HOT LEGAL FIGHT

Continued from Page 1. ister of Justice," says the Quebec Daily Telegraph to-night, speaking of the arrrest of Gaynor and Green in Quebec yesterday, "that everything was quite regular, and that the only mistake made was in the sensational character of the arrest and abduetion." It appears that, according to his reading of the law, the moment a warrant was issued by a proper magistrate, who is also an extradition commissioner, as in the case of Judge Lafontaine, of Montreal, the arrest could have been made at any time or in any part of Canada without the necessity of endorsation by any local judge or magistrate. Referring to the Minister of Justice, we are in a position to make this statement:"That the arrest was perfectly legal, but that the manner in which it was made was altogether unnecessary and foolish. As far as can be judged the foolish. As far as can be judged the whole affair amounts to what is known in legal parlance as a change of venue, to a piece of impudent sharp practice on the part of Montreal lawyers, which reflects most seriously on our Quebec indees and the local are yers, which reflects most seriously on our Quebec judges and the local profession. We do not know how much Mr. Donald McMaster, K. C., has been or will be paid for his wonderful strategy, for which there was no necessity whatever. As we are informed, the warrant issued for the arrest of Messrs. Gaynor and Green might have been executed quietly and might have been executed quietly and in the regular and ordinary way, without any of the sensational accom-paniments, which have formed such an exciting local and outside tople, Why, therefore, all this stage perwhatever pecuniary benefit might be supposed to accrue from the legal handling of the case, which has simply changed the hearing of the ex-tradition proceedings from Quebec to Montreal, which was the object all through, Messrs. Chicago, May 16,-"I am glad that the officers succeeded in landing Gay-nor and Green at Montreal," said Chief Wilkie, of the U.S. Secret Ser-vice to-day. "Now that the contractors are in custody in Montreal, I feel confident that the extradition proceedings will result in their return to Savannah, Ga., for trial in the Captain Carter conspiracy case. It will first be necessary to present a transcript of all the evidence before a commissioner, so as to establish orima facie case for the United States Gaynor and Green are then for extradition they probably will apply to the highest court in Canada and thus will stand off the Government for about six months. St. Elzear, Que., May 16 .- (Special)

It is a well known characteristic of our French Canadian people, that they are fearless and enthusiastic in their praise of anything or anybody that has betrinded them. No one is more capable of gracefully expressing gracitude than the average French gentleman. A recent case illustrates this point.

Mons. Jean Boivue has for many years been afflicted with a terrible malady of the Kidneys.

He suffered a very great deal of pain, and his disease forced him to rise every hour during the night.

Mons. Boivue says:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are good." I know this because while at one time I suffered very severely from Kidney Disease, now I am well.

Caught in a Stampede.

Two years ago, when the cowboys of north-eastern Arizona came together to find out who was the "best man" in various ways, James. Evans won the steer-tying championship by roping, throwing and tying a vicious steer in twenty-four seconds. But in a recent round-up the champion did a more remarkable thing, by which, says the Kansas City "Star," he saved his own and another man's life.

While he and some companions were his own and another man's life.

While he and some companions were camping for the night on a high table-land, which ended a few miles away in an abrupt drop of two hundred feet, a storm swept through the mountains. Made nervous by the lightning, the herd of fifteen hundred cattle stampeded in the direction of the precipice. Evans and his men mounted hurriedly and, circling to the front of the maddened cattle, tried with whoops and revolver-shots to turn them back.

In the dense blackness of the night Evans's horse missed his footing and went down in a heap, one leg in a gopher-hole. The horse of a cowboy named Davis, running close behind, stumbled over Evans's horse, and Davis, too, came to earth and lay still, unconscious.

Fifty yards away came the herd, and Fifty yards away came the herd, and a short flash of lightning showed Evans the situation. The swiftly moving sea of cattle reached one hundred yards each way. Unable to arouse Davis, and never thinking of leaving his disabled comrade, Evans took the only chance of saving both. He emptted his own revolver and his companion's into own revolver and his companion's into in the front of the mass. Then, throwing the inanimate form of Davis over his shoulder, he caited his oppor-

drove his spurs deep in, and held himself and Davis in place.

The sicer, wild with rage, agony and and, veering to the right in a furious gallop, carried his riders out of danger.

Then Evans rolled off the back of his

The outfit ordered a medal for Evans, and the steer has been pensioned for life on the best alfalfa in the valley.

The Monk's Knowledge of Women.

H N interesting story comes from the French Alps of Dauphiny relating the futile efforts of the Principle. French Alps of Dauphiny relating the futile efforts of the Princess of Croy, who desired to enter the monastery of the Grande Charreuse, a habitation from which women The story runs that the Princess dressed herself in boy's clothes and accompanied her husband to the institution. The gates were opened to them, tion. The gates were opened to them, and the Prince sent his card to the father superior, with a line to the effect that he was accompanied by a round of the building the word was received that the father would like to see the Prince and "his friend." Going upstairs they were received by the smil-ing monk, who cordially invited them to join him in an appetizing luncheon. The Princess endeavored to make the best of the situation, but she was not put any the more at her ease by the fact that the monk kept gazing sharply at her.

At last he exclaimed suddenly:
"Catch it, young man!" at the same time throwing at her a large pear. The Princess was startled, and, thrown completely off her guard, made a mo-tion to grab up her skirt, the absence of which she overlooked in her confusion, Then the father stopped smiling and ald with great gravity:

"I beg your pardon, madam, but ladies are not allowed in the monastery.
I must ask you to wait outside until the Prince has finished his inspection.' And outside she had to go, the reverend father bowing her from the room with most elaborate politen

The Democracy of Children.

ONE amusing trait in children is their unconscious democracy. They are nearly always democratic when permitted any latitude. The desire for playmates levels sense of caste, if any exists.
