SEEN' THE SIGHTS

"Hello, Ike," said a St. Thomasite in the Garner last night, "I've had the good darndest time of my life since I came to town. My pals, Thirsty Sam and Hickory Johnson, are out there flirtn' with the Texas Maidens and ringin' up canes with green backs tied to 'em, but I'm so clean tuckered out I can't stay with them. Say, ain't the shows great though. Us fellers has took in everything on the street, but Hickory and Thirsty Sam are too gay fer me. Hickory is awful stuck on the Merry Maidens. He says he wants to buy the show and take them all out to his farm so's the cattle would be able to see them. Some fellers got hold of Thirsty Sam at dinner time and the next I saw of him he was shaking hands with the colored people in the Old Plantation. We got Thirsty Sam away from the dark ladies at last and called at a few hotels. Then we meandered up to see the alligator man. I wanted to stab the critter with my jack knife to see if he was real, but they wouldn't let me. Gosh all hemlock, but he was a creepy lookin' feller. I asked him what he had to eat. Snakes and frogs mostly," says he, "and I can tell you they're fine." But say, the Gypsy camp was all right. There's some fine gals in there, and the things they told us was wonderful. "You," she says, to Thirsty Sam, "are going to marry a beautiful blonde, and there's all kinds of money coming to you in a letter. Sam asked her to lend him five on account, but she wouldn't do it. That band with the big soldiers was great, but say, aren't they afraid of gettin' their knees sunburnt? One feller was playing the bagpipes this afternoon and another was dancing a jig to the music. Hickory thought he would try a hand at it, but he tried to do too many fancy steps, and first thing he knew he fell on his nice new hat and smashed it. This made Hickory so sore he said he was going over to throw balls at the wooden babies for cigars. I got so plum tuckered out though that I told him to kill a few babies for me and bring one of the cigars over here. When I get back home to-night my wife Mandy will be just achin' to hear all about the shows. Say, do you think I had better tell her about the pretty Texas Maidens? Well, I guess not."

LAORUSSE

BLENHEIM WON.

From the indications of the first two games of lacrosse seen here this year—the one on the 24th of May between Detroit and the Tecumseh and the other of yesterday between Blenheim and the Bugle Band team—Blenheim is going to see some excellent lacrosse this season.

Yesterday Blenheim, as is invariably the case, started off with a rush and before long had scored two goals, before the locals really got into the game.

When they did things were humming for a while and some of the best combination work ever witnessed on the Park was pulled off. At times, though, there was too much individual play which, with an occasional exception, counts for nothing as regards results.

However, there was an exception in this game. Degan, who was playing on the defense, carried the ball almost the total length of the field and scored the first goal for the locals.

Blenheim, however, got even and scored a few minutes later, making it 2-1 in favor of the visitors.

The Regiment boys scored again in the last quarter and a hard tussle followed. There was only a short time left to finish and the ball was down near the Blenheim flags continually but without result.

The battle ended. Blenheim 3, Bugle Band 2.

The play was rough at all times and one side was just about as bad as the other. Several of the players received nasty cracks. Tommy Higley, formerly of the Chatham team, played for the visitors, and in a vain endeavor to dislocate an electric light post was badly stunned, but pluckily returned to the field and played out the game.

Higley, Knight and Shillington starred for the "dry town," while for the local team Claude Brundage, Will Tackaberry and Reg. Oldershaw played in excellent style.

SIDE SHOT.

Dg in for the next one.

What do we care for one?

Degan's run was phenomenal.

Tommy Higley's game, all right.

A few good practises would do very well.

Eddie Mike Williston makes a good field captain.

More combination and less individual, please.

All the boys have something to remember the game by.

Referee Cornwall of Thamesville, gave splendid satisfaction.

All the boys played good games but showed lack of practice.

Naturally the boys from the temperance town were in good condition.

It's a good thing now and then to lose a game—just to encourage the sport. Hooley!

The line-up yesterday was as follows:

SATCHEL OF THE SATELLITE

Have a look!

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!!!

Good-bye, Street Fair, we'll miss you.

Everybody, even the weather man, was good to the Scotch.

It is said that Ald. McCoig felt very much put out on Thursday last.

Everybody, even the Mayor of Detroit, admired The Planet's Souvenir.

This is the last day of the Carnival. Don't forget to have your fun.

The Englishman could not be expected to admire the airs of the Killies.

Right this way for the big show. The only big show in The Planet, the Satellite.

James Fleming—Hoot, mon, but this air the Killie band played were eye ground.

The motions the aldermen made at the home plate would not pass muster in the Council.

I don't really think that everyone is buying a Planet Souvenir just because my picture is in it.

Archie Park—The musicians can all go way back and sit down when Pipe Major Beaton begins to play.

The dog sandwiches were much enjoyed by the boys at midnight. This was said to be the best entertainment provided.
