The Premier was given a magnificent reception, and, after a charming little girl had presented him with roses, Mr. Ross at once entered upon his interesting address. Mr. Ross spoke of his position as a Canadian and a Liberal, pointing with pride to the record of the party in its broad lines of tario had any substantial grievance against the Liberal party. It would be an advertisement for us in the old land, and would give us more confidence in ourselves and our methods. If the Conservatives were in power they would certainly have menioned these things."

Mr. Ross next inquired whether those engaged in manufacturing industries had any grievances, and quoted the Conservative organizer, Mr. Wright, who had said that the Ontario labor laws are the best in the world. He a few days ago stated that choice, had no complaint against any factory laws or laws for the protection of the great many ill-bred bulls are offered working men, women and girls, or daily on the Toronto markets. readily forgotten. Suicide of Nicholas Flood Davin.

The news we publish of the death, by suicide, at Winnipeg, of Nicholas shock to thousands in Canada. The particulars appear elsewhere.

We may take occasion to refer at another time to the career and characteristics of Mr. Davin. If it be true, as the first reports state, that poor, kindly Davin hurried, unbidden, into the presence of his Maker, because of either temporary or permanent troupolicy, contending that no class in On- bles, he took an entirely wrong view of the right way to face troubles. The Outlook for Cattle.

Complaints are coming from Toronto owing to the poor quality of cattle that are being offered on the Toronto market. The offerings consisted principally of feeding bulls and common to inferior butcher's cattle. A noteworthy characteristic is the preponwell-bred steers were very scarce. A

This may or may not speak well for cation that the farmers are anxious to rid themselves of such stock to replace it by thoroughbreds, then we may entertain hopes for the better. A great number of cattle, including Shorthorn, Galloway, Polled Angus and Hereford breeds, have been imported, and the advantage in breeding thoroughbred stock is becoming generally recognized. The thoroughbred stock is at present for the most part retained for breeding purposes. and the influence of our importations on common stock is not as marked as is desirable. Where there are so many inferior bulls a considerable time is necessary before the effect of pure breeds will become at all mark-

The mongrel stockers and feeders, according to authentic reports, are not worth from fifty cents to one dollar per hundredweight of what choice well-bred ones would bring. The farmers of the Province will do well to effort should be put forth to use better bulls in their breeding stock. Of course, it is evident that other things must be considered as well as the mere raising of good breeds of cattle. Good stabling is an item quite as important as good feed. Stock barns are yearly becoming more numerous, and with the general failure of the wheat crop, doubtless farmers will be induced to make more of a specialty of raising cattle that will meet the demands of the markets.

ODILON BOUCHER

A Well-Known French-Canadian Gen tleman Writes an Interesting Letter.

The personal experiences of men and women in their own words is almost always very interesting reading, especially when there is something in common between the reader and the writer.

A man who has traveled in China will always read with interest the letters of a Chinese traveler; and in the same way, if anyone writes describing a personal experience, all who have had similar experiences will read his statements with interest.

The letter of Mr. Boucher will therefore be read and appreciated by everyone who has suffered with that dis tressing and dangerous disease, Dyspepsia. From St. Paul, Montmagny county, Que., Mr. Boucher writes: "I have had Dyspepsia and all the pains and distress that go with that terrible malady.

"I was not able to eat anything except milk. The suffering I endured was past all description. 'I tried many remedies, but none of them even relieved me. At last I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and determined to make one more trial. I am very glad that I did so, for I was almost instantly relieved, and continued the treatment until now I am cured and as well as ever I was. "I used in all eleven boxes. This may have been more than was really necessary, but I wanted to make sure, and I am glad that I did so."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any case of Dyspepsia. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured Mr. Boucher, and they will cure any other dyspeptic who gives them a fair trial as he did. Such strong statements from one who has had the personal experience should convince the most skeptical that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is a remedy for Dyspepsia and all Stomach troubles, and one that is no experiment but a tried and proven cure.

Three Trainmen Killed Near Birmingham, Mich.

COLLISION

A Toronto Workman's Fatal Fall-Several Other Casualties.

Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 18 .- Three trainmen were crushed to death in a head-on collision today between freight trains on the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railway, at a curve five miles west of here. The dead are: R. Moffat, engineer, Detroit; H. Luce, fireman, Detroit; Otto of the road for thirteen years. He belonged to Forest, Ont. Luce had only been with the road four weeks. He was 25 years old, and came from Owosso, Mich. There were two carloads of hogs just behind the engine, and the animals were literally torn to pieces. One of the saddest circumstances in connection with the death of Engineer Richard Moffatt and Fireman H. Luce, was that both men were engaged to be married.

TRAGEDY IN WINNIPEG

Suicide of Nicholas Flood Davin, Ex-M. P.-Put a Bullet Through His Head.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18 .- Citizens of Winnipeg were startled and shocked this evening, when it became known that Nicholas Flood Davin, the well-known and popular ex-M.P. for West Assinibola, had ended his life by shooting himself. He drove to the Clarendon Hotel, where he was staying, and stated his intention Neurenberg, brakeman, Clarkston, of taking the west train, which leaves Mich. Moffat had been in the employ shortly after 4 p.m. He went to his room, packed his grip, and sent it down to the office by the porter.

The clerk, noticing that it was time for Mr. Davin to start, sent the porter upstairs to call him. The porter rapped several times at the door, and, not geting any response, became alarmed and called the housekeeper. The door was opened with a pass-key, when a shocking spectacle met their eyes, for there lay the dead body of Mr. Davin. His eyes were closed, and his face looked as calm and peaceful as if he was just asleep. The clothes on his body, however, showed the appalling truth, being soaked with blood.

He had placed the revolver in his mouth, and the bullet passed out through the back of his head. Death must have been instantaneous. The revolver was still in his hand. room, packed his grip, and sent it down been instantaneous. The revolver was still in his hand.

An investigation showed that the deceased had gone to his room, locked the door, and, taking out the key, laid it on the dressing table. He must have then laid down on the bed and shot himself.

There was nothing left by him to give any explanation why he did it, and it is generally credited to despondency, caused by financial embarrassment and other troubles. He was aged 58, and leaves a widow. Nicholas Flood Davin was born at Kil-
