

WHAT WILL VERDICT BE?

Aldermen Will Give Deliverance on Bongard Charges.

Smallpox Ambulance and Tent Go to the Waterworks Yard.

Will Consider Local Improvement Scheme at Meeting To-morrow.

The Fire and Water Committee will meet to-night to give its deliverance on the charges made by Captain Bongard against the much abused sandecker. If the members, with one exception, vote to-night the way they have talked, the verdict will be that Bongard's charges as to the sacker being in bad shape when the city purchased it are not substantiated; that whatever damage was done was after it came into the city's possession; that it was capable at the time of the fire of doing the work and can still do it. Chairman Clarke will be held to receive no request from the Trades & Labor people to continue the investigation or postpone the verdict to-night. It is thought that this body will investigate on its own behalf and then make the result known. If there is any new evidence the Mayor says he would not object to the resolution closing the investigation being rescinded. Ald. Farrar may ask that this be done.

The Board of Health has had a good deal of difficulty getting a place to store the ambulance in which smallpox patients are transferred to the Isolation Hospital in the west end, and also the tent used for sheltering patients. The department spent $40 repairing the ambulance this year and it has been out in the weather ever since. The Board of Works officials thought their employees would feel a little skittish about the outfit being stored at the city yards. Finally consent was secured to place it in a corner of the Waterworks yard on John street.

The city has only the one case on its hands and the patient has practically recovered. He will be kept in quarantine until every possibility of contagion is past, which will not be long.

Building permits were issued today as follows:

A. W. Peene, brick stable on Charlton avenue, between Walnut and Aurora street, for the Armstrong Carriage Company, $3,000.

James Weir, two brick houses on King William, between Emerald and Tisdale streets, $3,000.

Thomas Honeymoon, frame house on Harvey street, between Sanford and Birch avenues, $200.

Alex. Ewing, brick warehouse, Ashley street, $300.

William Sparks, brick house on Cannon street, between Mary and Elgin streets, $1,500.

A meeting of the special committee appointed by the City Council to consider the scheme of local improvement for roads and sidewalks, with a view of submitting a by-law, at the next municipal election will be held to-morrow afternoon at 4.30.

The Markets Committee will meet this afternoon.

The Board of Works to-morrow will amend the by-law dealing with street car advertising. Complaints have been made about the old street car that runs around the city decorated with signs advertising the Bennett theatre, and the proposed amendment will prevent the company using these old cars for advertising purposes.

Philip Helbert, the sculptor who designed the Queen Victoria Memorial statue, called on Mayor Stewart today. The statue was shipped from Paris on November 10.

HORSE SHOW.

Man Hurt by Horse Stumbling Over a Hurdle.

New York, Nov. 18.—The annual period when New York society pays its tribute to the fancy bred horses had its beginning auspiciously when the 23rd annual horse show opened in Madison Square Garden to-day. This forenoon's session was devoted to the judging of hunters and jumpers, and the corinthian class, from which horses were to be selected to compete for ribbons in the finals of that class on Wednesday. The afternoon session was given over to the early classes of harness horses.

Nicholas Dunn, of Rye, N. Y., owner of many thoroughbreds, was severely injured while riding his brown gelding, Prince Chap, just before the show opened. Mr. Dunn took Prince Chap over a five-barred hurdle and the horse stumbled as he came down. Mr. Dunn was thrown clear, but the horse in his struggle to arise kicked him in the left side, breaking two ribs.

Mr. Dunn was able to drive to his hotel in a cab, and his condition was not considered serious.

LED BRIGADE.

Rockefeller Fought to Save His House From Fire.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 18.—W. Rockefeller, led the volunteer fire brigade of North Tarrytown to-day in subduing a blaze which threatened his magnificent country home, Rockwood Hall, and destroyed two stone cottages on the estate, together with a costly cow barn and several valuable animals. One Jersey bull was killed, valued at $15,000.

With the aid of the volunteers, Mr. Rockefeller organized a bucket brigade, which kept the flames away from Rockwood Hall. Lack of sufficient water on the estate rendered useless the heavy apparatus brought by the firemen.

Repeated efforts were made to save the animals imprisoned in the burning cow barn, but with the exception of a dozen head of blooded sheep, all were burned. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

A GOOD FIGURE.

Prof. Barton says a man's arm, neck and calf, should measure the same, there should be a difference of six to eight inches between the calf and thigh, thigh and waist, waist and chest inflated. These proportions are about the same in a woman, excepting that the waist and chest are slightly smaller.

Mr. Barton at his lecture on Health next Friday evening in Y. M. C. A. hall will illustrate how a man or woman may acquire a figure like this.

Editor Rufus M. Jones, of the American Friend, told the assembled Friends at Richmond, Ind., last week that he's hoping for a Quaker revival. "Two hundred years ago," he said, "there was a fair prospect that Quakerism, through its establishment everywhere, would become the prevailing religion of America; and after many lethargic years have passed by, again a field has opened, which, if the Quakers but seize it, the church cannot but be sought. This field is the adoption of a soul religion, a satisfying belief."
