Two boys were in a school-room alone together, when some fellow came contrary to the master's express prohibition, exploded. The boy denied it, the other Ben Christie, would neither admit nor deny it, and was severely rebuked for his obstinacy...

The boy's heart melted. Ben's moral gallantry subdued him. When school re-assembled, the young culprit marched up to the master's desk, and said: "Master, please, I can't be a liar. I let off the squibs, and he burst into tears. The master's eyes glistened on the self-accuser, and the undeserved punishment he inflicted on the other boy smote his conscience...

look after it, and my motion is it taps one a lifetime at every body's door, but if industry does not open it, it goes for naught. There is nothing which adds more to the brightness and educating power of a home than a family altar. It brings heaven into human habitations, and turns the thoughts of the family toward the celestial country. It fortifies the virtue of the children, and gives them happy and holy memories to carry into the struggles of life.

Mark how you heavens stand, without a pillar! See how the round world floats in space without a stay! What more does the universe require than the power of the Eternal? O, believer! get thee out into these deep waters, where there is sea-room for faith, and so weak creature interfere with unmingled reliance upon God. Blessed is the man whose life is dominated and sublimed by an individual confidence in the living God.—Spurgeon.

A Skillful Surgical Operation. The American Ambassador at Vienna, Mr. Kasson, has lately forwarded to his Government an interesting account of a remarkable surgical operation lately performed by Professor Mikulicz of Vienna, which, wonderful to tell, consisted in the removal of a portion of the human stomach, involving nearly one-third of the organ. The patient, a man of 40 years of age, was afflicted with a disease which covered the only successful operation of the kind ever performed. The disease for which this operation was performed was cancer of the stomach, attended with the following symptoms:—The appetite is quite poor. There is a peculiar and inextinguishable distress in the stomach, a feeling that has been described as a faint "all gone" sensation; a sticky slime collects about the teeth, especially in the morning, accompanied by an unpleasant taste. Food fails to satisfy this peculiar faint distress in the stomach; but, on the contrary, it appears to aggravate the feeling. The eyes are sunken, tinged with yellow, the hands and feet become cold and sticky, a cold perspiration. The sufferers feel tired all the time, and sleep does not seem to give rest. After a while the patient becomes nervous and irritable, gloomy, his mind filled with evil forebodings. When rising suddenly from a recumbent position there is a feeling of faintness, a sense of vertigo, and he is obliged to grasp something firm to keep from falling. The bowels become constipated, and hot at times; the blood becoming thick, and stagnant, and does not circulate properly. After a time the patient spits up food soon after eating, sometimes in a sour and fermented condition, sometimes sweetish to the taste. Oftentimes there is a palpitation of the heart, and the patient fears he may have heart disease. Towards the last the patient is unable to retain any food whatever, as the opening in the intestines becomes close, or nearly so. Although this disease is indeed alarming in its progress, and the symptoms should not feel nervous, for nine hundred and ninety-nine cases out of a thousand, have no cure, but, if treated in a proper manner, the safest and best remedy for the disease is Seigel's Curative Syrup, a vegetable preparation, sold by all chemists and medicine vendors throughout the world, and by the proprietors, A. J. White, Limited, 17, Farringdon Road, London, E. C. This Syrup strikes at the very foundation of the disease, and drives it, root and branch out of the system.

Dear Sir,—I write to inform you that I have the desired good result from "Seigel's Syrup." For some years I have suffered from liver complaint, with its many and varied concomitant evils, so that my life was a perpetual misery. Two months ago I was induced to try Seigel's Syrup, and although rather sceptical, having tried so many reputed infallible remedies, I determined to give it a fair trial. In two or three days I felt considerably better, and now at the end of twelve months (having continued taking it) I am glad to say that I am a different being altogether. It is said of certain poets that they "come as a boom and a blessing to men" and I have no reason to doubt the truthfulness of the statement. I can truly say, however, that Seigel's Syrup has come as a "boom and a blessing" to me. I have derived from the excellent preparation prompts me to furnish you with this unsolicited testimonial. I am, dear Sir, Yours ever gratefully, (Signed) Carey J. Berry, 2, St. John's B. B., and Baptist Missionary.
