Until a comparatively few years ago Fez, the capital of Morocco, had practically a monopoly in the manufacture of the Turkish national head-dress named after it—the "fez"—as it was supposed that the peculiar dull crimson color of the tasseled skull cap could only be obtained by using the dye made from a certain berry largely grown in the neighborhood of the city, which is also much used in dyeing of Morocco leather. Now, however, France, Turkey and Austria, compete for what is still a lucrative trade.

Crossley and Hunter No Longer Embarrass Hearers.

Evangelists Have Learned to Be Patient—Draw Big Audiences.

A series of revival services which may extend over the balance of the month was commenced at the Dundas Street Methodist Church yesterday by Rev. H. T. Crossley, the well-known evangelist, who for nineteen years has been working in conjunction with Rev. John E. Hunter. Mr. Hunter was not present, as he remained in Bradford, Pa., to close a month's series of services which have been attended with great success. He will reach the city tomorrow and from that time until the close of the meetings will be assisting each evening. Mr. Crossley dealt with two interesting subjects yesterday—"The Secret of Revivals" and "From Guilt to Glory." The former was in the Methodist Church to continue evangelistic services there for another week, which she has consented to do. Yesterday she preached two sermons to large congregations, and it is felt that her work is doing good.

FUNERAL OF R. ARMITAGE.
The funeral of the late Richard Armitage, of London Township, was conducted by his brethren of the Orange Lodge yesterday afternoon. He had been past master in the Orange-men, and the funeral was one of the largest ever held in the township. A memorial service was held in St. John's Church by Rev. Canon Richardson, and the remains were interred in the graveyard there.
SWIMMING AT EIGHTY.
Mr. Nelson Mills, of Marysville, Mich., father of Mrs. James R. Elliott, of this city, had an experience that was remarkable for one over 80 years of age. While walking around his utes before the service began. People continued to come until after 7 o'clock, and about one hundred were compelled to stand throughout the service. Many were unable to get inside the doors. The meetings are to be continued every night, Saturday excepted, beginning at 7:45. Mr. Crossley occupying the first quarter of an hour in singing.

SECRET OF REVIVALS.
Speaking at the morning service on the "Secret of Revivals," Mr. Crossley said in part:
"Those people who pray as if all depended upon God's work as if the salvation of hundreds depended alone upon the work they would do in his name, are absolutely right. If people pray rightly, there is no doubt about their working correctly."
"I suppose the majority of you pray one way or another, but I would not wonder if there are two or three who do not even say 'prayers.' If there are those who do not speak to their God, I want to say you are very low down in the scale of humanity."
"What would you think if you did not speak to your earthly father? You would be a base ingrate. What, then, are you, if you do not speak to your heavenly father?"

Rev. H. T. Crossley. Rev. J. E. Hunter.

"Why, there are some of you fathers and mothers here who would say it would break your heart if your children did not speak to you, yet maybe you would not speak to your heavenly father. I want you all to rise to that state of treating the Lord with courtesy by speaking to him."
"Some people say that if you use of asking for what we want when we say that the Lord will supply all our needs. We pray not to make God more willing to give, but to prevent our hearts for the reception of the blessing."
"There is a mystery about prayer. The text showeth us that the influence of prayer is almost magical. I never heard of a remarkable answer to prayer in my life, although some people say the answers are remarkable. It would be remarkable if God did not answer us. That is why we come to pray with confidence and receive richer blessings than we have ever known before, and with him."

COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF CANADIAN FORCES IN LONDON

Successor of Gen. O'Grady-Haley Pays First Visit to West.

Distinguished Career of Lord Dundonald—His Work in Africa.

Lord Dundonald, the successor of Gen. O'Grady-Haley as commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces, is at present on his first visit to the London military district. He arrived in the city on Sunday from Ottawa, and will spend the greater part of the week in and around London. Lord Dundonald reached here on Sunday morning on the C. P. R., accompanied by the quartermaster-general, Col. W. H. Cotton, and his aide-de-camp, Capt. D. O. C. Newton, of the Fifty-seventh Imperial Regiment. During the afternoon he went to Wolsey Barracks, visiting the several departments, later having dinner with Col. Young.

LORD DUNDONALD'S CAREER.
Lord Dundonald, who is one of the dock at Marysville, according to the Port Huron Times, he pitched head-first into the St. Clair River. The old gentleman swam around as easily as a boy of 19 years, pulled himself out, went to the house and changed his clothing, and in twenty minutes was on his way to Marine City.

DEATH OF MRS. A. HORNING.
Mrs. A. Horning died Saturday night at the residence of her son, Mr. C. E. Horning, 7 Maryboro Place, after an illness that had lasted for a year or more. Previous to coming to this city about eight years ago the late Mrs. Horning resided in Guelph. She was in her 67th year and is survived by three sons, Charles E., station ticket agent of the Grand Trunk in this city; John, of Brantford; and Melvin, of St. George. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning to the Grand Trunk station, the remains to be taken to Harnesburg. Services will be held at the house at 9 o'clock.

