States. Mr. Tarte, I noticed, boasted at Goderich the other day, that in the treaty negotiations in 1871, Canada was represented by but one out of four of the high commissioners, whereas in the present negotiations of five British commissioners, four of them were Canadians. There is no intelligent Canadian, liberal or conservative, who does not at this moment deplore the fact that we have not had these negotiations conducted by that one greaf and lamented statesman instead of by the members of the Canadian government, who have shown themselves utterly incapable of dealented by but one out of four of the adian government, who have shown therselves utterly incapable of dealing with diplomatic questions. Indeed, the only man among them who has exhibited any ability is Mr. Charlton, and he has been honest enough to admit the policy pursued by the government has been almost a fatal one so far as these negotiations were concerned.

"Bungling neapacity has marked the administration of every branch of the pubic service since their acssion to power, save and except those cases in which they have walk-ed humbly and closely in the foot-steps of their predecessors," was Sir Charles parting reflection.

BRADFORD, Mei; Feb. 20.—The circumstances surrounding the finding of the deal body of Edward Ellingwood in his yard Saturday night, with an ugly wound in the back of his head, a knife and rifle lying ar, and his house in flames, lead to the belief that he was murdered and that an attumpt was made to conceal the crime.

Mr. Ellingwood lived a solitary lifte at some dietance from any other habitations, and while he had a reputation of being ecoentric he was always considered an industrious man and was believed to be quite well off. He was last seen alive on Saturday morning, when he went to LaGrange, some four miles from his flouse, to receive his pay for his winter's work. The amount was not very large, and after receiving it he was the house on fire, and rushing into the yard found Mr. Ellingwood lying dead a few feet away from his door step. If he body was badly burned, and the position showed that he had evidently stumbled out of the house and dropped dead in the yard. Near the ". was a knife and a rifle, while a clear was also near by. The house and one of the outbuildings were burned to the stround.

The local police were not notified of the affair urth today, and the inquest will be held tomerrow.

There are a few persons here who believe

There are a few persons here who believe that Mr. Fillingwood committed suicide, but it is the general opinion that he was murdered. "Do you think the United States will be handsomely represented at Paris?" "Why not? Our commissioner general is very good looking."-Chicago

There was excitement and running to and fro of government politicians in the north end last evening. One candidate, at least, wore an anxious look. I would yank it out and put a charge of dynamite under it and blow it into fragments. Then I would bury the pieces and put it two ton slab of grantit cover the grave."

"Has some girl been saying 'No' to you?" asked the facetious man with the pipe.

"I would have to grudge against line world if she had," answered the man by the window. "No, is a straightforward, honest word that however much if may thwart us at times." "Some of the slang words that become popular are excessively annoying," suggested the man by the fire-

"It's not a slang word," was the answer. "It's a word in good and regular standing and always has been. It is not a word that is often misused either. But it is an underhanded, roundabout, deceitful combination of three letters." 'What is the word?" they demand-

"But," was the prompt answer.
"Just the contrary, intrusive little word but.' It's always getting in the The Returns of Expenditure and Revenue way and interfering with a man's plans without showing any of the boldness that commends other words to us even when they do us a bad turn. Take it when a man proposes. If the girl says 'no' he may be pretty badly broken up, but he has no feeling of resentment against the word. But if she says, Mr. Jones, I esteem you very highly; I may say that I have a deep affection for you, but, why, he instantly has a strong desire to get an ax and chop the word out of the dictionary. But' is the word that stands between me and success; that always has stood there. I once had a chance to make a deal that would have netted $277,870, an increase of about $7,000 over the year before. In 1870 the coal royalties was $71,575. Today it is me a large sum of money, but it required more of a preliminary outlay than I could provide. I stated my needs to a friend with cash and after due consideration he said. 'My boy, you know how high a regard I have for you and how the country of the

for you and how much I would like to help you out in this matter, but'— And there I was again! And there I was again!

"Another time I wrote a story and sent it to a magazine. The editor held it up for about two months and then sent it back with a personal letter in which he said that "the story was one of great merit, having an excellent idea underlying it and being well told, but"— Same old thing, you see. If he had merely said he could not use the story I would have had no grudge against the word. Again, a rich uncle against the word. Again, a rich uncle came to see me just about Christmas time one year, and before leaving he remarked, 'By the way, I intended to bring you a check for $100 as a sort of reminder of the season, but'— I tell you, the meanest, most disappointing word in this language is spelled b-u-t."

There was a stlence when he ceased speaking. Every one seemed to be buried in thought. Then one of them said, "I guess that's right," and all the others nodded.
