

"Bronchitis."

THE SYMPTOMS ARE

Tightness across the Chest, Sharp Pains and a Difficulty in Breathing, a Secretion of Thick Phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color coming from the bronchial tubes when coughing, especially the first thing in the morning.

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather and when neglected will become chronic.

Chronic Bronchitis is one of the most general causes of Consumption. Cure the first symptoms of Bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

 Miss Martha Bourget, Little Palos, Que., writes: "Last spring I was very poorly, had a bad cough, sick headache, could not sleep, and was tired all the time. I consulted two doctors, and both told me I had bronchitis, and advised me to give up teaching. I tried almost everything but none of the medicines gave me any relief. One of my friends advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I had scarcely taken the first bottle when I began to get better and when I had taken the fourth bottle I felt as well as ever, my cough had left me and I could sleep well."

Dr. Wood's is the original Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents. There are many imitations of "Dr. Wood's" so be sure you receive the genuine when you ask for it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Miscellaneous.

HANDLING WALNUTS.

I have a few walnut trees with quite a lot on them, and would like you to tell me how to take care of them.

A.F.

Ans.—Common practice is to pile the nuts somewhere exposed to the weather until the hulls soften and turn black, when they may be loosened with a clip of a hammer. A nicer way is to take the nuts as soon as they fall, while yet fresh and green, lay them in a thin pile on a floor, and beat them with a flail or stick of some kind. This separates the hulls from the nuts, which may then be picked out and spread out some place to dry, as in a garret, after which they may be sacked or put in larger piles. It is well to wear old gloves when handling to avoid staining the fingers.

DRAINAGE.

A number of years ago, the trustees of a school-section had an artesian well drilled in the school yard, and put in an underdrain out to the ditch at the roadside, this being the only way for the water to run. The road commissioner opened the ditch at the roadside once with the road machine. But now the township has gone back to the old method of statute labor, and this ditch being tramped shut by cattle, and the water running across the road, the road-master now in charge of the road refuses to open the ditch, and has notified the trustees to take care of the water from the well. Whose place is it to open this ditch, the trustees' or the roadmaster's? A SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—That of the trustees, unless the township also would be really benefited by the ditch being opened and kept open, in which case both school-section and township should join in the work or share the expense.

POSTAL SERVICE.

I have decided to ask you to reply to the following questions, as I have been in correspondence with the post-office inspector in the effort to ascertain whether or not I was entitled to have my mail delivered in the rural-route box of the family with whom I board. The last word I had was an inquiry as to whether I was a permanent resident of the locality. I replied mainly in the affirmative, as far as I knew what was meant by "permanent resident," but have had no reply to my questions, that was two months ago. I keep my farm mostly in grass, though I cropped some the last three years. There is no house on it, so I board with a family who own a rural-delivery box. I also work by the day for them, and in that sense am an employee of theirs, and thus entitled to the delivery. I don't want to buy a box, because, if I sold, it is likely some neighbor would buy me out, and I would have the box on my hands. I am willing to submit to the law in the case, but want to know what it is. It is now more inconvenient for me to get my mail in —, as those who frequently brought it, no longer go to the post office. So much is this the case that I have reduced my correspondence as much as possible and intend to stop taking so many papers. It seems to me the authorities are drawing the lines pretty close when they refuse to extend the benefit to boarders because they own property, when no such distinction is made in the city.

1. Is a boarder in the country entitled to the benefit of the delivery without purchasing a box?

2. Does it make any difference if he owns property in the vicinity?

3. In case a person is changing residence for a short time, is the postmaster required to forward his mail if requested, and for how long?

J. H. R.

Ans.—1. We do not see that he is.

2. Probably not.

3. We think not, if there is an actual change of residence. But all these matters come within the jurisdiction of the Post-office Inspector of the district upon application or complaint being made to him. Ask him here, we think, and usually experience a wide discretion in dealing with same.
