The Late Sirdar Laid to Rest With Impressive Ceremony.

Egypt Objects to Certain Demands Made by Great Britain --- British Troops March Through Cairo --- France Will Stand by the Geneva Protocol.

EGYPT AGREES TO BRITISH DEMANDS.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 23. The Egyptian Government's reply to the British note in connection with the killing of Major Sir Lee Oliver Stack, Governor General of the Sudan and Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, agrees to Great Britain's demands for an apology, punishment of the assassins, and an indemnity of £500,000. It also promises to prevent any disturbances of the peace by demonstrations. The reply says the British demand regarding the Sudan breaks the status quo and is contrary to the constitution under which King Faud is Commander-in-Chief of the Egyptian Army. It considers the demand regarding the Gezira immigration project premature. The communication further says the position of foreign officials is regulated by diplomatic agreement and cannot be modified without the consent of Parliament. Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, the British High Commissioner, promptly replied to the Egyptian note, which was signed by Zagloul Pasha, the Egyptian Premier. General Allenby said that in view of the refusal of the Egyptians of the British requirements numbers five and six, instructions were being sent to the Sudan Government to effect the withdrawal from the Sudan of Egyptian officers and units with the specified charges resulting from these measures, so that the Sudan Government was at liberty to increase the area of irrigation in the Gezira district to an unlimited extent. General Allenby's reply to Zagloul requests the payment of the indemnity of £500,000 by noon Monday, and adds: "Your Excellency will learn in due course what action is being taken in view of your refusal of requirement number seven, regarding the protection of foreign interests."

FRANCE STANDS BY PROTOCOL.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(Can. Press)—Premier Herriot on Saturday received Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General to the League of Nations, according to the semi-official Havas Agency, and the Premier told the Secretary General that France would honor her signature to the Geneva Peace and Arbitration Protocol, and would not give up any of its essential provisions.

BRITISH TROOPS MARCH THROUGH CAIRO.

CAIRO, Nov. 23. Small anti-demonstrations were renewed in Cairo to-day by students. Afterwards British troops marched through the city. Two airplanes from Cairo flew over Tantah where some restlessness among the natives had been observed.

WAR STILL EXACTS ITS TOLL.

DUNKERQUE, France, Nov. 23. (Canadian Press Cable)—A mine that eluded the mine sweepers after the war, was brought up by fishing nets in the Dunkerque water to-day and exploded aboard a fishing boat, according to the semi-official Havas Agency. Nine fishermen were killed.

FESSEL RAMMED, CAPTAIN KILLED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. Capt. A. J. Wilson, of Fairhaven, Mass., master of the schooner Harry Letzer, was instantly killed at 2 A.M.

SATURDAY, WHEN HIS VESSEL WAS RAMPED AND LITERALLY CUT IN TWO BY AN UNIDENTIFIED STEAMER IN A FOG, THIRTY MILES SOUTH OF CAPE HATTERAS, ACCORDING TO INFORMATION BROUGHT HERE BY THE UNITED FRUIT LINER, CALAMORES, FROM CUBA.

KILLED GIRL BECAUSE SHE REJECTED HIS ATTENTIONS.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 23. Jealousy and unrequited love prompted Thomas Collinson, aged twenty-six of Sulbert, Matilda Township, to shoot and kill seventeen year old Beatrice Thorpe, at her home Saturday night. Collinson went to his home after the murder and left the revolver with which he committed the crime in his room, then proceeded to the house of his brother-in-law, Thomas Pawcett, a short distance from the scene of the tragedy, and there is said by the police to have confessed that he had killed the girl who had rejected his attentions. His arrest followed within a few hours of the shooting and he is now held in Cornwall Jail on a charge of murder.

SIRDAR LAID TO REST.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 22. The body of Major General Sir Lee Stack, Governor General of the Sudan and Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, a victim of assassins, was laid to rest to-day amid scenes made impressive by military display and solemnity. Huge crowds lined the streets held by troops who guarded the route of the cortege which at All Saints Church, where the services were held, a distinguished gathering was present. In this company were Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, British High Commissioner in Egypt, and Lady Allenby, former Premier Asquith who is on tour of Egypt, Prime Minister Zagloul Pasha, of the Egyptian Government, members of the Egyptian cabinet and the entire diplomatic corps in full regalia as well as leading representatives of every foreign community in Cairo. Lady Stack and her daughter were attended by Captain P. K. Campbell, the late Sirdar's Aide, who was slightly wounded during the attack on his chief but recovered sufficiently to be present. The ceremony was brief and of the simplest character. A long procession followed the body to the grave.

BRITAIN'S NOTE TO EGYPT.