A VANCOUVER TRIBUTE.
The Vancouver World makes the following editorial comment of the acceptance of the call there by Rev. C. C. Owen, of Memorial Church: "To many who have been acquainted with his remarkable record in the past, the announcement contained in yesterday's issue of the World that Rev. C. C. Owen, of the London, Ont., Memorial Church, had consented to accept the appointment to the rectorship of Christ Church in this city, was very agreeable news. Mr. Owen is an energetic worker, a favorite with young and old, a man of strong and attractive personality, and an eloquent and forceful preacher. When he reaches Vancouver he will be welcomed heartily by all denominations as a worthy addition to the city's pulpit strength."

not think it remarkable, either. If you entertain worldliness or wickedness you might as well spare your breath as to pray. Don't pray if you cherish wickedness, but if you want to have it removed you will be heard."
"We do not have to wait ten days or ten hours for the spirit. He is in this house now as much as he was in the upper room at Pentecost. The divine fire is here, and if we will only open our hearts he will consume all the dross. Let us throw our heart's door wide open and let the spirit come in, and see what will happen with reference to ourselves. We will see great displays of his power."

CAN BE SAVED IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS
"From Guilt to Glory" was the subject of the evening talk by Mr. Crossley, who, in speaking of music, said there was no such thing as harmonious music apart from the Christian influence. "People talk about the exquisite music they heard among the barbarous tribes. They don't know 'Old Hundred' from 'Yankee Doodle.' There is no such thing as harmonious music among the barbarous tribes."
"There are two classes of people here. There are those in guilt and those justified by faith. To the former I will say that they must take the first step. The disposition is to look to every other power but the Lord. On the way to glory we shall be privileged to lead a life of prayer. On the way to glory we shall be privileged to be workers with him. That makes Christianity a delight, being workers regiment in the former capacity in 1870, and relinquished the command in January, 1899.

COMMANDED A CAMEL CORPS.
The monotony was broken in 1884-5, when, as Lord Cochrane, he commanded the Second Life Guards detachment of the Sudan Camel Corps in the Nile expedition, for the relief of Gordon. It was he who carried the dispatches to Korti announcing the occupation of the desert column in the march to Metammeh. For his services he received a mention in dispatches and a brevet lieutenant-colonelcy.

COMMAND OF SECOND LIFE GUARDS.
Lord Cochrane became the Earl of Dundonald in succession to his father in 1885, and ten years later attained command of the Second Life Guards. Always of an extremely ingenious turn of mind, he turned his attention later to the production of a galloping carriage for machine guns, and his first pattern, adapted to the Maxim, elicited warm approval. Subsequently an improved campaign carriage, designed by him was fitted to another machine gun, and, on the outbreak of the war in South Africa, Lord Dundonald received permission to take one of these guns on a galloping carriage for trial at the front.

HIS WORK IN BOER WAR.
Arrived in Natal, Lord Dundonald was soon found employment on a more extended scale than the trial of machine guns involved. Gen. Buller, in his operations for the relief of Ladysmith, was glad to have the help of a fine and experienced cavalry officer, and he took charge of a mixed mounted brigade, and Dundonald's work, especially in the attempt, which terminated unfortunately in the withdrawal from Union Kop, was evidently of a very high order of mounted tactics. His seizure of Potgieter's Drift and his subsequent

ANNIVERSARY SERMONS WERE PREACHED AT NEW ST. JAMES

Rev. John Neil, of Toronto, Elucidates the Westminster Confession of Faith.

Some of the central truths of the Westminster Confession of Faith formed the basis of the morning sermon by Rev. John Neil, B. A., of Toronto, who occupied the pulpit of New St. James' Presbyterian Church at the anniversary services yesterday. Both morning and evening the church was comfortably filled, and the congregation enjoyed greatly the sermons by the visiting clergyman.

In the morning he took his text from I. Thessalonians, v., 21: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is true." Speaking of the Westminster Confession of Faith, he said that if it were swept away the Presbyterian Church would remain. At the same time it was well to hold fast to those doctrines. The central truth of the Westminster Confession of Faith was the sovereignty of God. It taught the doctrine of the elect, and the non-elect. Some theologians claimed that if this doctrine were believed by certain men it would have a tendency to make them careless and say, "If I am to be saved, I will be saved; if I am to be damned, I will be damned." That this should not be, he cited Dwight L. Moody, Spurgeon and other evangelistic leaders, who were Calvinists.

He had heard it said that the doctrine of predestination taught infant terror as meaning that all who died in infancy, whether the children of Christians, infidels or heathen, would be saved. God was the sovereign of the individual conscience. His sovereignty had reference also to the government of the church. It was not the King nor the Pope, but God, who ruled the church. In regard to nearly all the other doctrines of the Westminster Confession of Faith, they were much the same in other denominations, many of which had taken the wording of their doctrine from the Presbyterian Shorter Catechism. The document was the best product of the best men of that period and had stood for 250 or more years. It had done marvelous work and ought to be preserved in its integrity. The congregation of St. James' gives upon the celebration of its anniversary, a special anniversary offering, which yesterday amounted to $254. When it is kept in mind that this is practically one of the young congregations of the city, the size of this collection will be accepted as evidence of its gratifying growth under the guidance of Rev. Mr. MacGillivray, and of the spirit of generosity that actuates the members.

interest in its unraveling, but render it all the more enjoyable.
