of the County Court of your county before the referee, whose report would fix the amount of damages and by whom the costs should be paid. The costs are on the County Court scale and would depend upon the nature of the case. You had better consult a solicitor, as it would be necessary for you to have one should you take legal proceedings.

THORNHURST—Farmer A. May, 1892 to Farmer B for a term of one day, and to Farmer B has returned, taking out and upon the land the manure made during the winter and summer of 1892, and in so tending it should be done by the owner tenant, who has put in fall wheat on the fall plowing this fall. The lease provides that farmer B will during the term of manure part of said manure on premises as now or should be brought upon cultivated, and that he will not impoverish or soil, and will spend, use and employ the husbandlike manner upon the same, and all the straw and dung which shall be arise, accrue or be made from taking out
B be charged with the same. Yes; his not doing so manure of his covenant, for which he is li-in an action for damages, the measure of which is the cost of not having done so he should have done.

He Understood the Language.
I was engrossed in my magazine at train speed on, and did not notice the bride and groom had entered the car at small station; but my attention attracted to the couple in rather an away—two telegraphic signals.
Two young men who sat opposite to other across the aisle were making remarks about them by ticking with their knives on the metal arm of the seat.
"Sweet as a peach, isn't she?" ticked the young man whose seat was immediately behind the new arrivals.
"Yes," replied the other. "The couple, evidently."
The young man who sits to his left

"See how close we are," says the woman. "They are holding each other's hands, aren't they?"

"No; but they are exchanging glances."

"How on earth do you suppose a man like that managed to catch such a woman?"

"Give it up. She rarely could be anything in him to admire."

"Their lips were just made for kisses."

"That's what they were."

"Say!"

"Well?"

"When the train gets to the next station, I'm going to reach over and kiss her."

"You wouldn't dare."

"Yes, I would. She'd think it was a compliment."

husband, you know.

Their telegraphic conversation here, for the bridegroom had taken pocket-knife and commenced to tickle marriage on the arm of his seat:

"When the train gets to the next chump proposes to reach off hammer your two heads together till they drop out. See?"

Soon after that two passengers have been seen sneaking off to the car; and they remained in the same only while the train went through tunnel, but until they reached the station.

This micrograph shows the interface between the epoxy resin and the carbon fiber reinforcement. The carbon fiber is visible as a dark, textured region on the right, while the epoxy resin is the lighter, smoother region on the left. The interface appears to be a thin, dark line, indicating a strong bond between the two materials.