CAIRO, Nov. 22. A British note handed to Zagloul Pasha, Egyptian Premier to-day demands proper apology in connection with the killing of Major General Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar, and an indemnity of 500,000 pounds. The note furthermore holds in reserve the revision of conditions governing the retirement of British officials from Egypt, and insists upon the retention of British judicial and financial advisors. The note also demands the prohibition of political demonstrations and the withdrawal of Egyptian officers and units from the Sudan, the Sudanese troops to come under control of the Sudan Government proper.

Notes on Votes

There is a remarkable passage in one of Cromwell's letters, which states that: "Things obtained by force, though never so good in themselves, would be both less to their honour and less likely to last than concessions made to argument and reason." The vote is at last being granted to women all over the world, as a measure of justice, militant tactics are no more needed; and there is every indication that justice is at last to be granted to the women of Newfoundland. The women are getting busy. Small meetings are being held, and enthusiasm grows.

It is not true that a man's experience in his own business teaches him how to carry on the business of a city. Some years ago, a fashionable caterer was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature, and was appointed a member of the committee on filling up the South Boston flats. Another member said to him scornfully: "What do you know about filling up flats, anyway?" The caterer answered quietly: "That has been my business for twenty years."

The answer was good, as a joke; but, as a matter of fact, what had his experience of planning dinners taught him about the way to turn tide mud into solid ground? What does the butcher learn from his business about the way to pave a street, or the baker about the best way to build a sewer, or the candle-stick maker about the best way to lay out a park, or to choose school teachers, or policemen, or to run a city hospital? Does a minister learn from his profession how to keep the streets clean, or a lawyer how to conduct a public school, or a doctor how to put out a fire?

A man's business, at best, gives him special knowledge only in regard to one or two departments of city affairs. Women's business, as mothers and housekeepers, also gives them special knowledge in regard to some important department of public work, those relating to children, schools, playgrounds, the protection of the weak and young, morals, the care of the poor, etc.

For what lies outside the scope of their own experience, men and women alike must rely upon experts. All they need, as voters, is sense enough and conscience enough to elect honest and capable persons to have charge of these things.

The Secret of Getting on With Men

"Being able to get on well with men isn't a trick that somebody can teach you," says Harry H. Bassett, President of the Buick Motor Company, in Forbes Magazine (N.Y.). "Honestly, I believe that the spirit of humanness, or kindness, or whatever you want to call it, has to be born in a man. Some men simply have it. It so happens that I was born with a genuine feeling of—well, you might call it warmth towards my fellowmen. I like people. I like to help other fellows to get along. I get more fun out of my job than out of anything else. I know I am very fond of all the 'boys,' as you tell me, and you find that some of them think that I play fair and square with them. I am gratified to know it."

"We get along all right together. The key men have been with the organization for years, all working together most harmoniously."

"You know," he added, "the policy of the General Motors Corporation tends to make a man feel satisfied and secure for the future. No Corporation in America has a more generous plan for enabling its key men to attain a competency. Managers' Securities Plan—feel that we are working in interest, not only of the Corporation, but of ourselves. Under the leadership of such men as Mr. Pierre duPont and President Sloan, we are all inspired to do our level best."

Overloading a Horse Swiss Canton Finds it Hard

Must an animal be worked until he breaks a blood vessel or drops dead, before the law takes cognizance? Cruelty begins very far short of taking the extreme strength of the animal. God has given to men and animals an excess of strength, to be husbanded carefully and used occasionally. But to tax that strength to its full limit unnecessarily is against nature, breaks down the man or the animal before his or its time, and is a cruelty against which men, having speech and reason, may protect themselves, but against which animals, having neither speech nor reason like men, must look to them for protection.

ALTDRE, Switzerland, Nov. 15.—After several weeks of search for a volunteer executioner for the murderer of a young girl, the district authorities of the Canton of Uri succeeded in securing the services of a mechanic, who agreed to do the beheading with the help of a gas worker.

A Mighty Film at the Nickel To-Night

"THE SPAILERS" EXCELS ALL SCREEN EFFORTS.

Rex Beach's story of the Klondike gold rush, "The Spailers" has lost none of its glamor, none of its vividness and none of its charm in the years that have passed since it was written, and first put upon the screen by Colonel William Selig. The new version, produced by Jesse D. Hampton will be shown at the Nickel Theatre to-night.

The new production is on a bigger and more spectacular scale than was the original and the great fight staged between the hero and villain far surpasses that of a decade ago.

"The Spailers" is a true picture of life in the Klondike gold rush and the attempt of certain unprincipled adventurers to jump the claims of the early miners.

The story deals with a great war party of courageous men and reckless headies bound for the gold fields of the Yukon.

Therefore, movie fans, if you want to see an interesting, enjoyable, very exciting picture, full of screen celebrities, the Nickel Theatre is yours for the next three days.

An additional feature will be in the form of a musical treat by the well known local singer, Eleanor Mews, L.T.C.M., who will appear in a Costume Act entitled "All on a Summer's Day." This is something that will surely appeal to your musical taste.
